PREFACE

THE present edition of Donne's poems grew out of my work as a teacher. In the spring of 1907, just after I had published a small volume on the literature of the early seventeenth century, I was lecturing to a class of Honours students on the 'Metaphysical poets'. They found Donne difficult alike to understand and to appreciate, and accordingly I undertook to read with them a selection from his poems with a view to elucidating difficult passages and illustrating the character of his 'metaphysics', the Scholastic and scientific doctrines which underlie his conceits. The only editions which we had at our disposal were the modern editions of Donne's poems by Grosart and Chambers, but I did not anticipate that this would present any obstacle to the task I had undertaken. About the same time the Master of Peterhouse asked me to undertake the chapter on Donne, as poet and prose-artist, for the Cambridge History of English Literature. The result was that though I had long been interested in Donne, and had given, while at work on the poetry of the seventeenth century, much thought to his poetry as a centre of interest and influence, I began to make a more minute study of the text of his poems than I had yet attempted.

The first result of this study was the discovery that there were several passages in the poems, as printed in Mr. Chambers' edition, of which I could give no satisfactory explanation to my class. At the close of the session I went to Oxford and began in the Bodleian a rapid collation of the text of that edition with the older copies, especially of 1633. The conclusion to which

I came was that, excellent in many ways as that edition is, the editor had too often abandoned the reading of 1633 for the sometimes more obvious but generally weaker and often erroneous emendations of the later editions. As he records the variants this had become clear in some cases already, but an examination of the older editions brought out another fact,—that by modernizing the punctuation, while preserving no record of the changes made, the editor had corrupted some passages in such a manner as to make it impossible for a student, unprovided with all the old editions, to recover the original and sometimes quite correct reading, or to trace the error to its fountain-head.

My first proposal to the Delegates of the Clarendon Press was that I should attempt an edition of Donne's poems resting on a collation of the printed texts; that for all poems which it contains the edition of 1633 should be accepted as the authority, to be departed from only when the error seemed to be obvious and certain, and that all such changes, however minute, should be recorded in the notes. In the case of poems not contained in the edition of 1633, the first edition (whether 1635, 1649, 1650, or 1669) was to be the authority and to be treated in the same fashion. Such an edition, it was hoped, might be ready in a year. I had finished my first collation of the editions when a copy of the Grolier Club edition came into my hands, and I included it in the number of those which I compared throughout with the originals.

While the results of this collation confirmed me in the opinion I had formed as to the superiority of the edition of 1633 to all its successors, it showed also that that edition was certainly not faultless, and that the text of those poems which were issued only in the later editions was in general very carelessly edited and corrupt, especially of those poems which were added for the first time in 1669. This raised the question, what use was to be made of the manuscript copies of the poems in correcting the errors of the edition? Grosart had based his whole text on one or two manuscripts in preference to the editions. Mr. Chambers, while wisely refusing to do this, and adopting the editions as the basis of his text, had made frequent reference to the manuscripts and adopted corrections from them. Professor Norton made no use of the manuscripts in preparing the text of his edition, but he added in an Appendix an account of one of these which had come into his hands, and later he described some more and showed clearly that he believed corrections were to be obtained from this source. Accordingly I resolved to examine tentatively those which were accessible in the British Museum, especially the transcript of three of the Satyres in Harleian MS. 5110.

A short examination of the manuscripts convinced me that it would be very unsafe to base a text on any single extant manuscript, or even to make an eclectic use of a few of them, taking, now from one, now from another, what seemed a probable emendation. On the other hand it became clear that if as wide a collation as possible of extant manuscripts were made one would be able to establish in many cases what was, whether right or wrong, the traditional reading before any printed edition appeared.

A few experiments further showed that one, and a very important, result of this collation would be to confirm the trustworthiness of 1633, to show that in places where modern editors had preferred the reading of some of the later editions, generally 1635 or 1669, the text of 1633 was not only intrinsically superior but had the support of tradition, i. e. of the majority of the manuscripts. If this were the case, then it was also possible that the traditional, manuscript text might afford corrections when 1633 had fallen into error. At the same time a very cursory examination of the manuscripts was sufficient to show that many of them afforded an infinitely more correct and intelligible text of those poems which were not published in 1633 than that contained in the printed editions.

Another possible result of a wide collation of the manuscripts soon suggested itself, and that was the settlement of the canon of Donne's poems. One or two of the poems contained in the old editions had already been rejected by modern editors, and some of these on the strength of manuscript ascriptions. But on the one hand, no systematic attempt had been made to sift the poems, and on the other, experience has shown that nothing is more unsafe than to trust to the ascriptions of individual, unauthenticated manuscripts. Here again it seemed to the present editor that if any definite conclusion was to be obtained it must be by as wide a survey as possible, by the accumulation of evidence. No such conclusion might be attainable, but it was only thus that it could be sought.

The outcome of the investigation thus instituted has been fully discussed in the article on the Text and Canon of Donne's Poems in the second volume, and I shall not attempt to summarize it here. But it may be convenient for the student to have a quite brief statement of what it is that the notes in this volume profess to set forth.

Their first aim is to give a complete account of the variant readings of the original editions of 1633, 1635, 1639, 1649-50-54 (the text in these three is identical), and 1669. This was the aim of the edition as originally planned, and though my opinion of the value of many of the variants of the later editions has undergone considerable abatement since I was able to study them in the light afforded by the manuscripts, I have endeavoured to complete my original scheme; and I trust it may be found that nothing more important has been overlooked than an occasional misprint in the later editions. But I know from the experience of examining the work of my precursors, and of revising my own work, that absolute correctness is almost unattainable. It has been an advantage to me in this part of the work to come after Mr. Chambers and the Grolier Club editors, but neither of these editions records changes of punctuation.

The second purpose of the notes is to set forth the evidence of the manuscripts. I have not attempted to give anything like a full account of the variant readings of these, but have recorded so much as is sufficient for four different purposes.

(1) To vindicate the text of 1633. I have not thought it necessary to detail the evidence in cases where no one has disputed the 1633 reading. If the note simply records the readings of the editions it may be assumed that the manuscript evidence, so far as it is explicit (the manuscripts frequently abound in absurd errors), is on the side of 1633. In other cases, when there is something to be said for the text of the later editions, and especially when modern editors have preferred the later reading (though I have not always called attention to this) I have set forth the evidence in some detail. At times I have mentioned each manuscript, at others simply all the MSS., occasionally just MSS. This last means generally that all the positive evidence before me was in favour of the reading, but that my collations were silent as to some of the manuscripts. My collators, whether myself or those who worked for me, used Mr. Chambers' edition because of its numbered lines. Now if Mr. Chambers had already adopted a 1635 or later reading the tendency of the collator—especially at first, before the importance of certain readings had become obvious—was to pass over the agreement of the manuscript with this later reading in silence. In all important cases I have verified the reading by repeated reference to the manuscripts, but in some of smaller importance I have been content to record the general trend of the evidence. I have tried to cite no manuscript unless I had positive evidence as to its reading.

(2) The second use which I have made of the manuscript evidence is to justify my occasional departures from the text of the editions, whether 1633 (and these are the departures which call for most justification) or whatever later edition was the first to contain the poem. In every such case the reader should see at a glance what was the reading of the first edition, and on what authority it has been altered. My aim has been a true text (so far as that was attainable), not a reprint; but I have endeavoured to put the reader in exactly the same position as I was myself at each stage in the construction of that text. If I have erred, he can (in a favourite phrase of Donne's) 'control' me. This applies to spelling and punctuation as well as to the words themselves. But two warnings are necessary. When I note a reading as found in a number of editions, e.g. 1635 to 1654 (1635-54), or in all the editions (1633-69), it must be understood that the spelling is not always the same throughout. I have generally noted any variation in the use of capitals, but not always. The spelling and punctuation of each poem is that of the first edition in which it was published, or of the manuscript from which I have printed, all changes being recorded. Again, if, in a case where the words and not the punctuation is the matter in question, I cite the reading of an edition or some editions followed by a list of agreeing manuscripts, it will be understood that any punctuation given is that of the editions. If a list of manuscripts only is given, the punctuation, if recorded, is that of one or two of the best of these.

In cases where punctuation is the matter in question the issue lies between the various editions and my own sense of what it ought to be. Wherever it is not otherwise indicated the punctuation of a poem is that of the first edition in which it appeared or of the manuscript from which I have printed it. I have not recorded every variant of the punctuation of later editions, but all that affect the sense while at the same time not manifestly absurd. The punctuation of the manuscripts is in general negligible, but of a few manuscripts it is good, and I have occasionally cited these in support of my own view as to what the punctuation should be.

(3) A third purpose served by my citation of the manuscripts is to show clearly that there are more versions than one of some poems. A study of the notes to the Satyres, The Flea, The Curse, Elegy XI: The Bracelet, will make this clear.

(4) A fourth, subordinate and occasional, purpose of my citation of the manuscripts is to show how Donne's poems were understood or misunderstood by the copyists. Occasionally a reading which is probably erroneous throws light upon a difficult passage. The version of P at p. 34, ll. 18-19, elucidates a difficult stanza. The reading of Q in The Storme, l. 38,

Yea, and the Sunne

for the usual

I, and the Sunne

suggests, what is probably correct but had not been suspected by any editor, that 'I' here, as often, is not the pronoun, but 'Aye'.

The order of the poems is that of the editions of 1635 onwards with some modifications explained in the Introduction. In Appendix B I have placed all those poems which were printed as Donne's in the old editions (1633 to 1669), except Basse's Epitaph on Shakespeare, and a few found in manuscripts connected with the editions, or assigned to Donne by competent critics, all of which I believe to be by other authors. The text of these has been as carefully revised as that of the undoubted poems. In Appendix C I have placed a miscellaneous collection of poems loosely connected with Donne's name, and illustrating the work of some of his fellow-wits, or the trend of his influence in the occasional poetry of the seventeenth century.

The work of settling the text, correcting the canon, and preparing the Commentary has been done by myself. It was difficult to consult others who had not before them all the complex mass of evidence which I had accumulated. On some five or six places in the text, however, where the final question to be decided was the intrinsic merits of the readings offered by the editions and by the manuscripts, or the advisability of a bolder emendation, I have had the advantage of comparing my opinion with that of Sir James Murray, Sir Walter Raleigh, Dr. Henry Bradley, Mr. W. A. Craigie, Mr. J. C. Smith, or Mr. R. W. Chapman.

For such accuracy as I have secured in reproducing the old editions, in the text and in the notes, I owe much to the help of three friends, Mr. Charles Forbes, of the Post Office, Aberdeen, who transcribed the greater portion of my manuscript; Professor John Purves, of University College, Pretoria, who during a visit to this country read a large section of my proofs, comparing them with the editions in the British Museum; and especially to my assistant, Mr. Frederick Rose, M.A., now Douglas Jerrold Scholar, Christ Church, Oxford, who has revised my proofs throughout with minute care.

I am indebted to many sources for the loan of necessary

material. In the first place I must acknowledge my debt to the Carnegie Trust for the Universities of Scotland for allowing me a grant of £40 in 1908-9, and of £30 in 1909-10, for the collation of manuscripts. Without this it would have been impossible for me to collate, or have collated for me, the widely scattered manuscripts in London, Petworth, Oxford, Cambridge, Manchester, and Boston. Some of my expenses in this connexion have been met by the Delegates of the Clarendon Press, who have also been very generous in the purchase of necessary books, such as editions of the Poems and the Sermons. At the outset of my work the Governing Body of Christ Church, Oxford, lent me the copy of the edition of 1633 (originally the possession of Sir John Vaughan (1603-1674) Chief Justice of the Common Pleas) on which the present edition is based, and also their copies of the editions of 1639, 1650, and 1654. At the same time Sir Walter Raleigh lent me his copy of the edition of 1669. At an early stage of my work Captain C. Shirley Harris, of 90 Woodstock Road, Oxford, communicated with me about Donne's use of the word 'Mucheron', and he was kind enough to lend me both his manuscript, P, and the transcript which he had caused to be made. By the kindness of Lord Ellesmere I was permitted to collate his unique copy of the 1611 edition of the Anatomy of the World and Funerall Elegie. While I was doing so, Mr. Strachan Holme, the Librarian, drew my attention to a manuscript collection of Donne's poems (B), and with his kind assistance I was enabled to collate this at Walkden, Manchester, and again at Bridge-water House. Mr. Holme has also furnished a photograph of the title-page of the edition of 1611. To the authorities of Trinity College, Dublin, and of Trinity College, Cambridge, I am indebted not only for permission to collate their manuscripts on the spot, but for kindly lending them to be examined and compared in the Library at King's College, Aberdeen ; and I am indebted for a similar favour to the authorities of Queen's College, Oxford. In Dublin I met Professor Edward Dowden, and no one has been a kinder friend to my enterprise. He put at my disposal his interesting and valuable manuscript (D) and all his collection of Donne's works. He drew my attention to a manuscript (O'F) in Ellis and Elvey's catalogue for 1903. Mr. Warwick Bond was good enough to lend me the notes he had made upon this manuscript, which ultimately I traced to Harvard College Library. With Professor Dowden, Mr. Edmund Gosse has given me the most generous and whole-hearted assistance. He lent me, as soon as ever I applied to him, his valuable and unique Westmoreland MS., containing many poems which were not included in any of the old editions. Some of these Mr. Gosse had already printed in his own delightful Life and Letters of John Donne (1899), but he has allowed me to reprint these and to print the rest of the unpublished poems for the first time. From his manuscript (G) of the Progresse of the Soule, or Metempsychosis, I have also obtained important emendations of the text. This is the most valuable manuscript copy of this poem. It will be seen that Mr. Gosse is a very material contributor to the completeness and interest of the present edition.

To the Marquess of Crewe I am indebted for permission to examine the manuscript M, to which a note of Sir John Simon's had called my attention ; and to Lord Leconfield for a like permission to collate a manuscript in his possession, of which a short description is given in the Hist. MSS. Commission, Sixth Report, p. 312, No. 118. With Mr. Whitcomb's aid I was enabled to do this carefully, and he has subsequently verified references. Another interesting manuscript (JC) was lent me by Mr. Elkin Mathews, who has also put at my disposal his various editions of the Lives of Walton and other books connected with Donne. Almost at the eleventh hour, Mr. Geoffrey Keynes, of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, discovered for me a copy of the 1612 edition of the Anniversaries, for which I had asked in vain in Notes and Queries. I owe to him, and to the kind permission of Mr. Edward Huth and the Messrs. Sotheby, a careful collation and a photograph of the title-page.

For the Commentary Dr. Norman Moore supplied me with a note on the Galenists and Paracelsians; and Dr. Gaster with the materials for a note on Donne's use of Jewish Apocrypha. Professor Picavet, of the Sorbonne, Paris, was kind enough to read in proof my notes on Donne's allusions to Scholastic doctrines, and to make suggestions. But I have added to these notes as they passed through the Press, and he must not be made responsible for my errors. Mr. W. Barclay Squire and Professor C. Sanford Terry have revised my transcripts and proofs of the music.

I desire lastly to express my gratitude to the officials of the Clarendon Press for the care with which they have checked my proofs, the patience with which they have accepted my changes and additions, and the trouble they have taken to secure photographs, music, and other details. Whatever faults may be found—and I doubt not they will be many—in my part of the work, I think the part for which the Press is responsible is wellnigh faultless.

NOTE

The typography of the edition of 1633 has been closely followed, in its use for example of 'u' and 'v'; and of long 'f', which is avoided in certain combinations, e. g. 'sk' (but P. 12, l. 27. 'afkes' 1633) and frequently 'sb'; nor is it generally used when the letter following 's' is elided; but there are one or two exceptions to this.

In the following places I have printed a full 'and' where 1633 contracts to '&' owing to the length of the line :

In the following places 'm' or 'n', indicated by a contraction, has been printed in full : Page 12, l. 4. Her whō; do. & whō; P. 37, l. 17. whē (bis); P. 82, l. 46. thē; P. 90, l. 2. frō; P. 128, l. 28. There are a few examples of the same changes in the poems printed from the later editions, but I have not reproduced any of these editions so completely as 1633, every poem in which, with the exception of Basse's An Epitaph upon Shakespeare (1633. p. 149, i. e. 165) has been here reprinted.

Or this time I must speake only to you : at another, Readers may perchance serve my turne ; and I thinke this a way very free from exception, in hope that very few will have a minde to confesse themselves ignorant.

If you looke for an Epistle, as you have before ordinary publications, I am sory that I must deceive you ; but you will not lay it to my charge, when you shall consider that this is not ordinary, for if I should say it were the best in this kinde, that ever this Kingdome hath yet-seene ; he that would doubt of it must goe out of the Kingdome to enforme himselfe, for the best judgments, within it, take it for granted.

You may imagine (if it please you) that I could endear it unto you, by saying, that importunity drew it on ; that had it not beene presented here, it would have come to us from beyond the Seas ; (which perhaps is true enough,) That my charge and paines in procuring of it hath beene such, and such. I could adde hereto, a promise of more correctnesse, or enlargement in the next Edition, if you shall in the meane time content you with this. But these things are so common, as that I should profane this Peece by applying them to it ; A Peece which who so takes not as he findes it, in what manner soever, he is unworthy of it, sith a scattered limbe of this Author, hath more amiable-nesse in it, in the eye of a discerner, then a whole body of some other ; Or, (to expresse him best by himselfe)

By Hilyard drawne, is worth a history

By a worse Painter made;—

If any man (thinking I speake this to enflame him for the vent of the Impression) be of another opinion, I shall as willingly spare his money as his judgement. I cannot lose so much by him as hee will by himselfe. For I shall satisfie my selfe with the conscience of well doing, in making so much good common.

Howsoever it may appeare to you, it shall suffice mee to enforme you, that it hath the best warrant that can bee, publique authority, and private friends.

There is one thing more wherein I will make you of my counsell, and that is, That whereas it hath pleased some, who had studyed and did admire him, to offer to the memory of the Author, not long after his decease, I have thought I should do you service in presenting them unto you now ; onely whereas, had I placed them in the beginning, they might have serv'd for so many Encomiums of the Author (as is usuall in other workes, where perhaps there is need of it, to prepare men to digest such stufte as follows after,) you shall here finde them in the end, for whosoever reades the rest so farre, shall perceive that there is no occasion to use them to that purpose ; yet there they are, as an attestation for their sakes that knew not so much before, to let them see how much honour was attributed to this worthy man, by those that are capable to give it.
Farewell.

You have him living to Eternity.

Dedication

To the Right Honourable
William Lord Craven Baron of Hamsted-Marsham.

My Lord,

Any of these Poems have, for severall impressions, wandred up and down trusting (as well they might) upon the Authors reputation; neither do they now complain of any injury but what may proceed either from the kindnesse of the Printer, or the curtesie of the Reader; the one by adding something too much, lest any spark of this sacred fire might perish undiscerned, the other by putting such an estimation upon the wit & fancy they find here, that they are content to use it as their own: as if a man should dig out the stones of a royall Amphitheatre to build a stage for a countrey show. Amongst all the monsters this unlucky age has teemed with, I finde none so prodigious, as the Poets of these later times, wherein men as if they would level understandings too as well as estates, acknowledging no inequality of parts and Judgements, pretend as indifferently to the chaire of wit as to the Pulpit, & conceive themselves no lesse inspired with the spirit of Poetry then with that of Religion: so it is not onely the noise of Drums and Trumpets which have drowned the Muses harmony, or the feare that the Churches ruine wil destroy their Priests likewise, that now frights them from this Countrey, where they have been so ingenuously received, but these rude pretenders to excellencies they unjustly own who profanely rushing into Minervaes Temple, with noysome Ayres blast the lawrell

The Epistle Dedicatory.

w^{ch} thunder cannot hurt. In this sad condition these learned sisters are fled over to beg your L^{ps}. protection, who have been so certain a patron both to arts and armes, and who in this generall confusion have so intirely preserved your Honour, that in your Lordship we may still read a most perfect character of what England was in all her pompe and greatnesse, so that although these poems were formerly written upon severall occasions, and to severall persons, they now unite themselves, and are become one pyramid to set your Lordships statue upon, where you may stand like Armed Apollo the defendor of the Muses, encouraging the Poets now alive to celebrate your great Acts by affording your countenance to his poems that wanted onely so noble a subject.

My Lord,

Your most humble servant

JOHN DONNE.

TO JOHN DONNE.

Donne, the delight of Phoebus, and each Muse,
Who, to thy one, all other braines refuse;
Whose every work, of thy most early wit,
Came forth example, and remaines so, yet:
Longer a knowing, than most wits doe live;
And which no'n affection praise enough can give!
To it, thy language, letters, arts, best life,
Which might with halfe mankind maintain a strife;
All which I mean to praise, and, yet, I would;
But leave, because I cannot as I should!

TO LUCY, COUNTESSE OF BEDFORD,
with M. DONNES Satyres.

L*Ucy*, you brightnesse of our Spheare, who are
Life of the Muses day, their morning Starre!
If works (not th'Authors) their own grace should look
Whose poems would not wish to be your book?
But these, desir'd by you, the makers ends
Crown with their own. Rare Poems ask rare friends.
Yet, Satyres, since the most of mankind bee
Their unavoided subject, fewest fee:
For none ere took that pleasure in sins sence,
But, when they heard it tax'd, took more offence.
They, then, that living where the matter is bred,
Dare for these Poems, yet, both ask, and read,
And like them too; must needfully, though few,
Be of the best: and 'mongst those best are you;
Lucy, you brightnesse of our Spheare, who are
The Muses evening, as their morning-Starre.

B. JON.

TO JOHN DONNE.

WHO shall doubt, Donne, where I a Poet bee,
When I dare send my Epigrammes to thee?
That so alone canst judge, so'alone do'st make:
And, in thy censures, evenly, dost take
As free simplicity, to dis-avow,
As thou hast best authority, t'allow.
Read all I send: and, if I finde but one
Mark'd by thy hand, and with the better stone,
My title's seal'd. Those that for claps doe write,
Let punees, porters, players praise delight,
And, till they burst, their backs, like asses load:
A man should seek great glory, and not broad.

The good-morrow.

I Wonder by my troth, what thou, and I
 Did, till we lov'd? were we not wean'd till then?
 But suck'd on countrey pleasures, childishly?
 Or snorted we in the seaven sleepers den?
 T'was so; But this, all pleasures fancies bee. 5
 If ever any beauty I did see,
 Which I desir'd, and got, t'was but a dreame of thee.

And now good morrow to our waking foules,
 Which watch not one another out of feare;
 For love, all love of other fights controules, 10
 And makes one little roome, an every where.
 Let sea-discoverers to new worlds have gone,
 Let Maps to other, worlds on worlds have showne,
 Let us possesse one world, each hath one, and is one.

My face in thine eye, thine in mine appeares, 15
 And true plaine hearts doe in the faces rest,
 Where can we finde two better hemispheres
 Without sharpe North, without declining West?

Womans constancy.

NOW thou hast lov'd me one whole day,
To morrow when thou leav'st, what wilt thou say?
Wilt thou then Antedate some new made vow?
Or say that now
We are not just those persons, which we were?
Or, that oathes made in reverentiall feare
Of Love, and his wrath, any may forswear?
Or, as true deaths, true maryages untie,
So lovers contracts, images of those,
Binde but till sleep, deaths image, them unloose? 10
Or, your owne end to Justifie,
For having purpos'd change, and falsehood; you
Can have no way but falsehood to be true?
Vaine lunatique, against these scapes I could Dispute, and conquer, if I would, 15
Which I abstaine to doe,
For by to morrow, I may thinke so too.

The undertaking.

I Have done one braver thing
 Then all the Worthies did,
 And yet a braver thence doth spring,
 Which is, to keepe that hid.

It were but madnes now t'impart
 The skill of specular stone,
 When he which can have learn'd the art
 To cut it, can finde none.

So, if I now should utter this,
 Others (because no more
 Such stufte to worke upon, there is,) 10
 Would love but as before.

But he who lovelinesse within
 Hath found, all outward loathes,
 For he who colour loves, and skinne, 15
 Loves but their oldest clothes.

If, as I have, you also doe
 Vertue'attir'd in woman fee,
 And dare love that, and say so too,
 And forget the Hee and Shee; 20

And if this love, though placed so,
 From prophane men you hide,
 Which will no faith on this bestow,
 Or, if they doe, deride:

Then you have done a braver thing 25

I Can love both faire and browne,
 Her whom abundance melts, and her whom want betraies,
 Her who loves lonenesse best, and her who maskes and plaies,
 Her whom the country form'd, and whom the town, 5
 Her who beleeves, and her who tries,
 Her who still weepes with spungie eyes,
 And her who is dry corke, and never cries;
 I can love her, and her, and you and you,
 I can love any, so she be not true.

Will no other vice content you? 10
 Wil it not serue your turn to do, as did your mothers?
 Or have you all old vices spent, and now would finde out others?
 Or doth a feare, that men are true, torment you?
 Oh we are not, be not you so,
 Let mee, and doe you, twenty know. 15
 Rob mee, but binde me not, and let me goe.
 Must I, who came to travaile thorow you,
 Grow your fixt subject, because you are true?

Venus

Venus heard me sigh this fong,
 And by Loves sweetest Part, Variety, she swore, 20
 She heard not this till now; and that it should be so no more.
 She went, examin'd, and return'd ere long,
 And said, alas, Some two or three
 Poore Heretiques in love there bee,
 Which thinke to stablisch dangerous constancie. 25
 But I have told them, since you will be true,
 You shall be true to them, who'are false to you.

Loves Vsury.

FOR every houre that thou wilt spare mee now,
 I will allow,
 Ufurious God of Love, twenty to thee,
 When with my browne, my gray haire equall bee;
 Till then, Love, let my body raigne, and let 5
 Mee travell, sojourn, snatch, plot, have, forget,
 Resume my last yeares reliēt: thinke that yet
 We'had never met.
 Let mee thinke any rivalls letter mine,
 And at next nine 10
 Keepe midnights promise; mistake by the way
 The maid, and tell the Lady of that delay;
 Onely let mee love none, no, not the sport;
 From country grasse, to comfitures of Court,
 Or cities quelque chofes, let report 15

This

This bargaine's good; if when I'am old, I bee
 Inflam'd by thee,
 If thine owne honour, or my shame, or paine,
 Thou covet most, at that age thou shalt gaine.
 Doe thy will then, then subject and degree,
 And fruit of love, Love I submit to thee,
 Spare mee till then, I'll beare it, though she bee
 One that loves mee.

The Canonization.

FOR Godfake hold your tongue, and let me love,
 Or chide my palfie, or my gout,
 My five gray haire, or ruin'd fortune flout,
 With wealth your state, your minde with Arts improve,
 Take you a course, get you a place,
 Observe his honour, or his grace,
 Or the Kings reall, or his stamped face
 Contemplate, what you will, approve,
 So you will let me love.
 Alas, alas, who's injur'd by my love?
 What merchants ships have my sighs drown'd?
 Who faies my teares have overflow'd his ground?
 When did my colds a forward spring remove?
 When did the heats which my veines fill
 Adde one more to the plague Bill?
 Soldiers finde warres, and Lawyers finde out still Litigious men, which quarrels move
 Though she and I do love.

Call us what you will, wee are made such by love;
 Call her one, mee another flye, 20
 We're Tapers too, and at our owne coft die,
 And wee in us finde the'Eagle and the Dove.
 The Phœnix ridle hath more wit
 By us, we two being one, are it.
 So to one neutrall thing both sexes fit, 25
 Wee dye and rife the fame, and prove
 Myfterious by this love.

Wee can dye by it, if not live by love,
 And if unfit for tombes and hearfe
 Our legend bee, it will be fit for verfe; 30
 And if no peece of Chronicle wee prove,
 We'll build in fonnets pretty roomes;
 As well a well wrought urne becomes
 The greateft ashes, as halfe-acre tombes,
 And by these hymnes, all fhall approve 35
 Us Canoniz'd for Love:

And thus invoke us; You whom reverend love
 Made one anothers hermitage;
 You, to whom love was peace, that now is rage;
 Who did the whole worlds soule contract, and drove 40
 Into the glaffes of your eyes
 (So made such mirrors, and such spies,
 That they did all to you epitomize,)

The triple Foole.

I Am two fooles, I know,
 For loving, and for saying so
 In whining Poëtry;
 But where's that wiseman, that would not be I,
 If she would not deny? 5
 Then as th'earths inward narrow crooked lanes
 Do purge sea waters fretfull salt away,
 I thought, if I could draw my paines,
 Through Rimes vexation, I should them allay,
 Griefe brought to numbers cannot be so fierce, 10
 For, he tames it, that fetters it in verse.

But when I have done so,
 Some man, his art and voice to shew,
 Doth Set and sing my paine,
 And, by delighting many, frees againe 15
 Griefe, which verse did restraine.
 To Love, and Griefe tribute of Verse belongs,
 But not of such as pleases when'tis read,
 Both are increased by such songs:
 For both their triumphs so are published, 20
 And I, which was two fooles, do so grow three;
 Who are a little wise, the best fooles bee.

Lovers infinitenesse.

IF yet I have not all thy love,
 Deare, I shall never have it all,
 I cannot breath one other sigh, to move,
 Nor can intreat one other teare to fall,
 And all my treasure, which should purchase thee, 5
 Sighs, teares, and oathes, and letters I have spent.
 Yet no more can be due to mee,
 Then at the bargain made was ment,
 If then thy gift of love were partiall,
 That some to mee, some should to others fall, 10
 Deare, I shall never have Thee All.

Or if then thou gavest mee all,
 All was but All, which thou hadst then;
 But if in thy heart, since, there be or shall,
 New love created bee, by other men, 15
 Which have their stocks intire, and can in teares,
 In sighs, in oathes, and letters outbid mee,
 This new love may beget new feares,
 For, this love was not vowed by thee.
 And yet it was, thy gift being generall, 20
 The ground, thy heart is mine, what ever shall
 Grow there, deare, I should have it all.

Yet I would not have all yet,
 Hee that hath all can have no more,
 And since my love doth every day admit 25
 New growth, thou shouldst have new rewards in store;

Yesternight

Yesternight the Sunne went hence,
 And yet is here to day, 10
 He hath no desire nor fenſe,
 Nor halfe ſo ſhort a way:
 Then feare not mee,
 But beleewe that I ſhall make
 Speedier journeyes, ſince I take 15
 More wings and ſpurres then hee.

O how feeble is mans power,
 That if good fortune fall,
 Cannot adde another houre,
 Nor a loſt houre recall ! 20
 But come bad chance,
 And wee joyne to't our ſtrength,
 And wee teach it art and length,
 It ſelfe o'r us to'advance.

When thou figh't, thou figh't not winde,
 But figh't my ſoule away,
 When thou weep't, unkindly kinde,
 My lifes blood doth decay.
 It cannot bee
 That thou lov't mee, as thou ſay't, 30
 If in thine my life thou waſte,
 Thou art the beſt of mee.

Let not thy divining heart
 Forethinke me any ill,
 Deſtiny may take thy part, 35
 And may thy feares fulfill ;
 But thinke that wee
 Are but turn'd aſide to ſleepe;
 They who one another keepe
 Alive, ne'r parted bee. 40

The Legacie.

WHEN I dyed laſt, and, Deare, I dye
 As often as from thee I goe,
 Though it be but an houre agoe,
 And Lovers houres be full eternity,
 I can remember yet, that I 5
 Something did ſay, and ſomething did beſtow;
 Though I be dead, which ſent mee, I ſhould be
 Mine owne executer and Legacie.
 I heard mee ſay, Tell her anon,
 That my ſelfe, (that is you, not I,) 10
 Did kill me, and when I felt mee dye,
 I bid mee ſend my heart, when I was gone,
 But I alas could there finde none,
 When I had ripp'd me, and ſearch'd where hearts did lye;
 It kill'd mee againe, that I who ſtill was true, 15
 In life, in my laſt Will ſhould cozen you.
 Yet I found ſomething like a heart,
 But colours it, and corners had,
 It was not good, it was not bad,
 It was intire to none, and few had part. 20
 As good as could be made by art
 It ſeem'd; and therefore for our loſſes ſad,
 I meant to ſend this heart in ſtead of mine,
 But oh, no man could hold it, for twas thine.

A Feaver.

OH doe not die, for I shall hate
 All women so, when thou art gone,
 That thee I shall not celebrate,
 When I remember, thou wast one.

But yet thou canst not die, I know; 5
 To leave this world behinde, is death,
 But when thou from this world wilt goe,
 The whole world vapors with thy breath.

Or if, when thou, the worlds soule, goest,
 It stay, tis but thy carkasse then, 10
 The fairest woman, but thy ghost,
 But corrupt wormes, the worthyest men.

O wrangling schooles, that searce what fire
 Shall burne this world, had none the wit
 Unto this knowledge to aspire, 15
 That this her feaver might be it?

And yet she cannot waite by this,
 Nor long beare this torturing wrong,
 For much corruption needfull is
 To fuell such a feaver long. 20

These burning fits but meteors bee,
 Whose matter in thee is soone spent.
 Thy beauty, and all parts, which are thee,

Aire and Angels.

TWice or thrice had I loved thee,
 Before I knew thy face or name;
 So in a voice, so in a shapelesse flame,
Angells affect us oft, and worship'd bee;
 Still when, to where thou wert, I came, 5
 Some lovely glorious nothing I did see.
 But since my soule, whose child love is,
 Takes limmes of flesh, and else could nothing doe,
 More subtile then the parent is,
 Love must not be, but take a body too, 10
 And therefore what thou wert, and who,
 I bid Love aske, and now
 That it assume thy body, I allow,
 And fixe it selfe in thy lip, eye, and brow.

 Whilst thus to ballast love, I thought, 15
 And so more steddily to have gone,
 With wares which would sinke admiration,
 I saw, I had loves pinnace overfraught,
 Ev'ry thy haire for love to worke upon
 Is much too much, some fitter must be sought; 20
 For, nor in nothing, nor in things
 Extreme, and scatt'ring bright, can love inhere;
 Then as an Angell, face, and wings
 Of aire, not pure as it, yet pure doth weare,
 So thy love may be my loves spheare; 25
 Just such disparitie
 As is twixt Aire and Angells puritie,
 'Twixt womens love, and mens will ever bee.

Breake of day.

'TIs true, 'tis day; what though it be?
 O wilt thou therefore rise from me?
 Why should we rise, because 'tis light?
 Did we lie downe, because 'twas night?
 Love which in spight of darknesse brought us hether, 5
 Should in despight of light keepe us together.

Light hath no tongue, but is all eye;
 If it could speake as well as spie,
 This were the worst, that it could say,
 That being well, I faine would stay, 10
 And that I lov'd my heart and honor so,
 That I would not from him, that had them, goe.

Must businesse thee from hence remove?
 Oh, that's the worst disease of love,
 The poore, the foule, the false, love can 15
 Admit, but not the busied man.
 He which hath businesse, and makes love, doth doe
 Such wrong, as when a maryed man doth woove.

ALL Kings, and all their favorites,
 All glory of honors, beauties, wits,
 The Sun it selfe, which makes times, as they passe,
 Is elder by a yeare, now, then it was
 When thou and I first one another saw : 5
 All other things, to their destruction draw,
 Only our love hath no decay;
 This, no to morrow hath, nor yesterday,
 Running it never runs from us away,
 But truly keepes his first, last, everlasting day. 10

Two graves must hide thine and my coarfe,
 If one might, death were no divorce.
 Alas, as well as other Princes, wee,
 (Who Prince enough in one another bee,)
 Must leave at last in death, these eyes, and eares, 15
 Oft fed with true oathes, and with sweet salt teares;
 But foules where nothing dwells but love
 (All other thoughts being inmates) then shall prove
 This, or a love increased there above,
 When bodies to their graves, foules from their graves

And then wee shall be throughly blest,
 But wee no more, then all the rest;
 Here upon earth, we're Kings, and none but wee
 Can be such Kings, nor of such subjects bee.
 Who is so safe as wee? where none can doe

Communitie.

Good wee must love, and must hate ill,
 For ill is ill, and good good still,
 But there are things indifferent,
 Which wee may neither hate, nor love,
 But one, and then another prove,
 As wee shall finde our fancy bent.

If then at first wise Nature had
 Made women either good or bad,
 Then some wee might hate, and some chuse,
 But since shee did them so create,
 That we may neither love, nor hate,
 Onely this rests, All, all may use.

If they were good it would be feene,
 Good is as visible as greene,
 And to all eyes it selfe betrayes :
 If they were bad, they could not last,
 Bad doth it selfe, and others waite,
 So, they deserve nor blame, nor praise.

SOME man unworthy to be possessor
 Of old or new love, himselfe being false or weake,
 Thought his paine and shame would be lesser,
 If on womankind he might his anger wreake,
 And thence a law did grow,
 One might but one man know;
 But are other creatures so?

Are Sunne, Moone, or Starres by law forbidden,
 To smile where they list, or lend away their light?
 Are birds divorc'd, or are they chidden 10
 If they leave their mate, or lie abroad a night?
 Beasts doe no joyntures lose

DEare love, for nothing leffe then thee
 Would I have broke this happy dreame,
 It was a theame
 For reason, much too strong for phantasie,
 Therefore thou wak'd'st me wisely; yet 5
 My Dreame thou brok'st not, but continued'st it,
 Thou art so truth, that thoughts of thee suffice,
 To make dreames truths; and fables histories;
 Enter these armes, for since thou thought'st it best,
 Not to dreame all my dreame, let's act the rest. 10

As lightning, or a Tapers light,
 Thine eyes, and not thy noise wak'd mee;
 Yet I thought thee
 (For thou lovest truth) an Angell, at first sight,
 But when I saw thou sawest my heart, 15
 And knew'st my thoughts, beyond an Angels art,
 When thou knew'st what I dreamt, when thou knew'st when Excesse of joy would wake me, and cam'st then,
 I must confesse, it could not chuse but bee
 Prophane, to thinke thee any thing but thee. 20

Comming and staying shew'd thee, thee,
 But rising makes me doubt, that now,
 Thou art not thou.

Let me powre forth
 My teares before thy face, whil't I stay here,
 For thy face coines them, and thy stampe they beare,
 And by this Mintage they are something worth,
 For thus they bee 5
 Pregnant of thee;
 Fruits of much griefe they are, emblemes of more,
 When a teare falls, that thou fallest which it bore,
 So thou and I are nothing then, when on a divers shore.

On a round ball 10
 A workeman that hath copies by, can lay
 An Europe, Afrique, and an Asia,
 And quickly make that, which was nothing, All,
 So doth each teare,
 Which thee doth weare, 15

 Till thy teares mixt with mine doe overflow

O more

O more then Moone,
 Draw not up seas to drowne me in thy spheare, 20
 Weepe me not dead, in thine armes, but forbear
 To teach the sea, what it may doe too soone;
 Let not the winde
 Example finde,
 To doe me more harme, then it purpofeth; 25
 Since thou and I figh one anothers breath,
 Who e'r fighes most, is cruellest, and hafts the others death.

Endure the short scorne of a Bridegroomes play ?

That loving wretch that sweares,
'Tis not the bodies marry, but the mindes,

Which he in her Angelique findes,

The Flea.

MArke but this flea, and marke in this,
How little that which thou deny'st me is;

It suck'd me first, and now sucks thee,

And in this flea, our two bloods mingled bee;

Thou know'st that this cannot be said

A sinne, nor shame, nor losse of maidenhead,

Yet this enjoys before it wooe,

And pamper'd swells with one blood made of two,

And this, alas, is more then wee would doe.

Oh stay, three lives in one flea spare,

Where wee almost, yea more then marryed are.

This flea is you and I, and this

Our mariage bed, and mariage temple is;

The Message.

SEND home my long strayed eyes to mee,
 Which (Oh) too long have dwelt on thee;
 Yet since there they have learn'd such ill,
 Such forc'd fashions,
 And false passions,
 That they be
 Made by thee
 Fit for no good fight, keep them still.

Send home my harmlesse heart againe,
 Which no unworthy thought could staine;
 But if it be taught by thine
 To make jestings
 Of protestings,
 And crosse both
 Word and oath,
 Keepe it, for then 'tis none of mine. 10 15

Yet fend me back my heart and eyes,
 That I may know, and see thy lyes,
 And may laugh and joy, when thou
 Art in anguish
 And dost languish
 For some one
 That will none,
 Or prove as false as thou art now. 20

A not-

*A nocturnall upon S. Lucies day,
Being the shortest day.*

TIs the yeares midnight, and it is the dayes,
Lucies, who scarce feaven houres herself unmaskes,
 The Sunne is spent, and now his flasks
 Send forth light squibs, no constant rayes;
 The worlds whole sap is funke: 5
 The generall balme th'hydroptique earth hath drunk,
 Whither, as to the beds-feet, life is shrunke,
 Dead and enterr'd; yet all these seeme to laugh,
 Compar'd with mee, who am their Epitaph.

Study me then, you who shall lovers bee 10
 At the next world, that is, at the next Spring:
 For I am every dead thing,
 In whom love wrought new Alchimie.
 For his art did expresse
 A quintessence even from nothingnesse,
 From dull privations, and leane emptinesse:
 He ruin'd mee, and I am re-begot
 Of absence, darknesse, death; things which are not.

All others, from all things, draw all that's good,
 Life, soule, forme, spirit, whence they beeing have; 20
 I, by loves limbecke, am the grave
 Of all, that's nothing. Oft a flood
 Have wee two wept, and so
 Drownd the whole world, us two; oft did we grow
 To be two Chaoffes, when we did shew 25
 Care to ought else; and often absences
 Withdrew our soules, and made us carcaffes.

 And wee will some new pleasures prove
 Of golden fands, and cristall brookes,
 With filken lines, and silver hookes.

There will the river whispering runne
 Warm'd by thy eyes, more then the Sunne.
 And there the'inamor'd fish will stay,
 Begging themselves they may betray.

And

And whil't our foules negotiate there,
 Wee like sepulchrall statues lay;
 All day, the same our postures were,
 And wee said nothing, all the day. 20
 If any, so by love refin'd,
 That he foules language understood,
 And by good love were growen all minde,
 Within convenient distance flood,
 He (though he knew not which soule spake, 25
 Because both meant, both spake the same)
 Might thence a new concoction take,
 And part farre purer then he came.
 This Extasie doth unperplex
 (We said) and tell us what we love, 30
 Wee see by this, it was not fexe,
 Wee see, we saw not what did move:
 But as all severall foules containe
 Mixture of things, they know not what,
 Love, these mixt foules, doth mixe againe, 35
 And makes both one, each this and that.
 A single violet transplant,
 The strength, the colour, and the size,
 (All which before was poore, and scant,)
 Redoubles still, and multiplies. 40
 When love, with one another so
 Interinanimates two foules,
 That abler soule, which thence doth flow,
 Defects of lonelineffe controules.
 Wee then, who are this new soule, know, 45
 Of what we are compos'd, and made,
 For, th'Atomies of which we grow,
 Are foules, whom no change can invade.

 But

But O alas, so long, so farre
 Our bodies why doe wee forbear? 50
 They are ours, though they are not wee, Wee are
 The intelligences, they the spheare.
 We owe them thanks, because they thus,
 Did us, to us, at first convey,
 Yeeled their forces, sense, to us, 55
 Nor are droffe to us, but allay.
 On man heavens influence workes not so,
 But that it first imprints the ayre,
 Soe soule into the soule may flow,
 Though it to body first repaire. 60
 As our blood labours to beget
 Spirits, as like soules as it can,
 Because such fingers need to knit
 That subtile knot, which makes us man :
 So must pure lovers soules descend 65
 T'affections, and to faculties,
 Which sense may reach and apprehend,
 Else a great Prince in prison lies.
 To'our bodies turne wee then, that so
 Weake men on love reveal'd may looke ; 70
 Loves mysteries in soules doe grow,
 But yet the body is his booke.
 And if some lover, such as wee,
 Have heard this dialogue of one,
 Let him still marke us, he shall see 75
 Small change, when we're to bodies gone.

Loves Deitie.

I Long to talke with some old lovers ghost,
 Who dyed before the god of Love was borne:
 I cannot thinke that hee, who then lov'd most,
 Sunke so low, as to love one which did scorne.
 But since this god produc'd a destinie, 5
 And that vice-nature, custome, lets it be;
 I must love her, that loves not mee.
 Sure, they which made him god, meant not so much,
 Nor he, in his young godhead practis'd it;
 But when an even flame two hearts did touch, 10
 His office was indulgently to fit
 Actives to passives. Correspondencie
 Only his subject was; It cannot bee
 Love, till I love her, that loves mee.
 But every moderne god will now extend 15
 His vast prerogative, as far as Jove.
 To rage, to lust, to write to, to commend,
 All is the purluwe of the God of Love.
 Oh were wee wak'ned by this Tyrannie
 To ungod this child againe, it could not bee 20
 I should love her, who loves not mee.
 Rebell and Atheist too, why murmure I,
 As though I felt the worst that love could doe?
 Love might make me leave loving, or might trie
 A deeper plague, to make her love mee too, 25
 Which, since she loves before, I'am loth to see;
 Falshood is worfe then hate; and that must bee,
 If shee whom I love, should love mee.

 If they be blinde, then Love, I give them thee;
 My tongue to Fame; to 'Embassadours mine eares; 5
 To women or the sea, my teares.
 Thou, Love, hast taught mee heretofore
 By making mee serve her who'had twenty more,
 That I should give to none, but such, as had too much before.

My constancie I to the planets give; 10
 My truth to them, who at the Court doe live;
 Mine ingenuity and opennesse,
 To Jesuites; to Buffones my pensivenesse;
 My silence to'any, who abroad hath beene;
 My mony to a Capuchin. 15

 To love there, where no love receiv'd can be,

 To him for whom the paſſing bell next tolls,
 I give my phyſick bookes; my writen rowles
 Of Morall counſels, I to Bedlam give;
 My brazen medals, unto them which live 40

 All forrainers, mine Engliſh tongue.
 Thou, Love, by making mee love one
 Who thinkes her friendſhip a fit portion
 For yonger lovers, doſt my gifts thus diſproportion. 45

But thou which lov'st to bee
 Subtile to plague thy selfe, wilt say,
 Alas, if you must goe, what's that to mee ?
 Here lyes my businesse, and here I will stay : 20
 You goe to friends, whose love and meanes present
 Various content
 To your eyes, eares, and tongue, and every part.
 If then your body goe, what need you a heart ?

Well then, stay here; but know, 25
 When thou hast stayd and done thy most;
 A naked thinking heart, that makes no show,
 Is to a woman, but a kinde of Ghost;
 How shall shee know my heart; or having none,
 Know thee for one? 30
 Practise may make her know some other part,
 But take my word, shee doth not know a Heart.

Meet mee at London, then,
 Twenty dayes hence, and thou shalt see
 Mee fresher, and more fat, by being with men, 35

All women fhall adore us, and fome men;
And fince at fuch time, miracles are fought, 20
I would have that age by this paper taught
What miracles wee harmeleffe lovers wrought.

First, we lov'd well and faithfully,
Yet knew not what wee lov'd, nor why,
Difference of sex no more wee knew, 25

My

My fire of Passion, sighes of ayre,
 Water of teares, and earthly sad despaire, 10
 Which my materialls bee,
 But neere worne out by loves securitie,
 Shee, to my losse, doth by her death repaire,
 And I might live long wretched so
 But that my fire doth with my fuell grow. 15
 Now as those Active Kings
 Whose foraine conquest treasure brings,
 Receive more, and spend more, and soonest breake :
 This (which I am amaz'd that I can speake)
 This death, hath with my store 20
 My use encreas'd.
 And so my soule more earnestly releas'd,
 Will outstrip hers ; As bullets flowne before
 A latter bullet may o'rtake, the powder being more.

A Jeat Ring sent.

THou art not so black, as my heart,
 Nor halfe so brittle, as her heart, thou art ;
 What would'st thou say ? shall both our properties by thee
 bee spoke,
 Nothing more endlesse, nothing sooner broke ?

Marriage rings are not of this stufte ; 5
 Oh, why should ought lesse precious, or lesse tough
 Figure our loves ? Except in thy name thou have bid it say,
 I'am cheap, and nought but fashion, fling me'away.

Negative love.

I Never stoop'd so low, as they
Which on an eye, cheek, lip, can prey,
Seldome to them, which soare no higher
Then vertue or the minde to'admire,
For sense, and understanding may
Know, what gives fuell to their fire:
My love, though silly, is more brave,
For may I misse, when ere I crave,
If I know yet, what I would have.

If that be simply perfectest
Which can by no way be exprest
But Negatives, my love is so.
To All, which all love, I say no.
If any who decipher's best,
What we know not, our selves, can know,
Let him teach mee that nothing; This
As yet my ease, and comfort is,
Though I speed not, I cannot misse.

The Prohibition.

T Ake heed of loving mee,
 At leaft remember, I forbade it thee;
 Not that I fhall repaire my'unthrifty waft
 Of Breath and Blood, upon thy fighes, and teares,
 By being to thee then what to me thou waft; 5
 But, fo great Joy, our life at once outweares,
 Then, leaft thy love, by my death, frustrate bee,
 If thou love mee, take heed of loving mee.

Take heed of hating mee,
 Or too much triumph in the Victorie. 10
 Not that I fhall be mine owne officer,
 And hate with hate againe retaliate;
 But thou wilt lofe the ftile of conquerour,
 If I, thy conquelt, perifh by thy hate.
 Then, leaft my being nothing leffen thee, 15
 If thou hate mee, take heed of hating mee.

Yet, love and hate mee too,
 So, thefe extreames fhall neithers office doe;
 Love mee, that I may die the gentler way;

The Computation.

FOR the first twenty yeares, since yesterday,
 I scarce beleev'd, thou could'st be gone away,
 For forty more, I fed on favours past,
 And forty'on hopes, that thou would'st, they might last.
 Teares drown'd one hundred, and sighes blew out two, 5
 A thousand, I did neither thinke, nor doe,
 Or not divide, all being one thought of you ;
 Or in a thousand more, forgot that too.
 Yet call not this long life ; But thinke that I
 Am, by being dead, Immortall ; Can ghosts die ? 10

The Paradox.

NO Lover faith, I love, nor any other
 Can judge a perfect Lover ;
 Hee thinkes that else none can, nor will agree
 That any loves but hee :
 I cannot say I lov'd, for who can say 5
 Hee was kill'd yesterday ?
 Love with excessse of heat, more yong then old,
 Death kills with too much cold ;
 Wee dye but once, and who lov'd last did die,
 Hee that faith twice, doth lye : 10
 For though hee seeme to move, and stirre a while,
 It doth the sense beguile.

Such

Such life is like the light which bideth yet
 When the lights life is set,
 Or like the heat, which fire in solid matter
 Leaves behinde, two houres after. 15
 Once I lov'd and dy'd; and am now become Mine Epitaph and Tombe.
 Here dead men speake their last, and so do I;
 Love-flaine, loe, here I lye. 20

Farewell to love.

W Hilst yet to prove,
 I thought there was some Deitie in love
 So did I reverence, and gave
 Worship; as Atheists at their dying houre
 Call, what they cannot name, an unknowne power,
 As ignorantly did I crave:
 Thus when
 Things not yet knowne are coveted by men,
 Our desires give them fashion, and so
 As they waxe lesser, fall, as they rise, grow. 10
 But, from late faire
 His highnesse sitting in a golden Chaire,
 Is not lesse cared for after three dayes
 By children, then the thing which lovers so
 Blindly admire, and with such worship wooe;
 Being had, enjoying it decays: 15
 And thence,
 What before pleas'd them all, takes but one sense,
 And that so lamely, as it leaves behinde
 A kinde of forrowing dulnesse to the minde. 20

Along

Along with us, which we our selves produc'd;
 But, now the Sunne is juſt above our head,
 We doe thoſe ſhadowes tread;
 And to brave cleareneſſe all things are reduc'd.
 So whilſt our infant loves did grow,
 Diſguiſes did, and ſhadowes, flow, 10
 From us, and our cares; but, now 'tis not ſo.
 That love hath not attain'd the high'ſt degree,
 Which is ſtill diligent leſt others fee.
 Except our loves at this noone ſtay,
 We ſhall new ſhadowes make the other way. 15
 As the firſt were made to blinde
 Others; theſe which come behinde
 Will worke upon our ſelves, and blind our eyes.
 If our loves faint, and weſtwardly decline;
 To me thou, falſly, thine, 20
 And I to thee mine actions ſhall diſguiſe.
 The morning ſhadowes weare away,
 But theſe grow longer all the day,
 But oh, loves day is ſhort, if love decay.
 Love is a growing, or full conſtant light; 25
 And his firſt minute, after noone, is night.

 Made deaſe with his poore kindreds howling cries,
 Begging with few feign'd teares, great legacies, 10
 Thou would'ſt not weepe, but jolly,'and frolicke bee,
 As a ſlave, which to morrow ſhould be free;
 Yet weep'ſt thou, when thou ſeeſt him hungerly
 Swallow his owne death, hearts-bane jealousie.
 O give him many thanks, he'is courteous, 15
 That in ſuſpecting kindly warneth us.
 Wee muſt not, as wee us'd, flout openly,
 In ſcoffing riddles, his deformitie;
 Nor at his boord together being ſatt,
 With words, nor touch, ſcarce lookes adulterate. 20
 Nor when he ſwolne, and pamper'd with great fare,
 Sits downe, and ſnorts, cag'd in his basket chaire,
 Muſt wee uſurpe his owne bed any more,
 Nor kiſſe and play in his houſe, as before.

 Now

Now I see many dangers ; for that is 25
 His realme, his castle, and his dioceffe.
 But if, as envious men, which would revile
 Their Prince, or coyne his gold, themselves exile
 Into another countrie, and doe it there,
 Wee play' in another house, what should we feare? 30
 There we will scorne his household policies,
 His feely plots, and pensionary spies,
 As the inhabitants of Thames right side
 Do Londons Major ; or Germans, the Popes pride.

The Anagram.

Marry, and love thy Flavia, for, shee
 Hath all things, whereby others beautilous bee,
 For, though her eyes be small, her mouth is great,
 Though they be Ivory, yet her teeth be jeat,
 Though they be dimme, yet she is light enough, 5
 And though her harsh haire fall, her skinne is rough ;
 What though her cheeks be yellow, her haire's red,
 Give her thine, and she hath a maydenhead.
 These things are beauties elements, where these
 Meet in one, that one must, as perfect, please. 10

 If we might put the letters but one way,
 In the leane dearth of words, what could wee say?
 When by the Gamut some Musitions make
 A perfect song, others will undertake, 20
 By the same Gamut chang'd, to equall it.
 Things simply good, can never be unfit.
 She's faire as any, if all be like her,
 And if none bee, then she is singular.
 All love is wonder; if wee justly doe 25
 Account her wonderfull, why not lovely too?
 Love built on beauty, soone as beauty, dies,
 Chuse this face, chang'd by no deformities.
 Women are all like Angels; the faire be
 Like those which fell to worfe; but such as shee, 30
 Like to good Angels, nothing can impaire:
 'Tis lesse grieve to be foule, then to'have beene faire.
 For one nights revels, filke and gold we chuse,
 But, in long journeyes, cloth, and leather use.
 Beauty is barren oft; best husbands say, 35
 There is best land, where there is foulest way.
 Oh what a soveraigne Plaister will shee bee,
 If thy past sinnes have taught thee jealousy!
 Here needs no spies, nor eunuches; her commit
 Safe to thy foes; yea, to a Marmoset. 40

 Though hee hath oft sworne, that hee would remove

 Yet close and secrete, as our soules, we have beene.
 Though thy immortall mother which doth lye
 Still buried in her bed, yet will not dye,
 Takes this advantage to sleepe out day-light, 15
 And watch thy entries, and returns all night,
 And, when she takes thy hand, and would seeme kind,
 Doth search what rings, and armelets she can finde,
 And kissing notes the colour of thy face,
 And fearing least thou art swolne, doth thee embrace; 20

 And notes thy paleness, blushing, sighs, and sweats;

Thee

Thee to gull thine owne mother for my love.
 Thy little brethren, which like Faiery Sprights
 Oft skipt into our chamber, those sweet nights,
 And kist, and ingled on thy fathers knee,
 Were brib'd next day, to tell what they did see: 30
 The grim eight-foot-high iron-bound serving-man,
 That oft names God in oathes, and onely than,
 He that to barre the first gate, doth as wide
 As the great Rhodian Colossus stride,
 Which, if in hell no other paines there were, 35
 Makes mee feare hell, because he must be there:
 Though by thy father he were hir'd to this,
 Could never witnesse any touch or kisse.
 But Oh, too common ill, I brought with mee
 That, which betray'd mee to myemie: 40
 A loud perfume, which at my entrance cryed
 Even at thy fathers nose, so were wee spied.
 When, like a tyran King, that in his bed

 Had it beene some bad smell, he would have thought 45
 That his owne feet, or breath, that smell had wrought.
 But as wee in our Ile emprisoned,
 Where cattell onely, and diuerse dogs are bred,
 The pretious Vnicornes, strange monsters call,
 So thought he good, strange, that had none at all. 50

 Even my opprest shoes, dumbe and speechlesse were,

Sense, from distinguishing the sicke from sound;
 By thee the feely Amorous sucks his death
 By drawing in a leproous harlots breath; 60
 By thee, the greatest staine to mans estate
 Falls on us, to be call'd effeminate;
 Though you be much lov'd in the Princes hall,
 There, things that seeme, exceed substantiall;
 Gods, when yee fum'd on altars, were pleas'd well, 65
 Because you were burnt, not that they lik'd your smell;
 You are loathsome all, being taken simply alone,
 Shall wee love ill things joyn'd, and hate each one?

 Do but stoop downe, or kisse her upmost brow;
 Yet, if her often gnawing kisses winne
 The traitorous banke to gape, and let her in,
 She rusheth violently, and doth divorce
 Her from her native, and her long-kept course, 30
 And rores, and braves it, and in gallant scorne,
 In flattering eddies promising retorne,
 She flouts the channell, who thenceforth is drie;

Ranke sweaty froth thy Mistresse's brow defiles,
 Like spermatique issue of ripe menstuous boiles,
 Or like the skumme, which, by needs lawlesse law
 Enforc'd, Sanferra's starved men did draw 10
 From parboild shooes, and bootes, and all the rest
 Which were with any soveraigne fatnes blest,
 And like vile lying stones in saffronde tinne,
 Or warts, or wheales, they hang upon her skinne.
 Round as the world's her head, on every side, 15
 Like to the fatall Ball which fell on Ide,
 Or that whereof God had such jealousie,
 As, for the ravishing thereof we die.
 Thy head is like a rough-hewne statue of jeat,
 Where marks for eyes, nose, mouth, are yet scarce set; 20
 Like the first Chaos, or flat seeming face
 Of Cynthia, when th'earths shadowes her embrace.
 Like Proserpines white beauty-keeping chest,
 Or Joves best fortunes urne, is her faire brest.
 Thine's like worme eaten trunkes, cloth'd in seals skin, 25
 Or grave, that's dust without, and sinke within.
 And like that slender stalke, at whose end stands
 The wood-bine quivering, are her armes and hands.
 Like rough bark'd elmboughes, or the russet skin
 Of men late scurg'd for madnes, or for sinne, 30
 Like Sun-parch'd quarters on the citie gate,
 Such is thy tann'd skins lamentable state.
 And like a bunch of ragged carrets stand
 The short swolne fingers of thy gouty hand.
 Then like the Chymicks masculine equall fire, 35
 Which in the Lymbecks warme wombe doth inspire
 Into th'earths worthlesse durt a foule of gold,

Such cherishing heat her best lov'd part doth hold.
 Thine's like the dread mouth of a fired gunne,
 Or like hot liquid metall's newly runne 40
 Into clay moulds, or like to that Ætna
 Where round about the grasse is burnt away.
 Are not your kisses then as filthy, and more,
 As a worme sucking an invenom'd sore?
 Doth not thy fearefull hand in feeling quake, 45
 As one which gath'ring flowers, still feares a snake?
 Is not your last act harsh, and violent,
 As when a Plough a stony ground doth rent?
 So kisse good Turtles, so devoutly nice
 Are Priests in handling reverent sacrifice, 50
 And such in searching wounds the Surgeon is
 As wee, when wee embrace, or touch, or kisse.
 Leave her, and I will leave comparing thus,
 She, and comparisons are odious.

If t'were a shame to love, here t'were no shame,
Affection here takes Reverences name. 5
 Were her first yeares the Golden Age; That's true,
 But now shee's gold oft tried, and ever new.
 That was her torrid and inflaming time,
 This is her tolerable Tropique chyme. 10

 They were Loves graves; for else he is no where.
 Yet lies not Love dead here, but here doth sit 15
 Vow'd to this trench, like an Anachorit.
 And here, till hers, which must be his death, come,
 He doth not digge a Grave, but build a Tombe.
 Here dwells he, though he sojournes ev'ry where,
 In Progresse, yet his standing house is here. 20
 Here, where still Evening is; not noone, nor night;
 Where no voluptuousnesse, yet all delight.
 In all her words, unto all hearers fit,
 You may at Revels, you at Counsaile, fit.
 This is loves timber, youth his under-wood; 25
 There he, as wine in Iune, enrages blood,
 Which then comes seasonablest, when our tast
 And appetite to other things, is past.
Xerxes strange Lydian love, the Platane tree,
 Was lov'd for age, none being so large as shee, 30
 Or else because, being yong, nature did blesse
 Her youth with ages glory, Barrennesse.

The Dreame.

I Mage of her whom I love, more then she,
 Whose faire impressiō in my faithfull heart,
 Makes mee her Medall, and makes her love mee,
 As Kings do coynes, to which their stamps impart
 The value: goe, and take my heart from hence, 5
 Which now is growne too great and good for me:
Honours oppresse weake spirits, and our sense
 Strong objects dull; the more, the lesse wee see.
 When you are gone, and Reason gone with you,
 Then Fantasie is Queene and Soule, and all; 10
 She can present joyes meaner then you do;
 Convenient, and more proportionall.
 So, if I dreame I have you, I have you,
 For, all our joyes are but fantastickall.
 And so I scape the paine, for paine is true; 15
 And sleepe which locks up sense, doth lock out all.
 After a such fruition I shall wake,
 And, but the waking, nothing shall repent;
 And shall to love more thankfull Sonnets make,
 Then if more honour, teares, and paines were spent. 20
 But dearest heart, and dearer image stay;
 Alas, true joyes at best are dreame enough;
 Though you stay here you passe too fast away:
 For even at first lifes Taper is a snuffe.
 Fill'd with her love, may I be rather grown 25
 Mad with much heart, then ideott with none.

 That as these linkes were knit, our love should bee:
 Mourne I that I thy seavenfold chaine have lost;
 Nor for the luck fake; but the bitter cost.
 O, shall twelve righteous Angels, which as yet
 No leaven of vile foder did admit; 10
 Nor yet by any way have straid or gone
 From the first state of their Creation;
 Angels, which heaven commanded to provide
 All things to me, and be my faithfull guide;
 To gaine new friends, t'appease great enemies; 15
 To comfort my soule, when I lie or rise;
 Shall these twelve innocents, by thy severe
 Sentence (dread judge) my sins great burden beare?
 Shall they be damn'd, and in the furnace throwne,
 And punish't for offences not their owne? 20

Were they but Crownes of France, I cared not,
 For, most of these, their naturall Countreys rot
 I think possesseth, they come here to us, 25
 So pale, so lame, so leane, so ruinous;
 And howsoe'r French Kings most Christian be,
 Their Crownes are circumcis'd most Iewishly.
 Or were they Spanish Stamps, still travelling,
 That are become as Catholique as their King, 30
 Those unlickt beare-whelps, unfil'd pistolets
 That (more than Canon shot) availles or lets;
 Which negligently left unrounded, looke
 Like many angled figures, in the booke
 Of some great Conjurer that would enforce 35
 Nature, as these doe justice, from her course;
 Which, as the soule quickens head, feet and heart,
 As streames, like veines, run through th'earth's every part,
 Visit all Countries, and have silyly made
 Gorgeous France, ruin'd, ragged and decay'd; 40
Scotland, which knew no State, proud in one day:
 And mangled seventeen-headed Belgia.

 Almighty Chymiques from each minerall,
 Having by subtile fire a soule out-pull'd; 45
 Are dirtely and desperately gull'd:

Or tak'ſt thou pride to break us on the wheel,
 And view old Chaos in the Pains we feel?
 Or have we left undone ſome mutual Right,
 Through holy fear, that merits thy deſpight? 20

 And, where my own ſad truth may expiate
 Thy wrath, to make her fortune run my fate:
 So blinded Juſtice doth, when Favorites fall,
 Strike them, their houſe, their friends, their followers all.
 Was't not enough that thou didſt dart thy fires 35
 Into our blouds, inflaming our deſires,
 And made'ſt us ſigh and glow, and pant, and burn,
 And then thy ſelf into our flame did'ſt turn?

 Yet went we not still on with Constancie?
 Have we not kept our guards, like spie on spie? 45
 Had correspondence whilst the foe stood by?
 Stolln (more to sweeten them) our many blisses
 Of meetings, conference, embracements, kisses?
 Shadow'd with negligence our most respects?
 Varied our language through all dialects, 50
 Of becks, winks, looks, and often under-boards
 Spoke dialogues with our feet far from our words?
 Have we prov'd all these secrets of our Art,
 Yea, thy pale inwards, and thy panting heart?
 And, after all this passed Purgatory, 55
 Must sad divorce make us the vulgar story?
 First let our eyes be rivited quite through
 Our turning brains, and both our lips grow to:
 Let our armes clasp like Ivy, and our fear
 Freefe us together, that we may stick here, 60
 Till Fortune, that would rive us, with the deed
 Strain her eyes open, and it make them bleed:
 For Love it cannot be, whom hitherto

 I will not look upon the quickning Sun,
 But straight her beauty to my sense shall run;
 The ayre shall note her soft, the fire most pure; 75
 Water suggest her clear, and the earth sure.
 Time shall not lose our passages; the Spring
 How fresh our love was in the beginning;
 The Summer how it ripened in the eare;
 And Autumn, what our golden harvests were. 80
 The Winter I'll not think on to spite thee,
 But count it a lost season, so shall shee.
 And dearest Friend, since we must part, drown night
 With hope of Day, burthens well born are light.
 Though cold and darkness longer hang somewhere, 85
 Yet Phoebus equally lights all the Sphere.

 The world enjoys in Mass, and so we may.

 Take therefore all in this: I love so true,
 As I will never look for less in you.

 A Citizen and his wife the other day
 Both riding on one horfe, upon the way

 And (by her eye) well fitting for the feate.
 I saw the lecherous Citizen turne backe
 His head, and on his wifes lip steale a smacke,
 Whence apprehending that the man was kinde,
 Riding before, to kisse his wife behinde,
 To get acquaintance with him I began
 To sort discourse fit for so fine a man:
 I ask'd the number of the Plaguy Bill,
 Ask'd if the Custome Farmers held out still,
 Of the Virginian plot, and whether Ward
 The traffique of the I(n)land seas had marr'd,
 Whether the Brittain Burse did fill apace,
 And likely were to give th'Exchange disgrace;
 Of new-built Algate, and the More-field crosse,
 Of store of Bankerouts, and poore Merchants losses
 I urged him to speake; But he (as mute
 As an old Courtier worne to his last suite)
 Replies with onely yeas and naves; At last
 (To fit his element) my theame I cast
 On Tradefmens gaines; that set his tongue agoing:
 Alas, good sir (quoth he) There is no doing

 Or your perfection, not to study truth?
 Or thinke you heaven is deafe, or hath no eyes?
 Or those it hath, smile at your perjuries?
 Are vowes so cheape with women, or the matter
 Whereof they are made, that they are writ in water, 10
 And blowne away with winde? Or doth their breath
 (Both hot and cold at once) make life and death?

On his Mistris.

BY our first strange and fatall interview,
 By all desires which thereof did ensue,
 By our long starving hopes, by that remorse
 Which my words masculine perswasive force
 Begot in thee, and by the memory 5
 Of hurts, which spies and rivals threatned me,

 By all paines, which want and divorcement hath,
 I conjure thee, and all the oathes which I
 And thou have sworne to seale joynt constancy, 10
 Here I unsweare, and overswear them thus,
 Thou shalt not love by wayes so dangerous.
 Temper, ô faire Love, loves impetuous rage,

ELEGIE XVII.

Variety.

THE heavens rejoyce in motion, why should I
Abjure my so much lov'd variety,
And not with many youth and love divide?
Pleasure is none, if not diversifi'd:
The sun that sitting in the chaire of light 5
Sheds flame into what else so ever doth seem bright,
Is not contented at one Signe to Inne,
But ends his year and with a new beginnes.
All things doe willingly in change delight,
The fruitfull mother of our appetite: 10
Rivers the clearer and more pleasing are,
Where their fair spreading streames run wide and farr;
And a dead lake that no strange bark doth greet,
Corrupts it self and what doth live in it.
Let no man tell me such a one is faire, 15
And worthy all alone my love to share.
Nature in her hath done the liberall part
Of a kinde Mistresse, and imploy'd her art
To make her loveable, and I aver
Him not humane that would turn back from her: 20

I love

I love her well, and would, if need were, dye
 To doe her service. But followes it that I
 Muſt ſerve her onely, when I may have choice
 Of other beauties, and in change rejoyce?
 The law is hard, and ſhall not have my voice. 25
 The laſt I ſaw in all extreames is faire,
 And holds me in the Sun-beames of her haire;
 Her nymph-like features ſuch agreements have
 That I could venture with her to the grave:
 Another's brown, I like her not the worſe, 30
 Her tongue is ſoft and takes me with diſcourſe.
 Others, for that they well deſcended are,
 Do in my love obtain as large a ſhare;
 And though they be not fair, 'tis much with mee
 To win their love onely for their degree. 35
 And though I faile of my required ends,
 The attempt is glorious and it ſelf commends.
 How happy were our Syres in ancient times,
 Who held plurality of loves no crime!
 With them it was accounted charity 40
 To ſtirre up race of all indifferently;
 Kindreds were not exempted from the bands:
 Which with the Perſian ſtill in uſage ſtands.
 Women were then no ſooner asked then won,
 And what they did was honeſt and well done. 45
 But ſince this title honour hath been uſ'd,
 Our weake credulity hath been abus'd;

Loves Progress.

WHO ever loves, if he do not propose
 The right true end of love, he's one that goes
 To sea for nothing but to make him sick:
 Love is a bear-whelp born, if we o're lick
 Our love, and force it new strange shapes to take,
 We erre, and of a lump a monster make.
 Were not a Calf a monster that were grown
 Face'd like a man, though better then his own?
 Perfection is in unitie: preferr
 One woman first, and then one thing in her.
 I, when I value gold, may think upon
 The ductilnes, the application,
 The wholsomnes, the ingenuitie,
 From rust, from soil, from fire ever free:
 But if I love it, 'tis because 'tis made
 By our new nature (Use) the soul of trade.

Can men more injure women then to say
 They love them for that, by which they're not they? 20
 Makes virtue woman? must I cool my blood
 Till I both be, and find one wife and good?
 May barren Angels love so. But if we Make love to woman; virtue is not she:
 As beauty's not nor wealth: He that strays thus 25
 From her to hers, is more adulterous,
 Then if he took her maid. Search every sphere
 And firmament, our Cupid is not there:
 He's an infernal god and under ground,
 With Pluto dwells, where gold and fire abound: 30
 Men to such Gods, their sacrificing Coles
 Did not in Altars lay, but pits and holes.
 Although we see Celestial bodies move
 Above the earth, the earth we till and love:
 So we her eyes contemplate, words and heart, 35
 And virtues; but we love the Centric part.
 Nor is the soul more worthy, or more fit
 For love, then this, as infinite as it.
 But in attaining this desired place
 How much they erre; that set out at the face? 40
 The hair a Forest is of Ambushes,
 Of springs, snares, fetters and manacles:
 The brow becalms us when 'tis smooth and plain,
 And when 'tis wrinkled, shipwracks us again.
 Smooth, 'tis a Paradise, where we would have 45
 Immortal stay, and wrinkled 'tis our grave.
 The Nose (like to the first Meridian) runs
 Not 'twixt an East and West, but 'twixt two suns;
 It leaves a Cheek, a rose Hemisphere

Lovely

Lovely enough to stop, but not stay at:
 Least subject to disguise and change it is;
 Men say the Devil never can change his.
 It is the Emblem that hath figured
 Firmness; 'tis the first part that comes to bed. 80
 Civilitie we see refin'd: the kifs
 Which at the face began, transplanted is,
 Since to the hand, since to the Imperial knee,
 Now at the Papal foot delights to be:
 If Kings think that the nearer way, and do 85
 Rise from the foot, Lovers may do so too;
 For as free Spheres move faster far then can
 Birds, whom the air resists, so may that man
 Which goes this empty and Ætherial way,
 Then if at beauties elements he stay. 90
 Rich Nature hath in women wisely made
 Two purses, and their mouths averfely laid:
 They then, which to the lower tribute owe,
 That way which that Exchequer looks, must go:
 He which doth not, his error is as great, 95
 As who by Clyster gave the Stomack meat.

Loves Warre.

TILL I have peace with thee, warr other men,
 And when I have peace, can I leave thee then?
 All other Warrs are scrupulous; Only thou
 O fayr free Citty, maist thyselfe allowe
 To any one: In Flanders, who can tell 5
 Whether the Master presse; or men rebell?
 Only we know, that which all Ideots say,
 They beare most blows which come to part the fray.
 France in her lunatique giddines did hate
 Ever our men, yea and our God of late; 10
 Yet she relies upon our Angels well,
 Which nere returne; no more then they which fell.
 Sick Ireland is with a strange warr posselt
 Like to an Ague; now raging, now at rest;
 Which time will cure: yet it must doe her good 15
 If she were purg'd, and her head vayne let blood.
 And Midas joyes our Spanissh journeys give,
 We touch all gold, but find no food to live.
 And I should be in the hott parching clyme,
 To dust and ashes turn'd before my time. 20
 To mew me in a Ship, is to intrall
 Mee in a prifon, that weare like to fall;
 Or in a Cloyster; save that there men dwell
 In a calme heaven, here in a swagging hell.

Long

Long voyages are long consumptions, 25
 And ships are carts for executions.
 Yea they are Deaths; Is't not all one to flye
 Into an other World, as t'is to dye?
 Here let mee warr; in these armes lett mee lye;
 Here lett mee parlee, batter, bleede, and dye. 30
 Thyne armes imprison me, and myne armes thee;
 Thy hart thy ransome is; take myne for mee.
 Other men war that they their rest may gayne;
 But wee will rest that wee may fight agayne.
 Those warrs the ignorant, these th'experienc'd love, 35
 There wee are alwayes under, here above.
 There Engins farr off breed a just true feare,
 Neere thrusts, pikes, stabs, yea bullets hurt not here.
 There lyes are wrongs; here safe uprightly lye;
 There men kill men, we'll make one by and by. 40
 Thou nothing; I not halfe so much shall do
 In these Warrs, as they may which from us two Shall spring. Thousands wee see which travaile not
 To warrs; But stay swords, armes, and shott
 To make at home; And shall not I do then 45
 More glorious service, staying to make men?

 But I, their maker, want their libertie.
 Onely thine image, in my heart, doth sit,
 But that is waxe, and fires environ it. 10
 My fires have driven, thine have drawne it hence ;
 And I am rob'd of Piçture, Heart, and Sense.
 Dwells with me still mine irksome Memory,
 Which, both to keepe, and lose, grieves equally.
 That tells me how faire thou art: Thou art so faire, 15
 As, gods, when gods to thee I doe compare,
 Are grac'd thereby; And to make blinde men see,
 What things gods are, I say they are like to thee.
 For, if we justly call each filly man
 A litle world, What shall we call thee than? 20
 Thou art not soft, and cleare, and strait, and faire,
 As Down, as Stars, Cedars, and Lillies are,

 it was placed with some other miscellaneous and dubious poems among the

 it the title which seems to describe exactly the genre to which it belongs. In

 But

But thy right hand, and cheek, and eye, only
 Are like thy other hand, and cheek, and eye.
 Such was my Phao awhile, but shall be never, 25
 As thou, waist, art, and, oh, maist be ever.
 Here lovers sweare in their Idolatrie,
 That I am such; but Griefe discolors me.
 And yet I grieve the lesse, least Griefe remove
 My beauty, and make me unworthy of thy love. 30
 Plaies some soft boy with thee, oh there wants yet
 A mutuall feeling which should sweeten it.
 His chinne, a thorny hairy unevennesse
 Doth threaten, and some daily change possesse.
 Thy body is a naturall Paradise, 35
 In whose selfe, unmanur'd, all pleasure lies,
 Nor needs perfection; why shouldst thou than
 Admit the tillage of a harsh rough man?
 Men leave behinde them that which their sin shoves,
 And are as theeves trac'd, which rob when it snows. 40
 But of our dallyance no more signes there are,
 Then fishes leave in streames, or Birds in aire.
 And betweene us all sweetnesse may be had;
 All, all that Nature yields, or Art can adde.
 My two lips, eyes, thighs, differ from thy two, 45
 But so, as thine from one another doe;
 And, oh, no more; the likenesse being such,
 Why should they not alike in all parts touch?
 Hand to strange hand, lippe to lippe none denies;
 Why should they breft to breft, or thighs to thighs? 50
 Likenesse begets such strange selfe flatterie,
 That touching my selfe, all seemes done to thee.
 My selfe I embrace, and mine owne hands I kisse,
 And amorously thanke my selfe for this.

MARRIAGE SONGS.

An Epithalamion, Or mariage Song on the Lady Elizabeth, and Count Palatine being married on St. Valentines day.

I.

HAile Bishop Valentine, whose day this is,
All the Aire is thy Diocis,
And all the chirping Chorifters
And other birds are thy Parishioners,
Thou marryest every yeare 5
The Lirique Larke, and the grave whispering Dove,
The Sparrow that neglects his life for love,
The household Bird, with the red stomacher,
Thou mak'ft the black bird speed as foone,
As doth the Goldfinch, or the Halcyon; 10
The husband cocke lookes out, and straight is sped,
And meets his wife, which brings her feather-bed.
This day more cheerfully then ever shine,
This day, which might enflame thy self, Old Valentine.

II.

Till now, Thou warmd'ft with multiplying loves
Two larkes, two sparrowes, or two Doves,
All that is nothing unto this,
For thou this day couplest two Phœnixes;
Thou mak'ft a Taper fee

 Staies he new light from these to get?

A Bride,

A Bride, before a good night could be said,
Should vanish from her cloathes, into her bed,
As Soules from bodies steale, and are not spy'd.

But now she is laid; What though shee bee?
Yet there are more delayes, For, where is he? 80
He comes, and passeth through Spheare after Spheare,
First her sheetes, then her Armes, then any where.
Let not this day, then, but this night be thine,
Thy day was but the eve to this, O Valentine.

VII.

Here lyes a shee Sunne, and a hee Moone here, 85
She gives the best light to his Spheare,
Or each is both, and all, and so
They unto one another nothing owe,
And yet they doe, but are
So iust and rich in that coyne which they pay, 90
That neither would, nor needs forbear, nor stay;
Neither desires to be spar'd, nor to spare,
They quickly pay their debt, and then
Take no acquittances, but pay again;
They pay, they give, they lend, and so let fall 95
No such occasion to be liberall.
More truth, more courage in these two do shine,
Then all thy turtles have, and sparrows, Valentine.

VIII.

And by this act of these two Phenixes
Nature againe restored is, 100
For since these two are two no more,
Ther's but one Phenix still, as was before.

VNseasonable man, statue of ice,
What could to countries solitude entice
Thee, in this yeares cold and decrepitt time?
Natures instinct drawes to the warmer clime
Even small birds, who by that courage dare, 5
In numerous fleets, saile through their Sea, the aire.
What delicacie can in fields appeare,

Thy

Thy madnesse from thee; and all springs by frost
 Have taken cold, and their sweet murmure loft;
 If thou thy faults or fortunes would'st lament
 With just solemnity, do it in Lent;
 At Court the spring already advanced is, 15
 The Sunne stayes longer up; and yet not his
 The glory is, farre other, other fires.
 First, zeale to Prince and State; then loves desires
 Burne in one brest, and like heavens two great lights,
 The first doth governe dayes, the other nights. 20
 And then that early light, which did appeare
 Before the Sunne and Moone created were,
 The Princes favour is defus'd o'r all,
 From which all Fortunes, Names, and Natures fall;
 Then from those wombes of starres, the Brides bright eyes, 25
 At every glance, a constellation flies,
 And sowes the Court with starres, and doth prevent
 In light and power, the all-ey'd firmament;
 First her eyes kindle other Ladies eyes,
 Then from their beames their jewels lustres rise, 30
 And from their jewels torches do take fire,
 And all is warmth, and light, and good desire;
 Most other Courts, alas, are like to hell,
 Where in darke plotts, fire without light doth dwell:
 Or but like Stoves, for lust and envy get 35
 Continuall, but artificiall heat;
 Here zeale and love growne one, all clouds digest,
 And make our Court an everlasting East.
 And can'st thou be from thence?

Idios.

So are those Courts, whose Princes animate,
 Not onely all their house, but all their State.
 Let no man thinke, because he is full, he hath all,
 Kings (as their patterne, God) are liberall
 Not onely in fulnesse, but capacitie, 45
 Enlarging narrow men, to feele and see,
 And comprehend the blessings they bestow.
 So, reclus'd hermits often times do know
 More of heavens glory, then a worldling can.
 As man is of the world, the heart of man, 50
 Is an epitome of Gods great booke
 Of creatures, and man need no farther looke;
 So is the Country of Courts, where sweet peace doth,
 As their one common soule, give life to both,
 I am not then from Court.

Allophanes.

Dreamer, thou art. 55
 Think'ft thou fantastique that thou hast a part
 In the East-Indian fleet, because thou hast
 A little spice, or Amber in thy taste?
 Because thou art not frozen, art thou warme?
 Seest thou all good because thou seest no harme? 60
 The earth doth in her inward bowels hold
 Stuffe well dispos'd, and which would faine be gold,
 But never shall, except it chance to lye,
 So upward, that heaven gild it with his eye;
 As, for divine things, faith comes from above, 65
 So, for best civill use, all tinctures move
 From higher powers; From God religion springs,
 Wisdome, and honour from the use of Kings.
 Then unbeguile thy selfe, and know with mee,

 That doth, abroad, to honest actions come.
 Chide thy selfe then, O foole, which yesterday
 Might'st have read more then all thy books bewray;
 Hast thou a history, which doth present 75
 A Court, where all affections do assent
 Unto the Kings, and that, that Kings are just?
 And where it is no levity to trust?
 Where there is no ambition, but to'obey,
 Where men need whisper nothing, and yet may; 80
 Where the Kings favours are so plac'd, that all
 Finde that the King therein is liberall
 To them, in him, because his favours bend
 To vertue, to the which they all pretend?
 Thou hast no such; yet here was this, and more, 85

And

And were the doctrine new
That the earth mov'd, this day would make it true;
For every part to dance and revell goes.
They tread the ayre, and fal not where they rose.
Though six houres since, the Sunne to bed did part, 190
The masks and banquets will not yet impart
A funfet to these weary eyes, A Center to this heart.

IX.

The Brides going to bed.

What mean'st thou Bride, this companie to keep?
To sit up, till thou faine wouldst sleep?
Thou maist not, when thou art laid, doe so. 195
Thy selfe must to him a new banquet grow,
And you must entertaine
And doe all this daies dances o'r againe.
Know that if Sun and Moone together doe
Rise in one point, they doe not set so too; 200
Therefore thou maist, faire Bride, to bed depart,
Thou art not gone, being gone; where e'r thou art,
Thou leav'st in him thy watchfull eyes, in him thy loving heart.

X.

The Bridegroomes comming.

As he that sees a starre fall, runs apace,
And findes a gellie in the place, 205
So doth the Bridegroome hast as much,
Being told this starre is false, and findes her such.

And as friends may looke strange,
 By a new fashion, or apparrells change,
 Their soules, though long acquainted they had beene, 210
 These clothes, their bodies, never yet had seene;
 Therefore at first thee modestly might start,
 But must forthwith surrender every part,
 As freely, as each to each before, gave either eye or heart.

XI.

The good-night.

Now, as in Tullias tombe, one lampe burnt cleare, 215
 Unchang'd for fiftene hundred yeare,
 May these love-lamps we here enshrine,
 In warmth, light, lasting, equall the divine.
 Fire ever doth aspire,
 And makes all like it selfe, turnes all to fire, 220
 But ends in ashes, which these cannot doe,
 For none of these is fuell, but fire too.
 This is joyes bonfire, then, where loves strong Arts
 Make of so noble individuall parts
 One fire of foure inflaming eyes, and of two loving hearts. 225

Idios.

As I have brought this song, that I may doe
 A perfect sacrifice, I'll burne it too.

Epithalamion made at Lincolnes Inne.

THE Sun-beames in the East are spred,
Leave, leave, faire Bride, your solitary bed,
No more shall you returne to it alone,
It nourseth sadnesse, and your bodies print,
Like to a grave, the yielding downe doth dint; 5
You and your other you meet there anon;
Put forth, put forth that warme balme-breathing thigh,
Which when next time you in these sheets wil smother,
There it must meet another,
Which never was, but must be, oft, more nigh; 10
Come glad from thence, goe gladder then you came,
To day put on perfection, and a womans name.

Daughters of London, you which bee
Our Golden Mines, and furnish'd Treasurie,
You which are Angels, yet still bring with you 15
Thousands of Angels on your mariage daies,
Help with your presence and devise to praise
These rites, which also unto you grow due;
Conceitedly dresse her, and be assign'd,
By you, fit place for every flower and jewell, 20
Make her for love fit fewell
As gay as Flora, and as rich as Inde;
So may shee faire, rich, glad, and in nothing lame,
To day put on perfection, and a womans name.

And

And you frolique Patricians, 25
 Sonns of these Senators wealths deep oceans,
 Ye painted courtiers, barrels of others wits,
 Yee country men, who but your beasts love none,
 Yee of those fellowships whereof hee's one,
 Of study and play made strange Hermaphrodits, 30
 Here shine; This Bridegroom to the Temple bring.
 Loe, in yon path which store of straw'd flowers graceth,
 The sober virgin paceth;
 Except my sight faile, 'tis no other thing;
 Weep not nor blush, here is no grieve nor shame, 35
To day put on perfection, and a womans name.
 Thy two-leav'd gates faire Temple unfold,
 And these two in thy sacred bosome hold,
 Till, mystically joyn'd, but one they bee;
 Then may thy leane and hunger-starved wombe 40
 Long time expect their bodies and their tombe,
 Long after their owne parents fatten thee.
 All elder claimes, and all cold barrenesse,
 All yeelding to new loves bee far for ever,
 Which might these two dissever, 45
 All wayes all th'other may each one possesse;
 For, the best Bride, best worthy of praise and fame,
To day puts on perfection, and a womans name.
 Oh winter dayes bring much delight,
 Not for themselves, but for they soon bring night; 50
 Other sweets wait thee then these diverse meats,
 Other disports then dancing jollities,
 Other love tricks then glancing with the eyes,
 But that the Sun still in our halfe Spheare sweates;

 Why then should not our amorous starre inclose
 Her selfe in her wish'd bed? Release your strings
 Musicians, and dancers take some truce

Satyre I.

A Way thou fondling motley humorist,
 Leave mee, and in this standing wooden chest,
 Conforted with these few bookes, let me lye
 In prison, and here be coffin'd, when I dye;
 Here are Gods conduits, grave Divines; and here 5
 Natures Secretary, the Philosopher;
 And jolly Statesmen, which teach how to tie
 The finewes of a cities mistique bodie;
 Here gathering Chroniclers, and by them stand
 Giddie fantastique Poëts of each land. 10
 Shall I leave all this constant company,
 And follow headlong, wild uncertaine thee?
 First sweare by thy best love in earnest
 (If thou which lov'st all, canst love any best)
 Thou wilt not leave mee in the middle street, 15
 Though some more spruce companion thou dost meet,
 Not though a Captaine do come in thy way
 Bright parcell gilt, with forty dead mens pay,
 Not though a briske perfum'd piert Courtier
 Deigne with a nod, thy courtesie to answer. 20

Though

Though Poëtry indeed be such a sinne 5
 As I thinke that brings dearths, and Spaniards in,
 Though like the Pestilence and old fashion'd love,
 Ridlingly it catch men; and doth remove
 Never, till it be sterv'd out; yet their state
 Is poore, disfarm'd, like Papists, not worth hate. 10
 One, (like a wretch, which at Barre judg'd as dead,
 Yet prompts him which stands next, and cannot reade,
 And saves his life) gives ideot actors meanes
 (Starving himselfe) to live by his labor'd sceanes;
 As in some Organ, Puppits dance above 15
 And bellows pant below, which them do move.
 One would move Love by rithmes; but witchcrafts charms
 Bring not now their old feares, nor their old harmes:
 Rammes, and flings now are feely battery,
 Pistolets are the best Artillerie. 20
 And they who write to Lords, rewards to get,
 Are they not like fingers at doores for meat?
 And they who write, because all write, have still
 That excuse for writing, and for writing ill;
 But hee is worst, who (beggarly) doth chaw 25
 Others wits fruits, and in his ravenous maw
 Rankly digested, doth those things out-spue,
 As his owne things; and they are his owne, 'tis true,

I should be in remitter of your grace;
 In th'interim my letters should take place 55
 Of affidavits: words, words, which would teare
 The tender labyrinth of a soft maids eare,
 More, more, then ten Sclavonians scolding, more
 Then when winds in our ruin'd Abbeyes rore. 60
 When sicke with Poëtrie, and posselt with muse
 Thou wast, and mad, I hop'd; but men which chuse
 Law practise for meere gaine, bold soule, repute
 Worfe then imbrothel'd strumpets prostitute.
 Now like an owlelike watchman, hee must walke 65
 His hand still at a bill, now he must talke
 Idly, like prisoners, which whole months will sweare
 That onely suretiship hath brought them there,
 And to every suitor lye in every thing,
 Like a Kings favourite, yea like a King; 70
 Like a wedge in a blocke, wring to the barre,
 Bearing-like Affes; and more shamelesse farre
 Then carted whores, lye, to the grave Judge; for Bastardy abounds not in Kings titles, nor
 Symonie and Sodomy in Churchmens lives, 75
 As these things do in him; by these he thrives.
 Shortly (as the sea) hee will compasse all our land;
 From Scots, to Wight; from Mount, to Dover strand.

 Satan will not joy at their sinnes, as hee. 80

 To adore, or scorne an image, or protest,
 May all be bad; doubt wisely; in strange way
 To stand inquiring right, is not to stray;
 To sleepe, or runne wrong, is. On a huge hill,
 Cragged, and steep, Truth stands, and hee that will 80
 Reach her, about must, and about must goe;
 And what the hills suddennes resists, winne so;

Foole and wretch, wilt thou let thy Soule be tyed
 To mans lawes, by which she shall not be tryed
 At the last day? Oh, will it then boot thee 95
 To say a Philip, or a Gregory,
 A Harry, or a Martin taught thee this?
 Is not this excuse for mere contraries,
 Equally strong? cannot both sides say so?
 That thou mayest rightly obey power, her bounds know; 100
 Those past, her nature, and name is chang'd; to be
 Then humble to her is idolatrie.
 As streames are, Power is; those blest flowers that dwell
 At the rough streames calme head, thrive and do well,
 But having left their roots, and themselves given 105
 To the streames tyrannous rage, alas, are driven
 Through mills, and rockes, and woods, and at last, almost
 Consum'd in going, in the sea are lost:
 So perish Soules, which more chuse mens unjust
 Power from God claym'd, then God himselfe to trust. 110

 My

My minde, neither with prides itch, nor yet hath been 5
 Poyson'd with love to see, or to bee seene,
 I had no fuit there, nor new suite to shew,
 Yet went to Court; But as Glaze which did goe
 To'a Masse in jest, catch'd, was faine to disburse
 The hundred markes, which is the Statutes curse; 10
 Before he scapt, So'it pleas'd my destinie
 (Guilty of my sin of going,) to thinke me
 As prone to all ill, and of good as forget-
 full, as proud, as lustfull, and as much in debt,
 As vaine, as witleffe, and as false as they 15
 Which dwell at Court, for once going that way.
 Therefore I suffered this; Towards me did runne
 A thing more strange, then on Niles slime, the Sunne
 E'r bred; or all which into Noahs Arke came;
 A thing, which would have pos'd Adam to name; 20
 Stranger then seaven Antiquaries studies,
 Then Africks Monsters, Guianaes rarities.
 Stranger then strangers; One, who for a Dane,
 In the Danes Massacre had sure beene slaine,
 If he had liv'd then; And without helpe dies, 25
 When next the Prentises'gainst Strangers rise.
 One, whom the watch at noone lets scarce goe by,
 One, to whom, the examining Justice sure would cry,
 Sir, by your priesthood tell me what you are.

 bare; 30

Good pretty linguists, and so Panurge was ;
 Yet a poore gentleman, all these may passe 60
 By travaile. Then, as if he would have sold
 His tongue, he prais'd it, and such wonders told
 That I was faine to say, If you'had liv'd, Sir,
 Time enough to have beene Interpreter
 To Babels bricklayers, sure the Tower had stood. 65
 He adds, If of court life you knew the good,
 You would leave loneness. I said, not alone
 My loneness is, but Spartanes fashon,
 To teach by painting drunkards, doth not last
 Now ; Aretines pictures have made few chaste ; 70
 No more can Princes courts, though there be few
 Better pictures of vice, teach me vertue ;
 He, like to a high stretcht lute string squeakt, O Sir,
 'Tis sweet to talke of Kings. At Westminster,
 Said I, The man that keepes the Abbey tombes, 75
 And for his price doth with who ever comes,
 Of all our Harries, and our Edwards talke,
 From King to King and all their kin can walke :
 Your eares shall heare nought, but Kings ; your eyes meet
 Kings only ; The way to it, is Kingstreet. 80
 He smack'd, and cry'd, He's base, Mechanique, coarse,
 So are all your Englishmen in their discourse.
 Are not your Frenchmen neate ? Mine ? as you see,
 I have but one Frenchman, looke, hee followes mee.

O Sunne, in all thy journey, Vanitie,
 Such as fwells the bladder of our court? I
 Thinke he which made your waxen garden, and Transported it from Italy to stand 170
 With us, at London, flouts our Prefence, for Just such gay painted things, which no sappe, nor Taft have in them, ours are; And naturall
 Some of the stocks are, their fruits, bastard all.
 'Tis ten a clock and past; All whom the Mues, 175
 Baloune, Tennis, Dyet, or the stewes,
 Had all the morning held, now the second
 Time made ready, that day, in flocks, are found
 In the Prefence, and I, (God pardon mee.)
 As fresh, and sweet their Apparrells be, as bee 180
 The fields they fold to buy them; For a King
 Those hose are, cry the flatterers; And bring Them next weeke to the Theatre to sell;
 Wants reach all states; Me seemes they doe as well
 At stage, as court; All are players; who e'r lookes 185
 (For themselves dare not goe) o'r Cheapside books,
 Shall finde their wardrops Inventory. Now,
 The Ladies come; As Pirats, which doe know
 That there came weak ships fraught with Cutchannel,
 The men board them; and praise, as they thinke, well, 190

OH to what height will love of greatnesse drive
 Thy leavened spirit, Sesqui-superlative?
 Venice vast lake thou hadst seene, and would seek than
 Some vaster thing, and found'st a Curtizan.
 That inland Sea having discovered well, 5
 A Cellar gulfe, where one might faile to hell
 From Heydelberg, thou longd'st to see: And thou
 This Booke, greater then all, producest now.
 Infinite worke, which doth so far extend,
 That none can study it to any end. 10
 'Tis no one thing, it is not fruit nor roote;
 Nor poorely limited with head or foot.
 If man be therefore man, because he can
 Reason, and laugh, thy booke doth halfe make man.
 One halfe being made, thy modestie was such, 15
 That thou on th'other half wouldst never touch.
 When wilt thou be at full, great Lunatique?
 Not till thou exceed the world? Canst thou be like
 A prosperous nose-borne wenne, which sometimes growes
 To be farre greater then the Mother-nose? 20
 Goe then; and as to thee, when thou didst go,

 The East sends hither her deliciousnesse;
 And thy leaves must imbrace what comes from thence,
 The Myrrhe, the Pepper, and the Frankincense.
 This magnifies thy leaves; but if they stoope 35
 To neighbour wares, when Merchants do unhoope
 Voluminous barrels; if thy leaves do then
 Convey these wares in parcels unto men;
 If for vast Tons of Currans, and of Figs,
 Of Medicinall and Aromaticque twigs, 40
 Thy leaves a better method do provide,
 Divide to pounds, and ounces sub-divide;
 If they stoope lower yet, and vent our wares,
 Home-manufactures, to thick popular Faïres,
 If omni-prægnant there, upon warme stalls, 45
 They hatch all wares for which the buyer calls;
 Then thus thy leaves we justly may commend,
 That they all kinde of matter comprehend.

THE STORME.

To Mr. Christopher Brooke.

THou which art I, ('tis nothing to be foe)
 Thou which art still thy selfe, by these shalt know
 Part of our passage; And, a hand, or eye
 By Hilliard drawne, is worth an history,
 By a worse painter made; and (without pride) 5
 When by thy judgment they are dignifi'd,
 My lines are such: 'Tis the preheminance
 Of friendship onely to'impute excellence.
 England to whom we'owe, what we be, and have,
 Sad that her sonnes did seeke a forraine grave 10
 (For, Fates, or Fortunes drifts none can soothsay, Honour and misery have one face and way.)
 From out her pregnant intrailes sigh'd a winde
 Which at th'ayres middle marble roome did finde
 Such strong resistance, that it selfe it threw 15
 Downeward againe; and so when it did view
 How in the port, our fleet deare time did leefe,
 Withering like prisioners, which lye but for fees,
 Mildly it kift our failes, and, fresh and sweet,
 As to a stomack sterv'd, whose insides meete, 20
 Meate comes, it came; and swole our failes, when wee
 So joyd, as Sara'her swelling joy'd to see.

But

But 'twas but so kinde, as our countymen,
 Which bring friends one dayes way, and leave them then.
 Then like two mighty Kings, which dwelling farre 25
 Afunder, meet against a third to warre,
 The South and West winds joyn'd, and, as they blew,
 Waves like a rowling trench before them threw.
 Sooner then you read this line, did the gale,
 Like shot, not fear'd till felt, our failes assaile; 30
 And what at first was call'd a gust, the same
 Hath now a stormes, anon a tempests name.
Jonas, I pittie thee, and curse those men,
 Who when the storm rag'd most, did wake thee then;
 Sleepe is paines easiest salve, and doth fullfill 35
 All offices of death, except to kill.
 But when I wakt, I saw, that I saw not;
 I, and the Sunne, which should teach mee'had forgot
 East, West, Day, Night, and I could onely say,
 If'the world had lasted, now it had beene day. 40
 Thousands our noyses were, yet wee'mongst all
 Could none by his right name, but thunder call:
 Lightning was all our light, and it rain'd more
 Then if the Sunne had drunke the sea before.
 Some coffin'd in their cabbins lye,'equally 45
 Griev'd that they are not dead, and yet must dye;
 And as sin-burd'ned soules from graves will creepe,
 At the last day, some forth their cabbins peepe:
 And tremblingly'aske what newes, and doe heare so,
 Like jealous husbands, what they would not know. 50

 With hideous gazing to feare away feare.
 Then note they the ships sicknesse, the Maist
 Shak'd with this ague, and the Hold and Waist
 With a salt droppe clog'd, and all our tacklings 55
 Snapping, like too-high-stretched treble strings.
 And from our totterd failes, ragges drop downe to,

THE CALME.

OUr storme is past, and that storms tyrannous rage,
 A stupid calme, but nothing it, doth swage.
 The fable is inverted, and farre more
 A blocke afflicts, now, then a storke before.
 Stormes chafe, and soone weare out themselves, or us;
 In calmes, Heaven laughs to see us languish thus.
 As steady's as I can wish, that my thoughts were,
 Smooth as thy mistresse glasse, or what shines there,
 The sea is now. And, as the Iles which wee
 Seeke, when wee can move, our ships rooted bee. 10
 As water did in stormes, now pitch runs out:
 As lead, when a fir'd Church becomes one spout.
 And all our beauty, and our trimme, decayes,
 Like courts removing, or like ended plays.
 The fighting place now seamens ragges supply; 15
 And all the tackling is a frippery.
 No use of lanthornes; and in one place lay
 Feathers and dust, to day and yesterday.
 Earths hollowneses, which the worlds lungs are,
 Have no more winde then the upper valt of aire. 20
 We can nor lost friends, nor fought foes recover,
 But meteorlike, save that wee move not, hover.
 Only the Calenture together draws
 Deare friends, which meet dead in great fishes jawes:
 And on the hatches as on Altars lyes 25
 Each one, his owne Priest, and owne Sacrifice.
 Who live, that miracle do multiply

Where

Where walkers in hot Ovens, doe not dye.
 If in despite of these, wee swimme, that hath
 No more refreshing, then our brimstone Bath, 30
 But from the sea, into the ship we turne,
 Like parboyl'd wretches, on the coales to burne.
 Like Bajazet encag'd, the shepheards scoffe,
 Or like slacke sinew'd Sampson, his haire off,
 Languish our ships. Now, as a Miriade 35
 Of Ants, durst th'Emperours lov'd snake invade,
 The crawling Gallies, Sea-goales, finny chips,
 Might brave our Pinnaces, now bed-ridde ships.
 Whether a rotten state, and hope of gaine,
 Or to disuse mee from the queasie paine 40
 Of being belov'd, and loving, or the thirst
 Of honour, or faire death, out pusht mee first,
 I lose my end: for here as well as I
 A desperate may live, and a coward die.
 Stagge, dogge, and all which from, or towards flies, 45
 Is paid with life, or pray, or doing dyes.
 Fate grudges us all, and doth subtly lay
 A scourge, gainst which wee all forget to pray,
 He that at sea prayes for more winde, as well
 Under the poles may begge cold, heat in hell. 50
 What are wee then? How little more alas
 Is man now, then before he was? he was

To S^r Henry Wotton.

Sir, more then kisses, letters mingle Soules ;
 For, thus friends absent speake. This ease controules
 The tediousnesse of my life : But for these
 I could ideate nothing, which could please,
 But I should wither in one day, and passe
 To'a bottle'of Hay, that am a locke of Grasse.
 Life is a voyage, and in our lifes wayes
 Countries, Courts, Towns are Rockes, or Remoraes ;
 They breake or stop all ships, yet our state's such,
 That though then pitch they staine worfe, wee must touch. 10
 If in the furnace of the even line,
 Or under th'adverse icy poles thou pine,
 Thou know'st two temperate Regions girded in,
 Dwell there : But Oh, what refuge canst thou winne
 Parch'd in the Court, and in the country frozen ? 15
 Shall cities, built of both extremes, be chosen ?
 Can dung and garlike be'a perfume ? or can
 A Scorpion and Torpedo cure a man ?

Cities

Cities are worft of all three; of all three
 (O knottie riddle) each is worft equally. 20
 Cities are Sepulchers; they who dwell there
 Are carcafes, as if no fuch there were.
 And Courts are Theaters, where fome men play
 Princes, fome flaves, all to one end, and of one clay.
 The Country is a defert, where no good, 25
 Gain'd (as habits, not borne,) is underftood.
 There men become beafts, and prone to more evils;
 In cities blockes, and in a lewd court, devills.
 As in the firft Chaos confufedly
 Each elements qualities were in the other three; 30
 So pride, luft, covetize, being feverall
 To thefe three places, yet all are in all,
 And mingled thus, their iffue inceftuous.
 Falshood is denizon'd. Virtue is barbarous.
 Let no man fay there, Virtues flintie wall 35
 Shall locke vice in mee, I'll do none, but know all.
 Men are fpunges, which to poure out, receive,
 Who know falfe play, rather then lofe, deceive.
 For in beft underftandings, finne beganne,
 Angels finnd firft, then Devills, and then man. 40

W^HO makes the Past, a patterne for next yeare,
Turnes no new leafe, but still the same things reads,
Seene things, he sees againe, heard things doth heare,
And makes his life, but like a paire of beads.

A Palace, when'tis that, which it should be, 5
Leaves growing, and stands such, or else decayes:
But hee which dwels there, is not so; for hee
Strives to urge upward, and his fortune raise;

So had your body'her morning, hath her noone,
And shall not better; her next change is night: 10
But her faire larger guest, to'whom Sun and Moone
Are sparkes, and short liv'd, claimes another right.

The noble Soule by age growes lustier,
Her appetite, and her digestion mend,
Wee must not sterue, nor hope to pamper her
With womens milke, and pappe unto the end.

Provide you manlyer dyet; you have seene
All libraries, which are Schools, Camps, and Courts;
But aske your Garners if you have not beene
In harvests, too indulgent to your sports. 20

Would you redeeme it? then your selfe transplant
A while from hence. Perchance outlandish ground
Beares no more wit, then ours, but yet more scant
Are those diversions there, which here abound.

 Wee can beginnings, but not habits choke. 25
 Goe; whither? Hence; you get, if you forget;
 New faults, till they prescribe in us, are smoake.
 Our foule, whose country's heaven, and God her father,
 Into this world, corruptions sinke, is sent, 30
 Yet, so much in her travaile she doth gather,
 That she returnes home, wiser then she went;
 It payes you well, if it teach you to spare,
 And make you, 'asham'd, to make your hawks praise,
 yours,
 Which when herselfe she lessens in the aire, 35
 You then first say, that high enough she toures.
 However, keepe the lively taft you hold
 Of God, love him as now, but feare him more,
 And in your afternoones thinke what you told
 And promis'd him, at morning prayer before. 40
 Let fallhood like a discord anger you,
 Else be not froward. But why doe I touch
 Things, of which none is in your practise new,
 And Tables, or fruit-trenchers teach as much;
 But thus I make you keepe your promise Sir, 45

The straw, which doth about our hearts sojourne.

For here no one is from the extremitie
Of vice, by any other reason free,
But that the next to him, still, is worse then hee.

In this worlds warfare, they whom rugged Fate, 10

Reason is our Soules left hand, Faith her right,
By these wee reach divinity, that's you;
Their loves, who have the blessings of your light,
Grew from their reason, mine from faire faith grew.
But as, although a squint lefthandednesse 5
Be'ungracious, yet we cannot want that hand,
So would I, not to encrease, but to expresse
My faith, as I beleewe, so understand.
Therefore I study you first in your Saints,
Those friends, whom your election glorifies, 10
Then in your deeds, accesss, and restraints,
And what you reade, and what your selfe devise.
But soone, the reasons why you're lov'd by all,
Grow infinite, and so passe reasons reach,
Then backe againe to'implicite faith I fall, 15

MADAME,

YOU have refin'd mee, and to worthyest things

And such, as they are circumstanc'd, they bee.

Two ills can ne're perplexe us, sinne to'excuse; 5
But of two good things, we may leave and chuse.

Therefore at Court, which is not vertues clime,
(Where a transcendent height, (as, lownesse mee)
Makes her not be, or not show) all my rime
Your vertues challenge, which there rarest bee; 10
For, as darke texts need notes: there some must bee
To usher vertue, and say, This is shee.

So in the country's beauty; to this place
You are the season (Madame) you the day,
'Tis but a grave of spices, till your face 15

192 Letters to Severall Personages.

In this you'have made the Court the Antipodes, 25
And will'd your Delegate, the vulgar Sunne,
To doe profane autumnall offices,
Whilst here to you, wee sacrificers runne;

And whether Priests, or Organs, you wee'obey,
We found your influence, and your Dictates say. 30

Yet to that Deity which dwels in you,
Your vertuous Soule, I now not sacrifice;
These are Petitions, and not Hymnes; they sue
But that I may surway the edifice.

In all Religions as much care hath bin 35
Of Temples frames, and beauty,'as Rites within.

As all which goe to Rome, doe not thereby
Esteeme religions, and hold fast the best,
But serve discourse, and curiosity,
With that which doth religion but invest, 40
And shunne th'entangling laborinths of Schooles,
And make it wit, to thinke the wiser fooles :

So in this pilgrimage I would behold
You as you'are vertues temple, not as shee,
What walls of tender cristall her enfold, 45
What eyes, hands, bosome, her pure Altars bee ;
And after this surway, oppose to all
Bablers of Chappels, you th'Escuriell.

Yet not as consecrate, but merely'as faire,
On these I cast a lay and country eye. 50
Of past and future stories, which are rare,
I finde you all record, and prophecie.
Purge but the booke of Fate, that it admit
No sad nor guilty legends, you are it.

If good and lovely were not one, of both 55
 You were the tranſcript, and originall,
 The Elements, the Parent, and the Growth,
 And every peece of you, is both their All:
 So'intire are all your deeds, and you, that you
 Muſt do the ſame thinge ſtill; you cannot two. 60

But theſe (as nice thinne Schoole divinity
 Serves hereſie to furdere or repreſſe)
 Taſt of Poëtique rage, or flattery,
 And need not, where all hearts one truth profeſſe;
 Oft from new proofes, and new phraſe, new doubts grow,
 As ſtrange attire aliens the men wee know. 66

 Nor

Nor escapes hee so, but is himselfe their prey,
 All which was man in him, is eate away,
 And now his beafts on one another feed,
 Yet couple'in anger, and new monst'ers breed.
 How happy'is hee, which hath due place assign'd
 To his beafts, and disaforested his minde! 10
 Empail'd himselfe to keepe them out, not in;
 Can sow, and dares trust corne, where they have bin;
 Can use his horse, goate, wolfe, and every beaft,
 And is not Asse himselfe to all the rest.
 Else, man not onely is the heard of swine, 15
 But he's those devills too, which did incline
 Them to a headlong rage, and made them worse:
 For man can adde weight to heavens heaviest curse.
 As Soules (they say) by our first touch, take in
 The poysonous tincture of Originall sinne,
 So, to the punishments which God doth fling,
 Our apprehension contributes the sting.
 To us, as to his chickens, he doth cast
 Hemlocke, and wee as men, his hemlocke taste;
 We do infuse to what he meant for meat, 25
 Corrosivenesse, or intense cold or heat.
 For, God no such specifick poyson hath
 As kills we know not how; his fiercest wrath
 Hath no antipathy, but may be good
 At left for phylicke, if not for our food. 30
 Thus man, that might be his pleasure, is his rod,
 And is his devill, that might be his God.
 Since then our businesse is, to rectifie
 Nature, to what she was, wee are led awry
 By them, who man to us in little shew; 35
 Greater then due, no forme we can bestow

On him ; for Man into himselfe can draw
 All ; All his faith can swallow, 'or reason chaw.
 All that is fill'd, and all that which doth fill,
 All the round world, to man is but a pill, 40
 In all it workes not, but it is in all
 Poysonous, or purgative, or cordiall,
 For, knowledge kindles Calentures in some,
 And is to others icy Opium.

Temples were not demolish'd, though prophane:
 Here Peter Ioves, there Paul hath Dian's Fane.
 So whether my hymnes you admit or chuse, 15
 In me you have hallowed a Pagan Muse,
 And denizend a stranger, who mistaught
 By blamers of the times they mard, hath sought
 Vertues in corners, which now bravely doe
 Shine in the worlds best part, or all It ; You. 20
 I have beene told, that vertue in Courtiers hearts
 Suffers an Ostracisme, and departs.
 Profit, ease, fitnesse, plenty, bid it goe,
 But whither, only knowing you, I know ;
 Your (or you) vertue two vast uses serves, 25
 It ransomes one sex, and one Court preserves.
 There's nothing but your worth, which being true,
 Is knowne to any other, not to you:
 And you can never know it; To admit
 No knowledge of your worth, is some of it. 30
 But since to you, your praises discords bee,
 Stoop, others ills to meditate with mee.
 Oh ! to confesse wee know not what we should,
 Is halfe excuse ; wee know not what we would :
 Lightnesse depresseth us, emptinesse fills, 35
 We sweat and faint, yet still goe downe the hills.
 As new Philosophy arrefts the Sunne,
 And bids the passive earth about it runne,
 So wee have dull'd our minde, it hath no ends ;

The quick high Moone: so doth the body, Soules.
 In none but us, are such mixt engines found,
 As hands of double office: For, the ground
 We till with them; and them to heav'n wee raise; 45
 Who prayer-lesse labours, or, without this, prayes,
 Doth but one halfe, that's none; He which said, Plough
And looke not back, to looke up doth allow.
 Good feed degenerates, and oft obeyes
 The foyles diseafe, and into cockle straves; 50
 Let the minds thoughts be but transplanted so,
 Into the body, and bastardly they grow.
 What hate could hurt our bodies like our love?
 Wee (but no forraine tyrants could) remove
 These not ingrav'd, but inborne dignities, 55
 Caskets of foules; Temples, and Palaces:
 For, bodies shall from death redeemed bee,
 Soules but preserv'd, not naturally free.
 As men to'our prisons, new foules to us are sent,
 Which learne vice there, and come in innocent. 60
 First seeds of every creature are in us,
 What ere the world hath bad, or pretious,
 Mans body can produce, hence hath it beene
 That stoness, wormes, frogges, and snakes in man are feene:
 But who ere saw, though nature can worke foe, 65
 That pearle, or gold, or corne in man did grow?

Why grudge wee us (not heaven) the dignity
 T^hincrease with ours, those faire soules company. 70
 But I must end this letter, though it doe
 Stand on two truths, neither is true to you.
 Vertue hath some perverseness; For she will
 Neither beleve her good, nor others ill.
 Even in you, vertues best paradise, 75
 Vertue hath some, but wise degrees of vice.
 Too many vertues, or too much of one
 Begets in you unjust suspicion;
 And ignorance of vice, makes vertue lesse,
 Quenching compassion of our wretchednesse. 80
 But these are riddles; Some aspersiō
 Of vice becomes well some complexion.
 Statesmen purge vice with vice, and may corrode
 The bad with bad, a spider with a toad:
 For so, ill thralls not them, but they tame ill 85
 And make her do much good against her will,
 But in your Commonwealth, or world in you,
 Vice hath no office, or good worke to doe.
 Take then no vitious purge, but be content
 With cordiall vertue, your knowne nourishment. 90

To the Countesse of Bedford.

On New-yeares day.

I fumme

I fumme the yeares, and mee, and finde mee not
Debtor to th'old, nor Creditor to th'new,
That cannot say, My thanks I have forgot,
Nor trust I this with hopes, and yet scarce true
This bravery is, since these times shew'd mee you. 10

In recompence I would show future times
What you were, and teach them to'urge towards such.
Verse embalmes vertue; and Tombs, or Thrones of rimes,
Preserve fraile transitory fame, as much
As spice doth bodies from corrupt aires touch. 15

Mine are short-liv'd; the tincture of your name
Creates in them, but dissipates as fast,
New spirits: for, strong agents with the same
Force that doth warme and cherish, us doe waft;
Kept hot with strong extracts, no bodies last: 20

So, my verse built of your just praise, might want
Reason and likelihood, the firmest Base,
And made of miracle, now faith is scant,
Will vanish soone, and so possesse no place,
And you, and it, too much grace might disgrace. 25

When all (as truth commands assent) confesse
All truth of you, yet they will doubt how I,
One corne of one low anthills dust, and lesse,
Should name, know, or expresse a thing so high,
And not an inch, measure infinity. 30

And useth oft, when such a heart mis-fayes,
 To make it good, for, such a praiser prayes. 35
 Hee will best teach you, how you should lay out
 His stock of beauty, learning, favour, blood;
 He will perplex security with doubt,
 And cleare those doubts; hide from you, and shew you good,
 And so increase your appetite and food; 40
 Hee will teach you, that good and bad have not
 One latitude in cloysters, and in Court;
 Indifferent there the greatest space hath got;
 Some pitty's not good there, some vaine disport,
 On this side sinne, with that place may comport. 45
 Yet he, as hee bounds seas, will fixe your houres,
 Which pleasure, and delight may not ingresse,
 And though what none else lost, be trueliest yours,
 Hee will make you, what you did not, possesse,
 By using others, not vice, but weakenesse. 50
 He will make you speake truths, and credibly,
 And make you doubt, that others doe not so:
 Hee will provide you keyes, and locks, to spie,
 And scape spies, to good ends, and hee will shew
 What you may not acknowledge, what not know. 55
 For your owne conscience, he gives innocence,
 But for your fame, a discreet warinesse,
 And though to scape, then to revenge offence
 Be better, he shewes both, and to repress

MADAME,

MAN to Gods image; Eve, to mans was made,
 Nor finde wee that God breath'd a foule in her,
 Canons will not Church functions you invade,
 Nor lawes to civill office you preferre.

Who vagrant transitory Comets sees, 5
 Wonders, because they're rare; But a new starre
 Whose motion with the firmament agrees,
 Is miracle; for, there no new things are;

In woman so perchance milde innocence
 A feldome comet is, but active good 10
 A miracle, which reason scapes, and sense;
 For, Art and Nature this in them withstood.

As such a starre, the Magi led to view
 The manger-cradled infant, God below:
 By vertues beames by fame deriv'd from you, 15
 May apt foules, and the worst may, vertue know.

If the worlds age, and death be argued well
 By the Sunnes fall, which now towards earth doth bend,
 Then we might feare that vertue, since she fell
 So low as woman, should be neare her end. 20

But she's not stoop'd, but rais'd; exil'd by men
 She fled to heaven, that's heavenly things, that's you;
 She was in all men, thinly scatter'd then,
 But now amass'd, contracted in a few.

She guilded us: But you are gold, and Shee; 25
 Us she inform'd, but transubstantiates you;
 Soft dispositions which ductile bee,
 Elixarlike, she makes not cleane, but new.

Though you a wifes and mothers name retaine,
 'Tis not as woman, for all are not foe, 30
 But vertue having made you vertue, 'is faine

Else, being alike pure, wee should neither see;

 Of the most starres, take low names, Crab, and Bull,
 When single planets by the Gods are nam'd,
 You covet not great names, of great things full. 40

So you, as woman, one doth comprehend,

 And as a vertuous Prince farre off, to mee.

 If thou forget the rime as thou dost passe.
 Then write, that I may follow, and so bee

 All the worlds Lyon, though I be thy Ape.

To M T. W.

H Aft thee harsh verse, as fast as thy lame measure
 Will give thee leave, to him, my pain and pleasure.
 I have given thee, and yet thou art too weake,
 Feete, and a reasoning soule and tongue to speake.
 Plead for me, and so by thine and my labour 5
 I am thy Creator, thou my Saviour.
 Tell him, all questions, which men have defended
 Both of the place and paines of hell, are ended;
 And 'tis decreed our hell is but privation
 Of him, at least in this earths habitation: 10
 And 'tis where I am, where in every street
 Infections follow, overtake, and meete:
 Live I or die, by you my love is sent,
 And you're my pawnes, or else my Testament.

PRegnant again with th'old twins Hope, and Feare,
 Oft have I askt for thee, both how and where
 Thou wert, and what my hopes of letters were;
 As in our streets fly beggers narrowly
 Watch motions of the givers hand and eye, 5
 And evermore conceive some hope thereby.
 And now thy Almes is given, thy letter's read,
 The body risen againe, the which was dead,
 And thy poore starveling bountifully fed.
 After this banquet my Soule doth say grace, 10
 And praise thee for't, and zealously imbrace
 Thy love; though I thinke thy love in this case
 To be as gluttons, which say 'midst their meat,
 They love that best of which they most do eat.

 My verse, the strict Map of my misery,

Therefore

Therefore I envie them, and doe repent, 10
That from unhappy mee, things happy'are sent;
Yet as a Picture, or bare Sacrament,
Accept these lines, and if in them there be
Merit of love, bestow that love on mee.

To M^r R. W.

ZEalously my Muse doth salute all thee,
Enquiring of that mystique trinitee
Whereof thou, and all to whom heavens do infuse
Like fyre, are made; thy body, mind, and Muse.
Dost thou recover sicknes, or prevent? 5
Or is thy Mind travail'd with discontent?
Or art thou parted from the world and mee,
In a good skorn of the worlds vanitee?
Or is thy devout Muse retyr'd to sing
Vpon her tender Elegiaque string? 10
Our Minds part not, joyne then thy Muse with myne,
For myne is barren thus devorc'd from thyne.

To M^r R. W.

MVse not that by thy mind thy body is led:
For by thy mind, my mind's distempered.
So thy Care lives long, for I bearing part
It eates not only thyne, but my swolne hart.
And when it gives us intermission 5
We take new harts for it to feede upon.

THy friend, whom thy deserts to thee enchainē,
 Urg'd by this unexcusable occasion,
 Thee and the Saint of his affection
 Leaving behinde, doth of both wants complaine;
 And let the love I beare to both sustaine 5

 Strong is this love which ties our hearts in one,
 And strong that love pursu'd with amorous paine;

 Doe send forth scalding fighes, which have the Art
 To melt all Ice, but that which walls her heart.

There

There thou oreseest London : Here I have beene, 5
 By staying in London, too much overseene.
 Now pleasures dearth our City doth posses,
 Our Theaters are fill'd with emptines;
 As lancke and thin is every street and way
 As a woman deliver'd yesterday. 10
 Nothing whereat to laugh my spleen espyes
 But bearbaitings or Law exercife.
 Therefore I'll leave it, and in the Country strive
 Pleasure, now fled from London, to retrieve.
 Do thou so too: and fill not like a Bee 15
 Thy thighs with hony, but as plenteously
 As Russian Marchants, thy selves whole vessell load,
 And then at Winter retaile it here abroad.
 Blesse us with Suffolks sweets; and as it is
 Thy garden, make thy hive and warehouse this. 20

 It is my deed of gift of mee to thee,
 It is my Will, my selfe the Legacie.

 Which with thy name begins, since their depart,
 Whether in the English Provinces they be,
 Or drinke of Po, Sequan, or Danubie,

In

In my youthes morning, now late must be done;
 And I as Giddy Travellers must doe,
 Which stray or sleepe all day, and having loft
 Light and strength, darke and tir'd must then ride post.
 If thou unto thy Muse be marryed, 15
 Embrace her ever, ever multiply,
 Be far from me that strange Adulterie
 To tempt thee and procure her widowhed.
 My Muse, (for I had one,) because I'am cold,
 Divorc'd her selfe: the cause being in me, 20
 That I can take no new in Bigamye,
 Not my will only but power doth withhold.
 Hence comes it, that these Rymes which never had Mother, want matter, and they only have
 A little forme, the which their Father gave; 25
 They are prophane, imperfect, oh, too bad
 To be counted Children of Poetry
 Except confirm'd and Bishoped by thee.

 Hath stor'd with notes of use and pleasure too, 10
 From which rich treasury you may command
 Fit matter whether you will write or doe:

After those loving papers, where friends lend
 With glad grieve, to your Sea-ward steps, farewell,
 Which thicken on you now, as prayers ascend 15
 To heaven in troupes at'a good mans passing bell:

Admit this honest paper, and allow
 It such an audience as your selfe would aske;
 What you must say at Venice this meanes now,
 And hath for nature, what you have for taske: 20

To sweare much love, not to be chang'd before
 Honour alone will to your fortune fit;
 Nor shall I then honour your fortune, more
 Then I have done your honour wanting it.

But'tis an easier load (though both oppresse) 25
 To want, then governe greatnesse, for wee are
 In that, our owne and onely businesse,
 In this, wee must for others vices care;

'Tis therefore well your spirits now are plac'd

At lest lye hid with mee, till thou returne
To rags againe, which is thy native state.

What though thou have enough unworthinesse
To come unto great place as others doe,
That's much; emboldens, pulls, thrusts I confesse,
But'tis not all; Thou should'st be wicked too.

HONOUR is so sublimè perfection,
 And so refine; that when God was alone
 And creaturelesse at first, himselfe had none;
 But as of the elements, these which wee tread,
 Produce all things with which wee are joy'd or fed, 5
 And, those are barren both above our head:
 So from low persons doth all honour flow;
 Kings, whom they would have honoured, to us shew,
 And but direct our honour, not bestow.
 For when from herbs the pure part must be wonne 10
 From grosse, by Stilling, this is better done
 By despi'd dung, then by the fire or Sunne.
 Care not then, Madame, how low your prayfers lye;

That is, of you, who are a firmament
Of virtues, where no one is growne, or spent,
They're your materials, not your ornament. 15

Others whom wee call vertuous, are not so
In their whole substance, but, their virtues grow
But in their humours, and at seasons shew.

For when through tastelesse flat humilitie
In dow bak'd men some harmelesnes we see,
'Tis but his flegme that's Vertuous, and not Hee: 20

Soe is the Blood sometimes; who ever ran
To danger unimportun'd, he was than
No better then a sanguine Vertuous man.

So cloysterall men, who, in pretence of feare
All contributions to this life forbear,
Have Vertue in Melancholy, and only there. 25

Spiritual Cholerique Crytiques, which in all
Religions find faults, and forgive no fall,
Have, through this zeale, Vertue but in their Gall. 30

We're thus but parcel guilt; to Gold we're growne
When Vertue is our Soules complexion;
Who knowes his Vertues name or place, hath none.

Vertue's but aguish, when 'tis severall,
By occasion wak'd, and circumstantiall. 35
True vertue is Soule, Alwaies in all deeds Al.

This Vertue thinking to give dignitie
To your soule, found there no infirmitie,
For, your soule was as good Vertue, as shee;

Shee therefore wrought upon that part of you 40
Which is scarce lesse then soule, as she could do,
And so hath made your beauty, Vertue too.

Hence comes it, that your Beauty wounds not hearts,
As Others, with prophane and sensuall Darts,
But as an influence, vertuous thoughts imparts. 45

But if such friends by the honor of your fight
Grow capable of this so great a light,
As to partake your vertues, and their might,

What must I thinke that influence must doe,
Where it findes sympathie and matter too, 50
Vertue, and beauty of the same stufte, as you?

Which is, your noble worthie sister, shee
Of whom, if what in this my Extasie
And revelation of you both I see,

I should write here, as in short Galleries 55
The Master at the end large glasse ties,
So to present the roome twice to our eyes,

So I should give this letter length, and say
That which I said of you; there is no way
From either, but by the other, not to stray. 60

May therefore this be enough to testifie
My true devotion, free from flattery;

FAire, great, and good, since seeing you, wee see
 What Heaven can doe, and what any Earth can be:
 Since now your beauty shines, now when the Sunne
 Growne stale, is to so low a value runne,
 That his dishevel'd beames and scattered fires
 Serve but for Ladies Periwigs and Tyres
 In lovers Sonnets: you come to repaire
 Gods booke of creatures, teaching what is faire.
 Since now, when all is withered, shrunk, and dri'd,
 All Vertues ebb'd out to a dead low tyde, 10
 All the worlds frame being crumbled into sand,
 Where every man thinks by himselfe to stand,
 Integrity, friendship, and confidence,
 (Ciments of greatnes) being vapor'd hence,
 And narrow man being fill'd with little shares, 15
 Court, Citie, Church, are all shops of small-wares,
 All having blowne to sparkes their noble fire,
 And drawne their sound gold-ingot into wyre;
 All trying by a love of littleneffe
 To make abridgments, and to draw to lesse, 20
 Even that nothing, which at first we were;
 Since in these times, your greatnesse doth appeare,
 And that we learne by it, that man to get
 Towards him that's infinite, must first be great.
 Since in an age so ill, as none is fit 25
 So much as to accuse, much lesse mend it,

 Where all alike are guiltie of the crimes?)

Where he that would be good, is thought by all
 A monster, or at best fantastickall; 30

 And wee your rich Tombe in her face had seene;
 She like the Soule is gone, and you here stay,
 Not a live friend; but th'other halfe of clay.
 And since you act that part, As men say, here 15
 Lies such a Prince, when but one part is there,
 And do all honour and devotion due
 Unto the whole, so wee all reverence you;
 For, such a friendship who would not adore

 But so, as all in you contracted is.
 As of this all, though many parts decay,

whole World is represented.

WELL dy'd the World, that we might live to see
This world of wit, in his Anatomie:
No evill wants his good; so wilder heires
Bedew their Fathers Tombes, with forced teares,
Whose state requites their losse: whiles thus we gain, 5
Well may wee walke in blacks, but not complaine.
Yet how can I consent the world is dead

 A fitter time to yeeld to thy sad Fate,
 Then whiles this spirit lives, that can relate
 Thy worth so well to our last Nephews eyne, 15
 That they shall wonder both at his and thine:
 Admired match! where strives in mutuall grace

 Enough is us to praise them that praise thee,
 And say, that but enough those prayfes bee,
 Which hadst thou liv'd, had hid their fearfull head

But

But goodnesse, to see her, whom all would see,
 All must endeavour to be good as shee,)

This great consumption to a fever turn'd,
 And so the world had fits; it joy'd, it mourn'd; 20
 And, as men thinke, that Agues physick are,
 And th'Ague being spent, give over care,
 So thou sicke World, mistak'st thy selfe to bee
 Well, when alas, thou'rt in a Lethargie.

Her death did wound and tame thee than, and than 25
 Thou might'st have better spar'd the Sunne, or Man.
 That wound was deep, but 'tis more misery,
 That thou hast lost thy sense and memory.
 'Twas heavy then to heare thy voyce of mone,
 But this is worse, that thou art speechlesse growne. 30
 Thou hast forgot thy name, thou hadst; thou wast
 Nothing but shee, and her thou hast o'rpast.
 For as a child kept from the Font, untill
 A prince, expected long, come to fulfill
 The ceremonies, thou unnam'd had'st laid, 35
 Had not her comming, thee her Palace made:
 Her name defin'd thee, gave thee forme, and frame,
 And thou forgett'st to celebrate thy name.
 Some moneths she hath beene dead (but being dead,
 Measures of times are all determin'd) 40
 But long she'ath beene away, long, long, yet none
 Offers to tell us who it is that's gone.
 But as in states doubtfull of future heires,
 When sicknesse without remedie empaire
 The present Prince, they're loth it should be said, 45

Thought it some blasphemy to say sh'was dead,
 Or that our weaknesse was discovered
 In that confession; therefore spoke no more
 Then tongues, the Soule being gone, the losse deplore.
 But though it be too late to succour thee, 55
 Sicke World, yea, dead, yea putrified, since thee
 Thy'intrinsique balme, and thy preservative,
 Can never be renew'd, thou never live,
 I (since no man can make thee live) will try,
 What wee may gaine by thy Anatomy. 60
 Her death hath taught us dearely, that thou art
 Corrupt and mortall in thy purest part.
 Let no man say, the world it selfe being dead,
 'Tis labour lost to have discovered
 The worlds infirmities, since there is none 65
 Alive to study this dissection;
 For there's a kinde of World remaining still,
 Though thee which did inanimate and fill
 The world, be gone, yet in this last long night,
 Her Ghost doth walke; that is, a glimmering light, 70
 A faint weake love of vertue, and of good,
 Reflects from her, on them which understood
 Her worth; and though she have shut in all day,
 The twilight of her memory doth stay;
 Which, from the carcasfe of the old world, free, 75
 Creates a new world, and new creatures bee
 Produc'd: the matter and the stufte of this,
 Her vertue, and the forme our practice is:
 And though to be thus elemented, arme
 These creatures, from home-borne intrinsique harme, 80
 (For all assum'd unto this dignitie,
 So many weedlesse Paradises bee,
 Which of themselves produce no venomous sinne,
 Except some forraine Serpent bring it in)

Yet, because outward stormes the strongest breake, 85
 And strength it selfe by confidence growes weake,
 This new world may be safer, being told
 The dangers and diseases of the old:
 For with due temper men doe then forgoe,
 Or covet things, when they their true worth know. 90
 There is no health; Physitians say that wee,
 At best, enjoy but a neutralitie.
 And can there bee worse sicknesse, then to know
 That we are never well, nor can be so?
 Wee are borne ruinous: poore mothers cry, 95
 That children come not right, nor orderly;
 Except they headlong come and fall upon
 An ominous precipitation.
 How witty's ruine! how importunate
 Upon mankinde! it labour'd to frustrate 100
 Even Gods purpose; and made woman, sent
 For mans reliefe, cause of his languishment.
 They were to good ends, and they are so still,
 But accessory, and principall in ill;
 For that first marriage was our funerall: 105
 One woman at one blow, then kill'd us all,
 And singly, one by one, they kill us now.
 We doe delightfully our selves allow
 To that consumption; and profusely blinde,
 Wee kill our selves to propagate our kinde. 110
 And yet we do not that; we are not men:
 There is not now that mankinde, which was then,
 When as, the Sunne and man did seeme to strive,
 (Joynt tenants of the world) who should survive;
 When, Stagge, and Raven, and the long-liv'd tree, 115

When,

When, if a flow pac'd starre had stolne away
 From the obſervers marking, he might ſlay
 Two or three hundred yeares to ſee't againe,
 And then make up his obſervation plaine; 120
 When, as the age was long, the fiſe was great;
 Mans growth confels'd, and recompenc'd the meat;
 So ſpacious and large, that every Soule
 Did a faire Kingdome, and large Realme controule:
 And when the very ſtature, thus erect, 125
 Did that ſoule a good way towards heaven direct.
 Where is this mankinde now? who lives to age,
 Fit to be made Methuſalem his page?
 Alas, we ſcarce live long enough to try
 Whether a true made clocke run right, or lie. 130
 Old Grandfires talke of yeſterday with ſorrow,
 And for our children wee reſerve to morrow.
 So ſhort is life, that every peafant ſtrives,
 In a torne houſe, or field, to have three lives.
 And as in laſting, ſo in length is man 135
 Contracted to an inch, who was a ſpanne;
 For had a man at firſt in forreſts ſtray'd,
 Or ſhipwrack'd in the Sea, one would have laid
 A wager, that an Elephant, or Whale,
 That met him, would not haſtily aſſaile 140
 A thing ſo equall to him: now alas,
 The Fairies, and the Pigmies well may paſſe
 As credible; mankinde decays ſo ſoone,
 We're ſcarce our Fathers ſhadowes caſt at noone:
 Onely death addes t'our length: nor are wee growne 145
 In ſtature to be men, till we are none.
 But this were light, did our leſſe volume hold

But

But 'tis not so: w'are not retir'd, but damp't;
 And as our bodies, so our mindes are cramp't:
 'Tis shrinking, not close weaving that hath thus,
 In minde, and body both bedwarfed us.
 Wee seeme ambitious, Gods whole worke t'undoe; 155
 Of nothing hee made us, and we strive too,
 To bring our selves to nothing backe; and wee
 Doe what wee can, to do't so soone as hee.
 With new diseases on our selves we warre,
 And with new Physicke, a worse Engin farre. 160
 Thus man, this worlds Vice-Emperour, in whom
 All faculties, all graces are at home;
 And if in other creatures they appeare,
 They're but mans Ministers, and Legats there,
 To worke on their rebellions, and reduce 165
 Them to Civility, and to mans use:
 This man, whom God did wooe, and loth t'attend
 Till man came up, did downe to man descend,
 This man, so great, that all that is, is his,
 Oh what a trifle, and poore thing he is! 170
 If man were any thing, he's nothing now:
 Helpe, or at least some time to waite, allow
 T'his other wants, yet when he did depart
 With her whom we lament, hee lost his heart.
 She, of whom th'Ancients seem'd to prophesie, 175
 When they call'd vertues by the name of shee;
 Shee in whom vertue was so much refin'd,
 That for Allay unto so pure a minde
 Shee tooke the weaker Sex; shee that could drive
 The poysonous tincture, and the staine of Eve, 180

Shee, shee is dead; shee's dead: when thou knowest this,
 Thou knowest how poore a trifling thing man is.
 And learn'st thus much by our Anatomie, 185
 The heart being perih'd, no part can be free.
 And that except thou feed (not banquet) on
 The supernaturall food, Religion,
 Thy better Growth growes withered, and scant;
 Be more then man, or thou'rt lesse then an Ant. 190
 Then, as mankinde, so is the worlds whole frame
 Quite out of joynt, almost created lame:
 For, before God had made up all the rest,
 Corruption entred, and deprav'd the best:
 It seisd the Angels, and then first of all 195
 The world did in her cradle take a fall,
 And turn'd her braines, and tooke a generall maim,
 Wronging each joynt of th'univerfall frame.
 The noblest part, man, felt it first; and than
 Both beasts and plants, curst in the curse of man. 200
 So did the world from the first houre decay,
 That evening was beginning of the day,
 And now the Springs and Sommers which we see,
 Like sonnes of women after fiftie bee.
 And new Philosophy calls all in doubt, 205
 The Element of fire is quite put out;
 The Sun is lost, and th'earth, and no mans wit
 Can well direct him where to looke for it.
 And freely men confesse that this world's spent,
 When in the Planets, and the Firmament 210
 They seeke so many new; they see that this
 Is crumbled out againe to his Atomies.
 'Tis all in peeces, all cohaerence gone;

 Prince

Prince, Subject, Father, Sonne, are things forgot, 215
 For every man alone thinks he hath got
 To be a Phoenix, and that then can bee
 None of that kinde, of which he is, but hee.
 This is the worlds condition now, and now
 She that should all parts to reunion bow, 220
 She that had all Magnetique force alone,
 To draw, and fasten fundred parts in one;
 She whom wise nature had invented then
 When she observ'd that every sort of men
 Did in their voyage in this worlds Sea stray, 225
 And needed a new compasse for their way;
 She that was best, and first originall
 Of all faire copies, and the generall
 Steward to Fate; she whose rich eyes, and brest
 Guilt the West Indies, and perfum'd the East; 230
 Whose having breath'd in this world, did bestow
 Spice on those Iles, and bad them still smell so,
 And that rich Indie which doth gold interre,
 Is but as single money, coyn'd from her:
 She to whom this world must it selfe refer, 235
 As Suburbs, or the Microcosme of her,
 Shee, shee is dead; shee's dead: when thou knowst this,
 Thou knowst how lame a cripple this world is.
 And learn't thus much by our Anatomy,
 That this worlds generall sicknesse doth not lie 240
 In any humour, or one certaine part;
 But as thou sawest it rotten at the heart,
 Thou seest a Hectique feaver hath got hold
 Of the whole substance, not to be contrould,
 And that thou hast but one way, not t'admit 245
 The worlds infection, to be none of it.

Feele this confuming wound, and ages darts.
 For the worlds beauty is decaid, or gone,
 Beauty, that's colour, and proportion.
 We thinke the heavens enjoy their Sphericall,
 Their round proportion embracing all.
 But yet their various and perplexed course,
 Observ'd in divers ages, doth enforce
 Men to finde out so many Eccentrique parts,
 Such divers downe-right lines, such overthwarts,
 As disproportion that pure forme: It teares
 The Firmament in eight and forty sheires,
 And in these Constellations then arise
 New starres, and old doe vanish from our eyes: 260
 As though heav'n suffered earthquakes, peace or war,
 When new Towers rise, and old demolish't are.
 They have impal'd within a Zodiake
 The free-borne Sun, and keepe twelve Signes awake
 To watch his steps; the Goat and Crab controule, 265
 And fright him backe, who else to either Pole
 (Did not these Tropiques fetter him) might runne:
 For his course is not round; nor can the Sunne
 Perfit a Circle, or maintaine his way
 One inch direct; but where he rose to-day 270
 He comes no more, but with a couzening line,
 Steales by that point, and so is Serpentine:
 And seeming weary with his reeling thus,
 He meanes to sleepe, being now false nearer us.
 So, of the Starres which boast that they doe runne 275
 In Circle still, none ends where he begun.
 All their proportion's lame, it sinkes, it swels.
 For of Meridians, and Parallels,
 Man hath weav'd out a net, and this net throwne
 Upon the Heavens, and now they are his owne. 280
 Loth to goe up the hill, or labour thus
 To goe to heaven, we make heaven come to us.
 We spur, we reine the starres, and in their race

They're diversly content t'obey our pace.
 But keeps the earth her round proportion still? 285
 Doth not a Tenarif, or higher Hill
 Rise so high like a Rocke, that one might thinke

 Seas are so deepe, that Whales being strooke to day,
 Perchance to morrow, scarce at middle way 290
 Of their wish'd journies end, the bottome, die.
 And men, to sound depths, so much line untie,
 As one might justly thinke, that there would rise
 At end thereof, one of th'Antipodies:
 If under all, a Vault infernall bee, 295

 Then solidnesse, and roundnesse have no place.

 That those two legges whereon it doth rely,

As to our eyes, the formes from objects flow :
 Shee, who if those great Doctors truly said
 That the Arke to mans proportions was made,
 Had been a type for that, as that might be
 A type of her in this, that contrary 320
 Both Elements, and Passions liv'd at peace
 In her, who caus'd all Civill war to cease.
 Shee, after whom, what forme so'er we see,
 Is discord, and rude incongruitie;
 Shee, shee is dead, shee's dead; when thou know'st this 325
 Thou know'st how ugly a monster this world is:
 And learn'st thus much by our Anatomie,
 That here is nothing to enamour thee:
 And that, not only faults in inward parts,
 Corruptions in our braines, or in our hearts, 330
 Poysoning the fountaines, whence our actions spring,
 Endanger us: but that if every thing
 Be not done fitly and in proportion,

 Yet sight hath only colour to feed on,
 And colour is decay'd : summers robe growes 355

 Our blushing red, which us'd in cheekes to spread,
 Is inward sunke, and only our soules are red.
 Perchance the world might have recovered,

Th'Ayre doth not motherly fit on the earth,
 To hatch her seasons, and give all things birth;
 Spring-times were common cradles, but are tombes; 385
 And false-conceptions fill the generall wombes;
 Th'Ayre shewes such Meteors, as none can see,

 So as the influence of those starres may bee

 And doe by touch, all which those stars could doe? 395
 The art is lost, and correspondence too.
 For heaven gives little, and the earth takes lesse,
 And man least knowes their trade and purposes.
 If this commerce twixt heaven and earth were not

 She, for whose losse we have lamented thus,

 Death could not quench her vertue so, but that 405
 It would be (if not follow'd) wondred at:
 And all the world would be one dying Swan,

 All ſtates to gold, yet gilded every ſtate,
 So that ſome Princes have ſome temperance;
 Some Counſellers ſome purpoſe to advance 420
 The common profit; and ſome people have
 Some ſtay, no more then Kings ſhould give, to crave;
 Some women have ſome taciturnity,
 Some nunneries ſome graines of chaſtitie.
 She that did thus much, and much more could doe, 425
 But that our age was Iron, and ruſtie too,
 Shee, ſhee is dead; ſhee's dead; when thou knowſt this,
 Thou knowſt how drie a Cinder this world is.
 And learn'ſt thus much by our Anatomy,
 That 'tis in vaine to dew, or mollifie 430
 It with thy teares, or ſweat, or blood: nothing
 Is worth our travaile, grieve, or periſhing,
 But thoſe rich joyes, which did poſſeſſe her heart,
 Of which ſhe's now partaker, and a part.
 But as in cutting up a man that's dead, 435
 The body will not laſt out, to have read
 On every part, and therefore men direct
 Their ſpeech to parts, that are of moſt effect;
 So the worlds carcaſſe would not laſt, if I
 Were punctuall in this Anatomy; 440
 Nor ſmels it well to hearers, if one tell
 Them their diſeaſe, who faine would think they're well.
 Here therefore be the end: And, bleſſed maid,
 Of whom is meant what ever hath been ſaid,
 Or ſhall be ſpoken well by any tongue, 445
 Whoſe name refines courſe lines, and makes proſe ſong,
 Accept this tribute, and his firſt yeares rent,
 Who till his darke ſhort tapers end be ſpent,
 As oft as thy feaſt ſees this widowed earth,
 Will yearely celebrate thy ſecond birth, 450
 That is, thy death; for though the ſoule of man

 When

When man doth die; our body's as the wombe,
 And, as a Mid-wife, death directs it home.
 And you her creatures, whom she workes upon, 455
 And have your last, and best concoction
 From her example, and her vertue, if you
 In reverence to her, do thinke it due,
 That no one should her praises thus rehearse,
 As matter fit for Chronicle, not verse; 460
 Vouchsafe to call to minde that God did make
 A last, and lasting't peece, a song. He spake
 To Moses to deliver unto all,
 That song, because hee knew they would let fall
 The Law, the Prophets, and the History, 465
 But keepe the song still in their memory:
 Such an opinion (in due measure) made
 Me this great Office boldly to invade:
 Nor could incomprehensiblenesse deterre
 Mee, from thus trying to emprison her, 470
 Which when I saw that a strict grave could doe,
 I saw not why verse might not do so too.
 Verse hath a middle nature: heaven keeps Soules,
 The Grave keeps bodies, Verse the Fame enroules.

Yet

Yet she's demolish'd: can wee keepe her then
 In works of hands, or of the wits of men? 10
 Can these memorials, ragges of paper, give
 Life to that name, by which name they must live?
 Sickly, alas, short-liv'd, aborted bee
 Those carcasfe verfes, whose foule is not shee.
 And can shee, who no longer would be shee, 15
 Being such a Tabernacle, stoope to be
 In paper wrapt; or, when shee would not lie
 In such a house, dwell in an Elegie?
 But 'tis no matter; wee may well allow
 Verse to live so long as the world will now, 20
 For her death wounded it. The world containes
 Princes for armes, and Counsellors for braines,
 Lawyers for tongues, Divines for hearts, and more,
 The Rich for stomackes, and for backes, the Poore;
 The Officers for hands, Merchants for feet, 25
 By which, remote and distant Countries meet.
 But those fine spirits which do tune, and set
 This Organ, are those peeces which beget
 Wonder and love; and these were shee; and shee
 Being spent, the world must needs decrepit bee; 30
 For since death will proceed to triumph still,
 He can finde nothing, after her, to kill,
 Except the world it selfe, so great as shee.
 Thus brave and confident may Nature bee,
 Death cannot give her such another blow, 35
 Because shee cannot such another shew.
 But must wee say she's dead? may't not be said
 That as a fundred clocke is peecemeale laid,
 Not to be lost, but by the makers hand
 Repolish'd, without errour then to stand, 40
 Or as the Affrique Niger streame enwombs

It selfe into the earth, and after comes (Having first made a naturall bridge, to passe
 For many leagues) farre greater then it was,
 May't not be said, that her grave shall restore 45
 Her, greater, purer, firmer, then before?
 Heaven may say this, and joy in't, but can wee
 Who live, and lacke her, here this vantage see?
 What is't to us, alas, if there have beene
 An Angell made a Throne, or Cherubin? 50
 Wee lose by't: and as aged men are glad
 Being tastelesse growne, to joy in joyes they had,
 So now the sick starv'd world must feed upon
 This joy, that we had her, who now is gone.
 Rejoyce then Nature, and this World, that you, 55
 Fearing the last fires haſtning to subdue
 Your force and vigour, ere it were neere gone,
 Wisely bestow'd and laid it all on one.
 One, whose cleare body was so pure and thinne,
 Because it need disguise no thought within. 60
 'Twas but a through-light scarfe, her minde t'inroule;

 And whom, who ere had worth enough, desir'd;
 As when a Temple's built, Saints emulate 65
 To which of them, it shall be consecrate.
 But, as when heaven lookes on us with new eyes,
 Those new starres every Artist exercise,
 What place they should assigne to them they doubt,
 Argue, and agree not, till those starres goe out: 70
 So the world studied whose this peece should be,

 To scape th'infirmities which wait upon
 Woman, she went away, before sh'was one;
 And the worlds busie noyse to overcome,
 Tooke so much death, as serv'd for opium; 80
 For though she could not, nor could chuse to dye,
 She'ath yeilded to too long an extasie:
 Hee which not knowing her said Hiftory,
 Should come to reade the booke of destiny,
 How faire, and chaste, humble, and high she'ad been, 85
 Much promis'd, much perform'd, at not fifteene,
 And meafuring future things, by things before,
 Should turne the leafe to reade, and reade no more,
 Would thinke that either destiny mistooke,
 Or that some leaves were torne out of the booke. 90
 But 'tis not so; Fate did but usher her
 To yeares of reasons use, and then inferre
 Her destiny to her selfe, which liberty
 She tooke but for thus much, thus much to die.
 Her modestie not suffering her to bee 95
 Fellow-Commissioner with Destinie,
 She did no more but die; if after her
 Any shall live, which dare true good prefer,
 Every such person is her deligate,

 Of Fate, and her, for filling up their blankes.

Are in their place, and yet still moved are:
 No soule (whiles with the luggage of this clay
 It clogged is) can follow thee halfe way; 10
 Or see thy flight, which doth our thoughts outgoe
 So fast, that now the lightning moves but slow:
 But now thou art as high in heaven flowne
 As heaven's from us; what soule besides thine owne
 Can tell thy joyes, or say he can relate 15
 Thy glorious Journals in that blessed state?
 I envie thee (Rich soule) I envy thee,
 Although I cannot yet thy glory see:
 And thou (great spirit) which hers follow'd hast
 So fast, as none can follow thine so fast; 20
 So far, as none can follow thine so farre,
 (And if this flesh did not the passage barre
 Hadst caught her) let me wonder at thy flight
 Which long agoe hadst lost the vulgar fight,
 And now mak'st proud the better eyes, that they 25
 Can see thee less'n'd in thine ayery way;
 So while thou mak'st her soule by progresse knowne
 Thou mak'st a noble progresse of thine owne,
 From this worlds carkasse having mounted high
 To that pure life of immortalitie; 30
 Since thine aspiring thoughts themselves so raise
 That more may not befeeme a creatures praise,
 Yet still thou vow'st her more; and every yeare
 Mak'st a new progresse, while thou wandrest here;
 Still upward mount; and let thy Makers praise 35
 Honor thy Laura, and adorne thy laies.
 And since thy Muse her head in heaven shrouds,
 Oh let her never stoope below the clouds:
 And if those glorious fainted soules may know
 Or what wee doe, or what wee sing below, 40
 Those acts, those songs shall still content them best
 Which praise those awfull Powers that make them blest.

OF THE SOULE.

The second Anniversarie.

Nothing could make me sooner to confesse
That this world had an everlastingnesse,
Then to consider, that a yeare is runne,
Since both this lower world's, and the Sunnes Sunne,
The Lustre, and the vigor of this All, 5
Did set; 'twere blasphemie to say, did fall.
But as a ship which hath strooke faile, doth runne
By force of that force which before, it wonne:
Or as sometimes in a beheaded man,
Though at those two Red seas, which freely ranne, 10
One from the Trunke, another from the Head,
His soule be fail'd, to her eternall bed,
His eyes will twinkle, and his tongue will roll,
As though he beckned, and cal'd backe his soule,
He graspes his hands, and he pulls up his feet, 15
And seemes to reach, and to step forth to meet
His soule; when all these motions which we saw,
Are but as Ice, which crackles at a thaw:
Or as a Lute, which in moist weather, rings
Her knell alone, by cracking of her strings: 20
So struggles this dead world, now thee is gone;
For there is motion in corruption.

As

As some daies are at the Creation nam'd,
 Before the Sunne, the which fram'd daies, was fram'd,
 So after this Sunne's set, some shew appeares, 25
 And orderly vicissitude of yeares.
 Yet a new Deluge, and of Lethe flood,
 Hath drown'd us all, All have forgot all good,
 Forgetting her, the maine reserve of all.
 Yet in this deluge, grosse and generall, 30
 Thou seest me strive for life; my life shall bee,
 To be hereafter prais'd, for praying thee;
 Immortall Maid, who though thou would'st refuse
 The name of Mother, be unto my Muse
 A Father, since her chaste Ambition is, 35
 Yearely to bring forth such a child as this.
 These Hymnes may worke on future wits, and so
 May great Grand children of thy prayes grow.
 And so, though not revive, embalme and spice
 The world, which else would putrifie with vice. 40
 For thus, Man may extend thy progeny,
 Untill man doe but vanish, and not die.
 These Hymnes thy issue, may encrease so long,
 As till Gods great Venite change the song.
 Thirst for that time, O my insatiate soule, 45
 And serve thy thirst, with Gods safe-sealing Bowle.
 Be thirftie still, and drinke still till thou goe
 To th'only Health, to be Hydroptique so.
 Forget this rotten world; And unto thee
 Let thine owne times as an old storie bee. 50

 Doe not so much as not beleieve a man.

 Forget this world, and scarce thinke of it so,

 To be thus stupid is Alacritie;
 Men thus Lethargique have best Memory.
 Look upward; that's towards her, whose happy state 65
 We now lament not, but congratulate.
 Shee, to whom all this world was but a stage,
 Where all sat harkning how her youthfull age
 Should be employ'd, because in all shee did,
 Some Figure of the Golden times was hid. 70
 Who could not lacke, what e'r this world could give,

 So far were all remov'd from more or lesse.
 But as in Mithridate, or just perfumes,
 Where all good things being met, no one presumes
 To governe, or to triumph on the rest,
 Only because all were, no part was best. 130
 And as, though all doe know, that quantities
 Are made of lines, and lines from Points arise,
 None can these lines or quantities unjoynt,
 And say this is a line, or this a point,

 But ere she can consider how she went, 205
 At once is at, and through the Firmament.
 And as these starres were but so many beads
 Strung on one string, speed undistinguish'd leads
 Her through those Sphaeres, as through the beads, a string,
 Whose quick succession makes it still one thing: 210
 As doth the pith, which, left our bodies slacke,
 Strings fast the little bones of necke, and backe;
 So by the Soule doth death string Heaven and Earth;
 For when our Soule enjoys this her third birth,
 (Creation gave her one, a second, grace,) 215
 Heaven is as neare, and present to her face,

This low world, to so high a marke as shee,)
 The Westerne treasure, Easterne spicerie,
 Europe, and Afrique, and the unknowne rest
 Were easily found, or what in them was best; 230
 And when w^have made this large discoverie
 Of all, in her some one part then will bee
 Twenty such parts, whose plenty and riches is Enough to make twenty such worlds as this;
 Shee, whom had they knowne who did first betroth 235
 The Tutelar Angels, and assign'd one, both
 To Nations, Cities, and to Companies,
 To Functions, Offices, and Dignities,
 And to each severall man, to him, and him,
 They would have given her one for every limbe; 240
 She, of whose soule, if wee may say, 'twas Gold,
 Her body was th'^{Electrum}, and did hold
 Many degrees of that; wee understood
 Her by her sight; her pure, and eloquent blood
 Spoke in her cheekes, and so distinctly wrought, 245
 That one might almost say, her body thought;
 Shee, shee, thus richly and largely hous'd, is gone:
 And chides us slow-pac'd snailles who crawle upon
 Our prisons prison, earth, nor thinke us well,
 Longer, then whil'ft wee beare our brittle shell. 250
 But 'twere but little to have chang'd our roome,
 If, as we were in this our living Tombe
 Oppress'd with ignorance, wee still were so.
 Poore soule, in this thy flesh what dost thou know?
 Thou know'st thy selfe so little, as thou know'st not, 255
 How thou didst die, nor how thou wast begot.
 Thou neither know'st, how thou at first cam'st in,
 Nor how thou took'st the poyson of mans sinne.

*Elegie upon the untimely death of the incomparable
Prince Henry.*

L Ooke to mee faith, and looke to my faith, God;
For both my centers feeble this period.
Of waight one center, one of greatnesse is;
And Reason is that center, Faith is this;
For into'our reason flow, and there do end 5
All, that this naturall world doth comprehend:
Quotidian things, and equidistant hence,
Shut in, for man, in one circumference.
But for th'enormous greatnesse, which are
So disproportion'd, and so angulare, 10
As is Gods essence, place and providence, .
Where, how, when, what foules do, departed hence,
These things (eccentrique else) on faith do strike;
Yet neither all, nor upon all, alike.
For reason, put to'her best extension, 15
Almost meetes faith, and makes both centers one.
And nothing ever came so neare to this,
As contemplation of that Prince, wee misse.

Reason still seconded, that this prince would. 20

If

If then least moving of the center, make
 More, then if whole hell belch'd, the world to shake,
 What must this do, centers distracted so,
 That wee see not what to beleeeve or know?
 Was it not well beleev'd till now, that hee, 25
 Whose reputation was an extasie
 On neighbour States, which knew not why to wake,
 Till hee discover'd what wayes he would take;
 For whom, what Princes angled, when they tryed,
 Met a Torpedo, and were stupified; 30
 And others studies, how he would be bent;
 Was his great fathers greatest instrument,
 And activ'st spirit, to convey and tie
 This soule of peace, through Christianity?
 Was it not well beleev'd, that hee would make 35
 This generall peace, th'Eternall overtake,
 And that his times might have stretch'd out so farre,
 As to touch those, of which they emblems are?
 For to confirme this just beleefe, that now
 The last dayes came, wee saw heav'n did allow, 40
 That, but from his aspect and exercise,
 In peacefull times, Rumors of war did rise.
 But now this faith is heresie: we must
 Still stay, and vexee our great-grand-mother, Dust.
 Oh, is God prodigall? hath he spent his store 45
 Of plagues, on us; and onely now, when more
 Would ease us much, doth he grudge misery;
 And will not let's enjoy our curse; to dy?
 As, for the earth throwne lowest downe of all,
 T'were an ambition to desire to fall, 50
 So God, in our desire to dye, doth know
 Our plot for ease, in being wretched so.

Therefore we live; though such a life wee have,
 As but so many mandrakes on his grave.
 What had his growth, and generation done, 55
 When, what we are, his putrefaction

 Nor hath our world now, other Soule then that.
 And could grieffe get so high as heav'n, that Quire,
 Forgetting this their new joy, would desire 60

 Is th'other center, Reason, faster then?
 Where should we looke for that, now we're not men?
 For if our Reason be'our connexion 65
 Of causes, now to us there can be none.
 For, as, if all the substances were spent,

MADAME,

I Have learn'd by those lawes wherein I am a¹ little conversant, that hee which bestowes any cost upon the dead, obliges him which is dead, but not the² heire; I do not therefore send this paper to your Ladyship, that you should thanke mee for it, or thinke that I thanke you in it; your favours and benefits to mee are so much above my merits, that they are even above my gratitude, if that were to be judged by words which must expresse
 it: But, Madame, since your noble brothers fortune being yours, the evidences also concerning it are yours,³ so his vertue⁴ being yours, the evidences concerning it,⁵ belong also to you, of which by

Come to your knowledge, and affections too,
See, and with joy, mee to that good degree

And, by these meditations refin'd,
Can unapparell and enlarge my minde,
And so can make by this soft extasie,
This place a map of heav'n, my selfe of thee.
Thou seest mee here at midnight, now all rest; 15
Times dead-low water; when all mindes devest
To morrows businesse, when the labourers have
Such rest in bed, that their last Church-yard grave,
Subject to change, will scarce be'a type of this,
Now when the clyent, whose last hearing is 20
To morrow, sleeps, when the condemned man,
(Who when hee opes his eyes, must shut them than Againe by death,) although sad watch hee keepe,
Doth practice dying by a little sleepe,
Thou at this midnight seest mee, and as soone
As that Sunne rises to mee, midnight's noone,

All the world growes transparent, and I see
 Through all, both Church and State, in seeing thee;
 And I discerne by favour of this light,
 My selfe, the hardest object of the sight. 30
 God is the glasse; as thou when thou dost see
 Him who sees all, seest all concerning thee,
 So, yet unglorified, I comprehend
 All, in these mirrors of thy wayes, and end.
 Though God be our true glasse, through which we see 35
 All, since the beeing of all things is hee,
 Yet are the trunks which doe to us derive
 Things, in proportion fit, by perspective,
 Deeds of good men; for by their living here,
 Vertues, indeed remote, seeme to be neare. 40
 But where can I affirme, or where arrest
 My thoughts on his deeds? which shall I call best?
 For fluid vertue cannot be look'd on,
 Nor can endure a contemplation.
 As bodies change, and as I do not weare 45
 Those Spirits, humors, blood I did last yeare,
 And, as if on a streame I fixe mine eye,
 That drop, which I looked on, is presently
 Pusht with more waters from my sight, and gone,
 So in this sea of vertues, can no one 50
 Bee'infisted on; vertues, as rivers, passe,
 Yet still remaines that vertuous man there was.

Yet at the last two perfect bodies rise, 55
 Because God knowes where every Atome lyes;
 So, if one knowledge were made of all those,
 Who knew his minutes well, hee might dispose
 His vertues into names, and ranks; but I
 Should injure Nature, Vertue, and Destinie, 60
 Should I divide and discontinue so,
 Vertue, which did in one intirenesse grow.
 For as, hee that would say, spirits are fram'd
 Of all the purest parts that can be nam'd,
 Honours not spirits halfe so much, as hee 65
 Which sayes, they have no parts, but simple bee;
 So is't of vertue; for a point and one
 Are much entirer then a million.
 And had Fate meant to have his vertues told,
 It would have let him live to have beene old; 70
 So, then that vertue in season, and then this,
 We might have seene, and said, that now he is
 Witty, now wise, now temperate, now just:
 In good short lives, vertues are faine to thrust,
 And to be sure betimes to get a place, 75
 When they would exercise, lacke time, and space.
 So was it in this person, forc'd to bee
 For lack of time, his owne epitome:
 So to exhibit in few yeares as much,
 As all the long breath'd Chronicles can touch. 80
 As when an Angell down from heav'n doth flye,

Yet

Yet when he's come, we know he did repaire 85
 To all twixt Heav'n and Earth, Sunne, Moon, and Aire;
 And as this Angell in an instant knowes,
 And yet wee know, this sodaine knowledge growes
 By quick amassing severall formes of things,
 Which he successefully to order brings; 90
 When they, whose slow-pac'd lame thoughts cannot goe
 So fast as hee, thinke that he doth not so;
 Just as a perfect reader doth not dwell,
 On every syllable, nor stay to spell,
 Yet without doubt, hee doth distinctly see 95
 And lay together every A, and B;
 So, in short liv'd good men, is not understood
 Each severall vertue, but the compound good;
 For, they all vertues paths in that pace tread,
 As Angells goe, and know, and as men read. 100
 O why should then these men, these lumps of Balme
 Sent hither, this worlds tempests to becalme,
 Before by deeds they are diffus'd and spread,
 And so make us alive, themselves be dead?
 O Soule, O circle, why so quickly bee 105
 Thy ends, thy birth and death, clos'd up in thee?
 Since one foot of thy compasse still was plac'd

 Zeales agues, and hydroptique avarice,

 O why wouldst thou be any instrument 155
 To this unnaturall course, or why consent
 To this, not miracle, but Prodigie,
 That when the ebbs, longer then flowings be,
 Vertue, whose flood did with thy youth begin,
 Should so much faster ebb out, then flow in? 160
 Though her flood was blowne in, by thy first breath,
 All is at once funke in the whirle-poole death.

 To which thy ranke in this state destin'd thee,
 That there thy counsailes might get victorie,
 And so in that capacitie remove
 All jealousies 'twixt Prince and subjects love, 190
 Thou could'st no title, to this triumph have,
 Thou didst intrude on death, usurp'dst a grave.
 Then (though victoriously) thou hadst fought as yet
 But with thine owne affections, with the heate
 Of youths desires, and colds of ignorance, 195
 But till thou should'st successfully advance
 Thine armes 'gainst forraine enemies, which are
 Both Envy, and acclamations popular,
 (For, both these engines equally defeate,
 Though by a divers Mine, those which are great,) 200
 Till then thy War was but a civill War,
 For which to Triumph, none admitted are.
 No more are they, who though with good successe,
 In a defensive war, their power expresse;
 Before men triumph, the dominion 205
 Must be enlarg'd, and not preserv'd alone;
 Why should'st thou then, whose battailes were to win
 Thy selfe, from those straits nature put thee in,
 And to deliver up to God that state,
 Of which he gave thee the vicariate, 210

(Which is thy foule and body) as intire
 As he, who takes endeavours, doth require,
 But didst not stay, t'enlarge his kingdome too,
 By making others, what thou didst, to doe;
 Why shouldst thou Triumph now, when Heav'n no more
 Hath got, by getting thee, then't had before? 216
 For, Heav'n and thou, even when thou livedst here,
 Of one another in possession were.
 But this from Triumph most disables thee,
 That, that place which is conquered, must bee 220
 Left safe from present warre, and likely doubt
 Of imminent commotions to breake out:
 And hath he left us so? or can it bee
 His territory was no more then Hee?
 No, we were all his charge, the Diocis 225
 Of ev'ry exemplar man, the whole world is,
 And he was joyned in commision
 With Tutelar Angels, sent to every one.
 But though this freedome to upbraid, and chide
 Him who Triumph'd, were lawfull, it was ty'd 230
 With this, that it might never reference have Unto the Senate, who this triumph gave;
 Men might at Pompey jeast, but they might not
 At that authoritie, by which he got
 Leave to Triumph, before, by age, he might; 235
 So, though, triumphant soule, I dare to write,

Of early triumphs; And I (though with paine)
 Lessen our losse, to magnifie thy gaine
 Of triumph, when I say, It was more fit,
 That all men should lacke thee, then thou lack it. 245

 To which God gives the lower parts of man.
 This Sea invirons all, and though as yet
 God hath set markes, and bounds, twixt us and it,
 Yet doth it rore, and gnaw, and still pretend, 5
 And breaks our bankes, when ere it takes a friend.
 Then our land waters (teares of passion) vent;
 Our waters, then, above our firmament,

And

And even these teares, which should wash sin, are sin.

We, after Gods Noe, drowne our world againe.

Nothing but man of all inuenum'd things

Doth worke upon itselfe, with inborne stings.

Teares are false Spectacles, we cannot see

15

Through passions mist, what wee are, or what seee.

In her this sea of death hath made no breach,

But as the tide doth wash the slimie beach,

And leaves embroder'd workes upon the sand,

So is her flesh refin'd by deaths cold hand.

21

As men of China, after an ages stay,

Do take up Porcelane, where they buried Clay;

So at this grave, her limbecke, which refines

The Diamonds, Rubies, Saphires, Pearles, and Mines,

Of which this flesh was, her soule shall inspire

25

Flesh of such stuffe, as God, when his last fire

Annuls this world, to recompence it, shall,

Make and name then, th'Elixir of this All.

They say, the sea, when it gaines, loseth too;

If carnall Death (the yonger brother) doe

30

Usurpe the body, our soule, which subject is

To th'elder death, by sinne, is freed by this;

They perish both, when they attempt the just;

For, graves our trophies are, and both deaths dust.

So, unobnoxious now, she hath buried both;

35

For, none to death finnes, that to sinne is loth,

Nor doe they die, which are not loth to die;

So hath she this, and that virginity.

Grace was in her extremely diligent,
 That kept her from sinne, yet made her repent. 40
 Of what small spots pure white complaines! Alas,
 How little poyson cracks a chriftall glasse!
 She sinn'd, but just enough to let us see
 That God's word must be true, All, sinners be.
 Soe much did zeale her conscience rarefie, 45
 That, extreme truth lack'd little of a lye,
 Making omiffions, acts; laying the touch
 Of sinne, on things that sometimes may be such.

 Surpasse all speed, by him are winged too: 50
 So would her foule, already in heaven, seeme then,
 To clyme by teares, the common staires of men.
 How fit she was for God, I am content

 How fit for us, how even and how sweet, 55
 How good in all her titles, and how meet,
 To have reform'd this forward heresie,
 That women can no parts of friendship bee;

Elegie on M^{rs} Boulftred.

DEATH I recant, and fay, unfaid by mee
 What ere hath flip'd, that might diminifh thee.
 Spirituall treafon, atheifme 'tis, to fay,
 That any can thy Summons difobey.
 Th'earths face is but thy Table; there are fet 5
 Plants, cattell, men, difhes for Death to eate.
 In a rude hunger now hee millions drawes
 Into his bloody, or plaguy, or fterv'd jawes.
 Now hee will feeme to fpare, and doth more waft,
 Eating the beft firft, well preferv'd to laft. 10
 Now wantonly he fpoiles, and eates us not,
 But breakes off friends, and lets us peecemeale rot.
 Nor will this earth ferve him; he finkes the deepe
 Where harmeleffe fifh monaftique filence keepe,
 Who (were Death dead) by Roes of living fand, 15
 Might fponge that element, and make it land.
 He rounds the aire, and breakes the hymnique notes
 In birds (Heavens chorifters,) organique throats,
 Which (if they did not dye) might feeme to bee
 A tenth ranke in the heavenly hierarchie. 20
 O ftrong and long-liv'd death, how cam'ft thou in?
 And how without Creation didft begin?
 Thou haft, and fhalt fee dead, before thou dyeft,
 All the foure Monarchies, and Antichrift.
 How could I thinke thee nothing, that fee now 25
 In all this All, nothing elfe is, but thou.
 Our births and lives, vices, and vertues, bee
 Waftfull confumptions, and degrees of thee.

For,

For, wee to live, our bellowes weare, and breath,
 Nor are wee mortall, dying, dead, but death. 30
 And though thou beest, O mighty bird of prey,
 So much reclaim'd by God, that thou must lay
 All that thou kill'st at his feet, yet doth hee
 Reserve but few, and leaves the most to thee.
 And of those few, now thou hast overthrowne 35
 One whom thy blow makes, not ours, nor thine own.
 She was more stories high : hopelesse to come
 To her Soule, thou' hast offer'd at her lower roome.
 Her Soule and body was a King and Court :
 But thou hast both of Captaine mist and fort. 40
 As houses fall not, though the King remove,
 Bodies of Saints rest for their soules above.
 Death gets 'twixt soules and bodies such a place
 As sinne insinuates 'twixt just men and grace,
 Both worke a separation, no divorce. 45
 Her Soule is gone to usher up her corse,
 Which shall be almost another soule, for there
 Bodies are purer, then best Soules are here.
 Because in her, her virtues did outgoe
 Her yeares, would'st thou, O emulous death, do so? 50
 And kill her young to thy losse? must the cost
 Of beauty, and wit, apt to doe harme, be lost?
 What though thou found'st her prooffe 'gainst sins of youth?
 Oh, every age a diverse sinne pursueth.
 Thou should'st have stay'd, and taken better hold, 55
 Shortly, ambitious; covetous, when old,
 She might have prov'd: and such devotion
 Might once have stray'd to superstition.

If all her vertues must have growne, yet might
 Abundant virtue have bred a proud delight. 60
 Had she persever'd just, there would have bin
 Some that would sinne, mis-thinking she did sinne.
 Such as would call her friendship, love, and faine
 To sociablenesse, a name profane;
 Or sinne, by tempting, or, not daring that, 65
 By wishing, though they never told her what.
 Thus might'st thou have slain more soules, had'st thou not croft
 Thy selfe, and to triumph, thine army lost.
 Yet though these wayes be lost, thou hast left one,
 Which is, immoderate griefe that she is gone. 70
 But we may scape that sinne, yet weepe as much,
 Our teares are due, because we are not such.
 Some teares, that knot of friends, her death must cost,
 Because the chaine is broke, though no linke lost.

Sad hearts, the lesse they seeme the more they are, 5
 (So guiltiest men stand mute at the barre)
 Not that they know not, feele not their estate,
 But extreme sense hath made them desperate.
 Sorrow, to whom we owe all that we bee;
 Tyrant, in the first and greatest Monarchy, 10
 Was't, that she did possesse all hearts before,
 Thou hast kil'd her, to make thy Empire more?

 As in a deluge perish th'innocent?
 Was't not enough to have that palace wonne, 15
 But thou must raze it too, that was undone?
 Had'st thou staied there, and look'd out at her eyes,
 All had ador'd thee that now from thee flies,
 For they let out more light, then they tooke in,
 They told not when, but did the day beginne. 20
 She was too Saphirine, and cleare for thee;
 Clay, flint, and jeat now thy fit dwellings be;
 Alas, shee was too pure, but not too weake;
 Who e'r saw Christall Ordinance but would break?
 And if wee be thy conquest, by her fall 25
 Th'haft lost thy end, for in her perish all;
 Or if we live, we live but to rebell,
 They know her better now, that knew her well.
 If we should vapour out, and pine, and die;
 Since, shee first went, that were not miserie. 30

Her soule was Paradise; the Cherubin 35
 Set to keepe it was grace, that kept out finne.
 Shee had no more then let in death, for wee
 All reape consumption from one fruitfull tree.
 God tooke her hence, lest some of us should love
 Her, like that plant, him and his lawes above, 40
 And when wee teares, hee mercy shed in this,
 To raise our mindes to heaven where now she is;
 Who if her vertues would have let her stay
 Wee had had a Saint, have now a holiday.
 Her heart was that strange bush, where, sacred fire, 45
 Religion, did not consume, but inspire
 Such piety, so chaste use of Gods day,
 That what we turne to feast, she turn'd to pray,
 And did prefigure here, in devout tast,
 The rest of her high Sabaoth, which shall last. 50
 Angels did hand her up, who next God dwell,
 (For she was of that order whence most fell)
 Her body left with us, lest some had said,
 Shee could not die, except they saw her dead;

Elegie on the L. C.

Sorrow, who to this house scarce knew the way:
 Is, Oh, heire of it, our All is his prey.
 This strange chance claimes strange wonder, and to us
 Nothing can be so strange, as to weepe thus.
 'Tis well his lifes loud speaking workes deserve,
 And give praise too, our cold tongues could not serve:
 'Tis well, hee kept teares from our eyes before,
 That to fit this deepe ill, we might have store.
 Oh, if a sweet briar, climbe up by'a tree,
 If to a paradise that transplanted bee, 10
 Or fell'd, and burnt for holy sacrifice,
 Yet, that must wither, which by it did rise,
 As we for him dead: though no familie
 Ere rigg'd a soule for heavens discoverie
 With whom more Venturers more boldly dare 15
 Venture their states, with him in joy to share.
 Wee lose what all friends lov'd, him; he gaines now
 But life by death, which worst foes would allow,
 If hee could have foes, in whose practise grew
 All vertues, whose names subtile Schoolmen knew. 20
 What ease, can hope that wee shall see'him, beget,
 When wee must die first, and cannot dye yet?
 His children are his pictures, Oh they bee
 Pictures of him dead, senselesse, cold as he.
 Here needs no marble Tombe, since hee is gone, 25
 He, and about him, his, are turn'd to stone.

To Sir Robert Carr.

SIR,

I Presume you rather try what you can doe in me, then what I can doe in verse; you know my uttermost when it was best, and even then I did best when I had least truth for my subjects. In this present case there is so much truth as it defeats all Poetry. Call therefore this paper by what name you will, and, if it bee not worthy of him, nor of you, nor of mee, smother it, and bee that the sacrifice. If you had commanded mee to have waited on his body to Scotland and preached there, I would have embraced the obligation with more alacrity; But, I thanke you that you would command me that which I was loath to doe, for, even that hath given a tincture of merit to the obedience of

Your poore friend and

Epitaph. B, D, H40, H49 On himſelfe. 1635-69 To the Counteſſe of Bedford. O'F, S96: no heading, and epiſtle only, A25, C
The introductory epiſtle, and the firſt ten lines of the epitaph, the whole with heading Elegie., is printed 1635-54 among the Funerall Elegies. The full epitaph without epiſtle and with heading On himſelfe. is included among the Divine Poems, where it follows the Lamentations of Jeremy. In his note Chambers (II. 234) reverses theſe facts. In 1669 On himſelfe.
is transferred to the Funerall Elegies and is followed immediately by the Elegie, i.e. the epiſtle and incomplete epitaph. They are here given for the firſt time in a ſeparate group 5 Others by Wills 1635-69: Others by

EPISTLE.

Others at the Porches and entries of their Buildings set their Armes; I, my picture; if any colours can deliver a minde so plaine, and flat, and through light as mine. Naturally at a new Author, I doubt, and sicke, and doe not say quickly, good. I censure much and taxe; And this liberty costs mee more then others, by how much my owne things are worse then others. Yet I would not be so rebellious against my selfe, as not to doe it, since I love it; nor so unjust to others, to do it sine talione. As long as I give them as good hold upon mee, they must pardon mee my bitings. I forbid no reprehender, but him that like the Trent Councell forbids not bookes, but Authors, damning what ever such a name hath or shall write. None writes so ill, that he gives not some thing exemplary, to follow, or flie. Now when I beginne this booke, I have no purpose to come into any mans debt¹; how my stocke will hold out I know not; perchance waste, perchance increase in use; if I doe borrow any thing of Antiquitie, besides that I make account that I pay it to posterity, with as much and as good: You shall still finde mee to acknowledge it, and to thanke not him onely that hath digg'd out treasure for mee, but that hath lighted mee a candle to the place. All which I will bid you remember, (for I will have no such Readers as I can teach) is, that the Pithagorian doctrine doth not onely carry one soule from man to man, nor man to beast, but indifferently to plants also: and therefore you must not grudge to finde the same soule in an Emperour, in a Post-horse, and in a Mucheron,¹ since no unreadinesse in the soule, but an indisposition in the organs workes this. And therefore though this soule could not move when it was a Melon, yet it may remember, and now tell mee,² at what lascivious banquet it was serv'd. And though it could not speake, when it was a spider, yet it can remember, and now tell me, who used it for poyson to attaine dignitie. THE P R O G R E S S E O F T H E S O U L E.

First Song.

I.

I Sing the progresse of a deathlesse soule,
 Whom Fate, which God made, but doth not controule,
 Plac'd in most shapcs; all times before the law
 Yoak'd us, and when, and since, in this I sing.
 And the great world to his aged evening; 5
 From infant morne, through manly noone I draw.
 What the gold Chaldee, or silver Persian saw,
 Greeke brasse, or Roman iron, is in this one;
 A worke t'outweare Seths pillars, bricke and stone,
 And (holy writt excepted) made to yeeld to none. 10

II.

Thee, eye of heaven, this great Soule envies not,
 By thy male force, is all wee have, begot.
 In the first East, thou now beginst to shine,
 Suck'st early balme, and Iland spices there,
 And wilt anon in thy loose-rein'd careere 15
 At Tagus, Po, Sene, Thames, and Danow dine,
 And see at night thy Westernne land of Myne,
 Yet hast thou not more nations seene then thee,
 That before thee, one day beganne to bee,
 And thy fraile light being quench'd, shall long, long out
 live thee. 20

 The Church, and all the Monarchies did floate;
 That swimming Colledge, and free Hospitall
 Of all mankinde, that cage and vivarie
 Of fowles, and beasts, in whose wombe, Destinie 25
 Us, and our latestt nephewes did install
 (From thence are all deriv'd, that fill this All,)
 Did'st thou in that great stewardship embarke
 So diverse shapes into that floating parke,
 As have beene moved, and inform'd by this heavenly

Great Destiny the Commissary of God,
 That hast mark'd out a path and period
 For every thing; who, where wee of-spring tooke,
 Our wayes and ends seest at one instant; Thou
 Knot of all causes, thou whose changelesse brow 35
 Ne'r smiles nor frownes, O vouch thou safe to looke
 And shew my story, in thy eternall booke:
 That (if my prayer be fit) I may understand
 So much my selfe, as to know with what hand,
 How scant, or liberall this my lifes race is spand. 40

 Except my legend be free from the letts

Just in that instant when the serpents gripe,
 Broke the flight veines, and tender conduit-pipe,
 Through which this soule from the trees root did draw
 Life, and growth to this apple, fled away
 This loose soule, old, one and another day. 125
 As lightning, which one scarce dares say, he saw,
 'Tis so soone gone, (and better prooffe the law
 Of sense, then faith requires) swiftly she flew
 To a darke and foggie Plot; Her, her fates threw
 There through th'earths pores, and in a Plant hous'd her anew. 130

XIV.

The plant thus abled, to it selfe did force
 A place, where no place was; by natures course
 As aire from water, water fleets away
 From thicker bodies, by this root thronged so
 His spongie confines gave him place to grow: 135
 Just as in our streets, when the people stay
 To see the Prince, and have so fill'd the way
 That weefels scarce could passe, when she comes nere
 They throng and cleave up, and a passage cleare,
 As if, for that time, their round bodies flatned were. 140

No lustfull woman came this plant to grieve,
But 'twas because there was none yet but Eve:
And she (with other purpose) kill'd it quite;
Her sinne had now brought in infirmities;

 Foules they pursue not, nor do undertake
 To spoile the nests industrious birds do make;

 Or seas from Africks body had severed
 And torne the hopefull Promontories head,
 This fish would seeme these, and, when all hopes faile,

 That so small hammers should so soone downe beat
 So great a caille. And having for her house

With this wolfe, that it bred his losse and woe;
And yet his bitch, his sentinell attends
The flocke so neere, so well warnes and defends,
That the wolfe, (hopelesse else) to corrupt her, intends. 410

 At last a trap, of which some every where
 Abell had plac'd, ends all his losse, and feare,
 By the Wolves death; and now just time it was
 That a quicke soule should give life to that masse
 Of blood in Abels bitch, and thither this did passe. 430

 But in the lives of Emperours you shall not
 Reade of a lust the which may equall this;

Hee soone for her too harsh, and churlish grew,
And Abell (the dam dead) would use this new
For the field. Being of two kindes thus made,
He, as his dam, from sheepe drove wolves away,
And as his Sire, he made them his owne prey. 445
Five yeares he liv'd, and cosened with his trade,
Then hopelesse that his faults were hid, betraid

That why he cannot laugh, and speake his minde, 455
He wonders. Much with all, most he doth stay
With Adams fift daughter Siphatecia,
Doth gaze on her, and, where she passeth, passe,
Gathers her fruits, and tumbles on the grasse,
And wisest of that kinde, the first true lover was. 460

 And too high; beafts and angels have beene lov'd.
 This Ape, though else through-vaine, in this was wife,
 He reach'd at things too high, but open way
 There was, and he knew not she would say nay;
 His toyes prevaile not, likelier meanes he tries,
 He gazeth on her face with teare-shot eyes,
 And up lifts subtlly with his ruffet pawe
 Her kidskinne apron without feare or awe
 Of nature; nature hath no gaole, though shee hath

DIVINE POEMS.

To E. of D. with six holy Sonnets.

SEe Sir, how as the Suns hot Masculine flame
 Begets strange creatures on Niles durty slime,
 In me, your fatherly yet lusty Ryme
 (For, these songs are their fruits) have wrought the fame;
 But though the ingendring force from whence they came 5
 Bee strong enough, and nature doe admit
 Seaven to be borne at once, I send as yet
 But six; they say, the seaventh hath still some maim.
 I choose your judgement, which the same degree
 Doth with her sister, your invention, hold, 10
 As fire these droffie Rymes to purifie,
 Or as Elixar, to change them to gold;
 You are that Alchimiſt which alwaies had
 Wit, whose one spark could make good things of bad.

 Thou which of good, hast, yea art treasury,
 All changing unchang'd Antient of dayes;
 But doe not, with a vile crowne of fraile bayes, 5

 But what thy thorny crowne gain'd, that give mee,
 A crowne of Glory, which doth flower alwayes;
 The ends crowne our workes, but thou crown'st our ends,
 For, at our end begins our endlesse rest; 10
 The first last end, now zealously possiest,
 With a strong sober thirst, my foule attends.

 That all which was, and all which should be writ,
 A shallow seeming child, should deeply know?
 His Godhead was not soule to his manhood,
 Nor had time mellowed him to this ripenesse, 10
 But as for one which hath a long taske, 'tis good,
 With the Sunne to beginne his businesse,
 He in his ages morning thus began
By miracles exceeding power of man.

CRUCIFYING.

5. By miracles exceeding power of man,
 Hee faith in some, envie in some begat,
 For, what weake spirits admire, ambitious, hate;
 In both affections many to him ran,
 But Oh! the worst are most, they will and can, 5
 Alas, and do, unto the immaculate,
 Whose creature Fate is, now prescribe a Fate,
 Measuring selfe-lives infinity to'a span,
 Nay to an inch. Loe, where condemned hee
 Beares his owne crosse, with paine, yet by and by 10
 When it beares him, he must beare more and die.
 Now thou art lifted up, draw mee to thee,
 And at thy death giving such liberall dole,
Moyse, with one drop of thy blood, my dry soule.

RESURRECTION.

RESVRRECTION.

6. Moyst with one drop of thy blood, my dry soule
 Shall (though she now be in extreme degree
 Too stony hard, and yet too fleshly,) bee
 Freed by that drop, from being starv'd, hard, or foule,
 And life, by this death abled, shall controule 5
 Death, whom thy death slue; nor shall to mee
 Feare of first or last death, bring miserie,
 If in thy little booke my name thou enroule,
 Fleth in that long sleep is not putrified,
 But made that there, of which, and for which 'twas; 10
 Nor can by other meanes be glorified.
 May then sinnes sleep, and deaths soone from me passe,
 That wak't from both, I againe risen may
Salute the last, and everlasting day.

ASCENTION.

7 Salute the last and everlasting day,
 Joy at the uprising of this Sunne, and Sonne,
 Yee whose iust teares, or tribulation
 Have purely washt, or burnt your droffie clay;
 Behold the Higheft, parting hence away, 5
 Lightens the darke clouds, which hee treads upon,
 Nor doth hee by ascending, shew alone,
 But first hee, and hee first enters the way.
 O strong Ramme, which hast batter'd heaven for mee,
 Mild Lambe, which with thy blood, hast mark'd the path; 10
 Bright Torch, which shin'st, that I the way may see,
 Oh, with thy owne blood quench thy owne iust wrath,
 And if thy holy Spirit, my Muse did raise,
Deigne at my hands this crowne of prayer and praise.

Holy Sonnets.

I.

THou hast made me, And shall thy worke decay?
 Repaire me now, for now mine end doth haste,
 I runne to death, and death meets me as fast,
 And all my pleasures are like yesterday;
 I dare not move my dimme eyes any way, 5
 Despaire behind, and death before doth cast
 Such terrour, and my feeble flesh doth waste
 By sinne in it, which it t'wards hell doth weigh;
 Onely thou art above, and when towards thee
 By thy leave I can looke, I rise againe; 10
 But our old subtle foe so tempteth me,
 That not one houre my selfe I can sustaine;
 Thy Grace may wing me to prevent his art,
 And thou like Adamant draw mine iron heart.

II.

AS due by many titles I resigne
 My selfe to thee, O God, first I was made
 By thee, and for thee, and when I was decay'd
 Thy blood bought that, the which before was thine;
 I am thy sonne, made with thy selfe to shine, 5
 Thy servant, whose paines thou hast still repaid,
 Thy sheepe, thine Image, and, till I betray'd
 My selfe, a temple of thy Spirit divine;
 Why doth the devill then usurpe on mee?
 Why doth he steale, nay ravish that's thy right? 10
 Except thou rise and for thine owne worke fight,
 Oh I shall soone despaire, when I doe see
 That thou lov'st mankind well, yet wilt not chuse me,
 And Satan hates mee, yet is loth to lose mee.

O Might those sighes and teares returne againe
 Into my breast and eyes, which I have spent,
 That I might in this holy discontent
 Mourne with some fruit, as I have mourn'd in vaine;
 In mine Idolatry what shewres of raine 5
 Mine eyes did waste? what griefs my heart did rent?
 That sufferance was my sinne; now I repent;
 'Cause I did suffer I must suffer paine.
 Th'hydroptique drunkard, and night-scouting thiefe,
 The itchy Lecher, and selfe tickling proud 10
 Have the remembrance of past joyes, for reliefe
 Of comming ills. To (poore) me is allow'd
 No ease; for, long, yet vehement grieve hath beene
 Th'effect and cause, the punishment and sinne.

IV.

O H my blacke Soule! now thou art summoned
 By sicknesse, deaths herald, and champion;
 Thou art like a pilgrim, which abroad hath done
 Treason, and durst not turne to whence hee is fled,
 Or like a thiefe, which till deaths doome be read, 5
 Wishest himselfe delivered from prison;
 But damn'd and hal'd to execution,
 Wishest that still he might be imprisoned.
 Yet grace, if thou repent, thou canst not lacke;
 But who shall give thee that grace to beginne? 10
 Oh make thy selfe with holy mourning blacke,
 And red with blushing, as thou art with sinne;
 Or wash thee in Christs blood, which hath this might
 That being red, it dyes red soules to white.

I Am a little world made cunningly
 Of Elements, and an Angelike spright,
 But black finne hath betraid to endlesse night
 My worlds both parts, and (oh) both parts must die.
 You which beyond that heaven which was most high 5
 Have found new sphears, and of new lands can write,
 Powre new seas in mine eyes, that so I might
 Drowne my world with my weeping earnestly,
 Or wash it, if it must be drown'd no more:
 But oh it must be burnt! alas the fire 10
 Of lust and envie have burnt it heretofore,
 And made it fouler; Let their flames retire,
 And burne me ô Lord, with a fiery zeale
 Of thee and thy house, which doth in eating heale.

VI.

THIS is my playes last scene, here heavens appoint
 My pilgrimages last mile; and my race
 Idly, yet quickly runne, hath this last pace,
 My spans last inch, my minutes latest point,
 And gluttonous death, will instantly unjoynt 5
 My body, and soule, and I shall sleepe a space,
 But my'ever-waking part shall see that face,
 Whose feare already shakes my every joynt:
 Then, as my soule, to'heaven her first seate, takes flight,
 And earth-borne body, in the earth shall dwell, 10
 So, fall my finnes, that all may have their right,
 To where they're bred, and would presse me, to hell
 Impute me righteous, thus purg'd of evill,
 For thus I leave the world, the flesh, the devill.

AT the round earths imagin'd corners, blow
 Your trumpets, Angells, and arise, arise
 From death, you numberlesse infinities
 Of foules, and to your scattred bodies goe,
 All whom the flood did, and fire shall o'erthrow, 5
 All whom warre, dearth, age, agues, tyrannies,
 Despaire, law, chance, hath slaine, and you whose eyes,
 Shall behold God, and never tast deaths woe.
 But let them sleepe, Lord, and mee mourne a space,
 For, if above all these, my sinnes abound, 10
 'Tis late to aske abundance of thy grace,
 When wee are there; here on this lowly ground,
 Teach mee how to repent; for that's as good
 As if thou'hadst seal'd my pardon, with thy blood.

VIII.

IF faithfull foules be alike glorifi'd
 As Angels, then my fathers soule doth see,
 And adds this even to full felicitie,
 That valiantly I hels wide mouth o'rstride:
 But if our mindes to these foules be descry'd 5
 By circumstances, and by signes that be
 Apparent in us, not immediately,
 How shall my mindes white truth by them be try'd?
 They see idolatrous lovers weepe and mourne,
 And vile blasphemous Conjurers to call 10
 On Iesus name, and Pharisaicall
 Dissemblers feigne devotion. Then turne
 O pensive soule, to God, for he knowes best
 Thy true grieve, for he put it in my breast.

IF poysonous mineralls, and if that tree,
 Whose fruit threw death on else immortall us,
 If lecherous goats, if serpents envious
 Cannot be damn'd; Alas; why should I bee?
 Why should intent or reason, borne in mee, 5
 Make sinnes, else equall, in mee more heinous?
 And mercy being easie, and glorious
 To God; in his sterne wrath, why threatens hee?
 But who am I, that dare dispute with thee
 O God? Oh! of thine onely worthy blood, 10
 And my teares, make a heavenly Lethean flood,
 And drowne in it my sinnes blacke memorie;
 That thou remember them, some claime as debt,
 I thinke it mercy, if thou wilt forget.

DEATH be not proud, though some have called thee
 Mighty and dreadfull, for, thou art not foe,
 For, those, whom thou think'st, thou dost overthrow,
 Die not, poore death, nor yet canst thou kill mee.
 From rest and sleepe, which but thy pictures bee, 5
 Much pleasure, then from thee, much more must flow,
 And soonest our best men with thee doe goe,
 Rest of their bones, and soules deliverie.
 Thou art slave to Fate, Chance, kings, and desperate men,
 And dost with poyson, warre, and sicknesse dwell, 10
 And poppie, or charmes can make us sleepe as well,
 And better then thy stroake; why swell'st thou then?

SPit in my face you Jewes, and pierce my side,
 Buffet, and scoffe, scourge, and crucifie mee,
 For I have sinn'd, and sinn'd, and onely hee,
 Who could do no iniquitie, hath dyed:
 But by my death can not be satisfied 5
 My finnes, which passe the Jewes impiety:
 They kill'd once an inglorious man, but I
 Crucifie him daily, being now glorified.
 Oh let mee then, his strange love still admire:
 Kings pardon, but he bore our punishment. 10
 And Jacob came cloth'd in vile harsh attire
 But to supplant, and with gainfull intent:
 God cloth'd himselfe in vile mans flesh, that so
 Hee might be weake enough to suffer woe.

XII.

WHy are wee by all creatures waited on?
 Why doe the prodigall elements supply
 Life and food to mee, being more pure then I,
 Simple, and further from corruption?
 Why brook'st thou, ignorant horse, subjection? 5
 Why dost thou bull, and bore so feelily
 Dissemble weaknesse, and by'one mans stroke die,
 Whose whole kinde, you might swallow and feed upon?
 Weaker I am, woe is mee, and worfe then you,
 You have not sinn'd, nor need be timorous. 10
 But wonder at a greater wonder, for to us
 Created nature doth these things subdue,
 But their Creator, whom sin, nor nature tyed,
 For us, his Creatures, and his foes, hath dyed.

WHat if this present were the worlds last night?
 Marke in my heart, O Soule, where thou dost dwell,
 The picture of Christ crucified, and tell
 Whether that countenance can thee affright,
 Teares in his eyes quench the amasing light, 5
 Blood fills his frownes, which from his pierc'd head fell.
 And can that tongue adjudge thee unto hell,
 Which pray'd forgiveness for his foes fierce spight?
 No, no; but as in my idolatrie
 I said to all my profane mistresses, 10
 Beauty, of pittie, foulness onely is
 A signe of rigour: so I say to thee,
 To wicked spirits are horrid shapcs assign'd,
 This beauteous forme assures a pitious minde.

XIV.

Batter my heart, three person'd God; for, you
 As yet but knocke, breathe, shine, and seeke to mend;
 That I may rise, and stand, o'erthrow mee, and bend
 Your force, to breake, blowe, burn and make me new.
 I, like an usurpt towne, to'another due, 5
 Labour to'admit you, but Oh, to no end,
 Reason your viceroy in mee, mee should defend,
 But is captiv'd, and proves weake or untrue.
 Yet dearly I love you, and would be loved faine,
 But am betroth'd unto your enemy: 10

Wilt thou love God, as he thee! then digest,
 My Soule, this wholsome meditation,
 How God the Spirit, by Angels waited on
 In heaven, doth make his Temple in thy brest.
 The Father having begot a Sonne most blest, 5
 And still begetting, (for he ne'r begonne)
 Hath deign'd to chuse thee by adoption,
 Coheire to his glory, and Sabbaths endlesse rest.
 And as a robb'd man, which by search doth finde
 His stolne stufte sold, must lose or buy't againe: 10
 The Sonne of glory came downe, and was slaine,
 Us whom he had made, and Satan stolne, to unbinde.
 'Twas much, that man was made like God before,
 But, that God should be made like man, much more.

XVI.

Father, part of his double interest
 Unto thy kingdome, thy Sonne gives to mee,
 His joynture in the knottie Trinitie
 Hee keeps, and gives to me his deaths conquest.
 This Lambe, whose death, with life the world hath blest, 5
 Was from the worlds beginning slaine, and he Hath made two Wills, which with the Legacie
 Of his and thy kingdome, doe thy Sonnes invest.
 Yet such are thy laws, that men argue yet
 Whether a man those statutes can fulfill; 10
 None doth; but all-healing grace and spirit
 Revive againe what law and letter kill.
 Thy lawes abridgement, and thy last command
 Is all but love; Oh let this last Will stand!

Since she whom I lov'd hath payd her last debt
 To Nature, and to hers, and my good is dead,
 And her Soule early into heaven ravished,
 Wholly on heavenly things my mind is sett.
 Here the admyring her my mind did whett 5
 To seeke thee God; so streames do shew their head;
 But though I have found thee, and thou my thirst hast fed,
 A holy thirsty dropsey melts mee yett.
 But why should I begg more Love, when as thou
 Dost wooe my soule for hers; offering all thine: 10
 And dost not only feare least I allow
 My Love to Saints and Angels things divine,
 But in thy tender jealousy dost doubt
 Least the World, Fleshe, yea Devill putt thee out.

How me deare Christ, thy spouse, so bright and clear.
 What! is it She, which on the other shore
 Goes richly painted? or which rob'd and tore
 Laments and mournes in Germany and here?
 Sleepes she a thousand, then peepes up one yeare?
 Is she selfe truth and errs? now new, now outwore?
 Doth she, and did she, and shall she evermore
 On one, on seaven, or on no hill appeare?
 Dwells she with us, or like adventuring knights
 Firft travaile we to seeke and then make Love? 10
 Betray kind husband thy spouse to our fights,
 And let myne amorous soule court thy mild Dove,
 Who is most trew, and pleasing to thee, then
 When she's embrac'd and open to most men.

OH, to vex me, contraries meet in one:
 Inconstancy unnaturally hath begott
 A constant habit; that when I would not
 I change in vowes, and in devotione.
 As humorous is my contritione 5
 As my prophane Love, and as soone forgott:
 As ridlingly distemper'd, cold and hott,
 As praying, as mute; as infinite, as none.
 I durst not view heaven yesterday; and to day
 In prayers, and flattering speeches I court God: 10
 To morrow I quake with true feare of his rod.
 So my devout fitts come and go away
 Like a fantastique Ague: save that here
 Those are my best dayes, when I shake with feare.

The Crosse.

SInce Christ embrac'd the Crosse it selfe, dare I
 His image, th' image of his Crosse deny?
 Would I have profit by the sacrifice,
 And dare the chosen Altar to despise?
 It bore all other sinnes, but is it fit 5
 That it should beare the sinne of scorning it?
 Who from the picture would avert his eye,
 How would he flye his paines, who there did dye?
 From mee, no Pulpit, nor misgrounded law,
 Nor scandall taken, shall this Crosse withdraw, 10
 It shall not, for it cannot; for, the losse
 Of this Crosse, were to mee another Crosse;
 Better were worse, for, no affliction,
 No Crosse is so extreme, as to have none.

 Who

Who can blot out the Crosse, which th'instrument 15
 Of God, dew'd on mee in the Sacrament?
 Who can deny mee power, and liberty
 To stretch mine armes, and mine owne Crosse to be?
 Swimme, and at every stroake, thou art thy Crosse;
 The Mast and yard make one, where seas do tosse; 20
 Looke downe, thou spiest out Crossees in small things;
 Looke up, thou seest birds rais'd on crossed wings;
 All the Globes frame, and spheares, is nothing else
 But the Meridians crossing Parallels.
 Materiall Crossees then, good physicke bee, 25
 But yet spirituall have chiefe dignity.
 These for extracted chimique medicine serue,
 And cure much better, and as well preserve;
 Then are you your own physicke, or need none,
 When Still'd, or purg'd by tribulation. 30
 For when that Crosse ungrudg'd, unto you stickes,
 Then are you to your selfe, a Crucifixe.
 As perchance, Carvers do not faces make,
 But that away, which hid them there, do take;
 Let Crossees, soe, take what hid Christ in thee, 35
 And be his image, or not his, but hee.
 But, as oft Alchimyfts doe coynerers prove,
 So may a selfe-dispising, get selfe-love,
 And then as worst surfets, of best meates bee,
 Soe is pride, issued from humility, 40
 For, 'tis no child, but monster; therefore Crosse
 Your joy in crossees, else, 'tis double losse.
 And crosse thy senses, else, both they, and thou
 Must perish soone, and to destruction bowe.
 For if the eye seeke good objects, and will take 45

No crosse from bad, wee cannot scape a snake.
 So with harsh, hard, sowre, stinking, crosse the rest,
 Make them indifferent all; call nothing best.
 But most the eye needs crossing, that can rome,
 And move; To th'other th'objects must come home. 50
 And crosse thy heart: for that in man alone
 Points downwards, and hath palpitation.
 Crosse those dejections, when it downward tends,
 And when it to forbidden heights pretends.
 And as the braine through bony walls doth vent 55
 By futures, which a Crosses forme present,
 So when thy braine workes, ere thou utter it,
 Crosse and correct concupiscence of witt.
 Be covetous of Crosses, let none fall.
 Crosse no man else, but crosse thy selfe in all. 60
 Then doth the Crosse of Christ worke fruitfully
 Within our hearts, when wee love harmlesly
 That Crosses pictures much, and with more care
 That Crosses children, which our Crosses are.

As,

As, at thy presence here, our fires grow pale.
 Whose body having walk'd on earth, and now
 Hast'ning to Heaven, would, that he might allow 10
 Himselfe unto all stations, and fill all,
 For these three daies become a minerall;
 Hee was all gold when he lay downe, but rose
 All tincture, and doth not alone dispose
 Leaden and iron wills to good, but is 15
 Of power to make even sinfull flesh like his.
 Had one of those, whose credulous pietie
 Thought, that a Soule one might discerne and see
 Goe from a body, 'at this sepulcher been,
 And, issuing from the sheet, this body seen, 20
 He would have justly thought this body a soule,
 If not of any man, yet of the whole.

 That of them both a circle embleme is,
 Whose first and last concurre; this doubtfull day 5
 Of feast or fast, Christ came, and went away.
 Shee sees him nothing twice at once, who's all;
 Shee sees a Cedar plant it selfe, and fall,
 Her Maker put to making, and the head
 Of life, at once, not yet alive, yet dead. 10

She

She sees at once the virgin mother stay
 Reclus'd at home, Publique at Golgotha;
 Sad and rejoyc'd shee's seen at once, and seen
 At almost fiftie, and at scarce fiftene.
 At once a Sonne is promis'd her, and gone, 15
 Gabriell gives Christ to her, He her to John;
 Not fully a mother, Shee's in Orbitie,
 At once receiver and the legacie.
 All this, and all betweene, this day hath showne,
 Th'Abridgement of Christs story, which makes one 20
 (As in plaine Maps, the furthest West is East)
 Of the'Angels Ave, and Consummatum est.
 How well the Church, Gods Court of faculties
 Deales, in some times, and seldome joyning these!
 As by the selfe-fix'd Pole wee never doe 25
 Direct our course, but the next starre thereto,
 Which shoves where the'other is, and which we say
 (Because it strays not farre) doth never stray;
 So God by his Church, neereft to him, wee know,
 And stand firme, if wee by her motion goe; 30
 His Spirit, as his fiery Pillar doth
 Leade, and his Church, as cloud; to one end both.
 This Church, by letting these daies joyne, hath shown
 Death and conception in mankinde is one;
 Or'twas in him the same humility, 35
 That he would be a man, and leave to be:
 Or as creation he hath made, as God,
 With the last judgement, but one period,
 His imitating Spouse would joyne in one
 Manhoods extremes: He shall come, he is gone: 40
 Or as though one blood drop, which thence did fall,
 Accepted, would have serv'd, he yet shed all;

So though the least of his paines, deeds, or words,
 Would busie a life, the all this day affords;
 This treasure then, in grosse, my Soule uplay,
 And in my life retaile it every day. 45

Goodfriday, 1613. Riding Westward.

L Et mans Soule be a Spheare, and then, in this,
 The intelligence that moves, devotion is,
 And as the other Spheares, by being growne
 Subject to forraigne motions, lose their owne,
 And being by others hurried every day, 5
 Scarce in a yeare their naturall forme obey:
 Pleasure or businesse, so, our Soules admit
 For their first mover, and are whirld by it.
 Hence is't, that I am carryed towards the West
 This day, when my Soules forme bends toward the East. 10
 There I should see a Sunne, by rising set,
 And by that setting endlesse day beget;
 But that Christ on this Crosse, did rise and fall,
 Sinne had eternally benighted all.
 Yet dare I almost be glad, I do not see 15
 That spectacle of too much weight for mee.
 Who sees Gods face, that is selfe life, must dye;
 What a death were it then to see God dye?
 It made his owne Lieutenant Nature shrinke,
 It made his footstoole crack, and the Sunne winke. 20
 Could I behold those hands which span the Poles,
 And turne all spheares at once, peirc'd with those holes?

Could

Could I behold that endlesse height which is
 Zenith to us, and our Antipodes,
 Humbled below us? or that blood which is 25
 The seat of all our Soules, if not of his,
 Made durt of dust, or that flesh which was worne
 By God, for his apparell, rag'd, and torne?
 If on these things I durst not looke, durst I
 Upon his miserable mother cast mine eye, 30
 Who was Gods partner here, and furnish'd thus
 Halfe of that Sacrifice, which ransom'd us?
 Though these things, as I ride, be from mine eye,
 They're present yet unto my memory,
 For that looks towards them; and thou look'ft towards mee,
 O Saviour, as thou hang'ft upon the tree; 36
 I turne my backe to thee, but to receive
 Corrections, till thy mercies bid thee leave.
 O thinke mee worth thine anger, punish mee,
 Burne off my rusts, and my deformity, 40
 Restore thine Image, so much, by thy grace,
 That thou may'ft know mee, and I'll turne my face.

THE LITANIE.

I.

The FATHER.

FATHER of Heaven, and him, by whom
It, and us for it, and all else, for us
Thou madeſt, and govern'ſt ever, come
And re-create mee, now growne ruinous:
My heart is by dejection, clay,
And by ſelfe-murder, red.
From this red earth, O Father, purge away
All vicious tinctures, that new fashioned
I may riſe up from death, before I'am dead.

II.

The SONNE.

O Sonne of God, who ſeeing two things,
Sinne, and death crept in, which were never made,
By bearing one, tryed'ſt with what ſtings
The other could thine heritage invade;
O be thou nail'd unto my heart,
And crucified againe,
Part not from it, though it from thee would part,
But let it be, by applying ſo thy paine,
Drown'd in thy blood, and in thy paſſion flaine.

Am, but of mudde walls, and condenſed duſt,

Must with new stormes be weatherbeat;
 Double in my heart thy flame,
 Which let devout sad teares intend; and let 25

IV.

The TRINITY.

O Blessed glorious Trinity,
 Bones to Philosophy, but milke to faith,
 Which, as wise serpents, diversly 30
 Most slipperinesse, yet most entanglings hath,
 As you distinguish'd undistinct
 By power, love, knowledge bee,
 Give mee a such selfe different instinct
 Of these; let all mee elemented bee, 35
 Of power, to love, to know, you unnumbered three.

V.

The Virgin MARY.

For that faire blessed Mother-maid,
 Whose flesh redeem'd us; That she-Cherubin,
 Which unlock'd Paradise, and made
 One claime for innocence, and disseiz'd sinne, 40
 Whose wombe was a strange heav'n, for there
 God cloath'd himselfe, and grew,
 Our zealous thanks wee poure. As her deeds were
 Our helpes, so are her prayers; nor can she sue
 In vaine, who hath such titles unto you. 45

The Angels.

And since this life our nonage is,
 And wee in Wardship to thine Angels be,
 Native in heavens faire Palaces,
 Where we shall be but denizen'd by thee,
 As th'earth conceiving by the Sunne, 50
 Yeelds faire diversitie,
 Yet never knowes which course that light doth run,
 So let mee study, that mine actions bee
 Worthy their sight, though blinde in how they see.

The Patriarches.

And let thy Patriarches Desire 55

 More in the cloud, then wee in fire,
 Whom Nature clear'd more, then us Grace and Law,
 And now in Heaven still pray, that wee
 May use our new helps right,) 60
 Be satisfy'd, and fructifie in mee;
 Let not my minde be blinder by more light
 Nor Faith, by Reason added, lose her sight.

 And long since thou no more couldst dye,
 Thou in thy scatter'd mystique body wouldst 85

 They know, and pray, that wee may know, 95
 In every Chriftian
 Hourly tempeftuous perfecutions grow;
 Tentations martyr us alive; A man

 We know not what to say;
 Thine eare to'our sighes, teares, thoughts gives voice and

 O Thou who Satan heard't in Jobs sicke day,
 Heare thy selfe now, for thou in us dost pray.

 And Apoplexies of fast sin, may die;

That our eares sicknesse wee may cure,
And rectifie those Labyrinths aright,
That wee, by harkning, not procure
Our praise, nor others dispraise so invite, 220
That wee get not a slipperinesse
And senselesly decline,
From hearing bold wits jeast at Kings excesse,
To'admit the like of majestie divine,
That we may locke our eares, Lord open thine.

Which to give us, and make us physicke, doth
Our vices often aggravate,
That Preachers taxing sinne, before her growth, 230

When they doe most accuse us, may see then
Us, to amendment, heare them; thee decline:
That we may open our eares, Lord lock thine.

That wit, borne apt high good to doe,

 By taking our blood, owest it us againe, 245

 And let not both us and thy selfe be slaine;

 Which could not stick to thee,

Two that make one John Baptists holy voyce,
 And who that Psalme, Now let the Iles rejoyce,
 Have both translated, and apply'd it too,
 Both told us what, and taught us how to doe. 20
 They shew us Ilanders our joy, our King,
 They tell us why, and teach us how to sing;
 Make all this All, three Quires, heaven, earth, and sphears;
 The first, Heaven, hath a song, but no man heares,
 The Spheares have Musick, but they have no tongue, 25
 Their harmony is rather danc'd than sung;
 But our third Quire, to which the first gives eare,
 (For, Angels learne by what the Church does here)
 This Quire hath all. The Organist is hee

 The songs are these, which heavens high holy Muse

 To us so sweetly and sincerely too, 35
 That I must not rejoyce as I would doe
 When I behold that these Psalmes are become
 So well attyr'd abroad, so ill at home,
 So well in Chambers, in thy Church so ill,
 As I can scarce call that reform'd untill 40
 This be reform'd; Would a whole State present
 A lesser gift than some one man hath sent?
 And shall our Church, unto our Spouse and King
 More hoarse, more harsh than any other, sing?
 For that we pray, we praise thy name for this, 45
 Which, by this Moses and this Miriam, is Already done; and as those Psalmes we call

1. Vengeance will fit above our faults; but till
 She there doth fit,
 We see her not, nor them. Thus, blinde, yet still
 We leade her way; and thus, whil't we doe ill,
 We suffer it. 5
2. Vnhappy he, whom youth makes not beware
 Of doing ill.
 Enough we labour under age, and care;
 In number, th'errours of the last place, are
 The greatest still. 10
3. Yet we, that should the ill we now begin
 As soone repent,
 (Strange thing!) perceive not; our faults are not seen,
 But past us; neither felt, but onely in
 The punishment. 15
4. But we know our selves least; Mere outward shews
 Our mindes so store,
 That our soules, no more than our eyes disclose
 But forme and colour. Onely he who knowes
 Himselfe, knowes more. 20

To Mr Tilman after he had taken orders.

THou, whose diviner foule hath caus'd thee now
 To put thy hand unto the holy Plough,
 Making Lay-scornings of the Ministry,
 Not an impediment, but victory;
 What bringst thou home with thee? how is thy mind 5
 Affected since the vintage? Dost thou finde
 New thoughts and stirrings in thee? and as Steele
 Toucht with a Loadstone, dost new motions feele?
 Or, as a Ship after much paine and care,
 For Iron and Cloth brings home rich Indian ware, 10
 Hast thou thus traffiqu'd, but with farre more gaine
 Of noble goods, and with lesse time and paine?
 Thou art the same materials, as before,
 Onely the stampe is changed; but no more.
 And as new crowned Kings alter the face, 15
 But not the monies substance; so hath grace
 Chang'd onely Gods old Image by Creation,
 To Christs new stampe, at this thy Coronation;
 Or, as we paint Angels with wings, because
 They beare Gods message, and proclaime his lawes, 20
 Since thou must doe the like, and so must move,
 Art thou new feather'd with coelestiall love?
 Deare, tell me where thy purchase lies, and shew
 What thy advantage is above, below.
 But if thy gainings doe surmount expresseion, 25
 Why doth the foolish world scorne that profession,
 Whose joyes passe speech? Why do they think unfit
 That Gentry should joyne families with it?
 As if their day were onely to be spent
 In dressing, Mistressing and complement; 30
 Alas poore joyes, but poorer men, whose trust
 Seemes richly placed in sublimed dust;
 (For, such are cloathes and beauty, which though gay,
 Are, at the best, but of sublimed clay.)

I sacrifice this lland unto thee,
 And all whom I lov'd there, and who lov'd mee; 10
 When I have put our seas twixt them and mee,
 Put thou thy sea betwixt my finnes and thee.
 As the trees sap doth feeke the root below
 In winter, in my winter now I goe,
 Where none but thee, th'Eternall root 15
 Of true Love I may know.

Nor thou nor thy religion dost controule,
 The amorousnesse of an harmonious Soule,
 But thou would'st have that love thy selfe: As thou
 Art jealous, Lord, so I am jealous now, 20
 Thou lov'st not, till from loving more, thou free
 My soule: Who ever gives, takes libertie:
 O, if thou car'st not whom I love
 Alas, thou lov'st not mee.

CHAP. I.

- 1 HOW fits this citie, late most populous,
Thus solitary, and like a widdow thus!
Amplest of Nations, Queene of Provinces
She was, who now thus tributary is!
- 2 Still in the night shee weepes, and her teares fall
Downe by her cheekes along, and none of all
Her lovers comfort her; Perfidiously
Her friends have dealt, and now are enemie.
- 3 Unto great bondage, and afflictions
Juda is captive led; Those nations 10
With whom shee dwells, no place of rest afford,
In streights shee meets her Persecutors sword.
- 4 Emptie are the gates of Sion, and her waies
Mourne, because none come to her solemne dayes.
Her Priests doe groane, her maides are comfortlesse,
And shee's unto her selfe a bitternesse.
- 5 Her foes are growne her head, and live at Peace,
Because when her transgressions did increase,
The Lord strooke her with sadnesse: Th'enemie
Doth drive her children to captivitie. 20
- 6 From Sions daughter is all beauty gone,
Like Harts, which seeke for Pasture, and find none,
Her Princes are, and now before the foe
Which still pursues them, without strength they go.

 Remembred not her end; Miraculoſly
 Therefore ſhee fell, none comforting: Behold 35

 And they have given, only to be fed,
 All precious things, wherein their pleaſure lay:
 How cheape I'am growne, O Lord, behold, and weigh.

14 His hand hath of my finnes framed a yoke
Which wreath'd, and cast upon my neck, hath broke
My strength. The Lord unto those enemies 55
Hath given mee, from whom I cannot rise.

15 He under foot hath troden in my fight
My strong men; He did company invite
To breake my young men; he the winepresse hath 60
Trod upon Juda's daughter in his wrath.

16 For these things doe I weepe, mine eye, mine eye
Casts water out; For he which should be nigh
To comfort mee, is now departed farre;
The foe prevailes, forlorne my children are.

17 There's none, though Sion do stretch out her hand, 65
To comfort her, it is the Lords command
That Jacobs foes girt him. Ierusalem
Is as an unclean woman amongst them.

18 But yet the Lord is just, and righteous still,
I have rebell'd against his holy will; 70
O heare all people, and my sorrow see,
My maides, my young men in captivitie.

19 I called for my lovers then, but they
Deceiv'd mee, and my Priests, and Elders lay
Dead in the citie; for they fought for meat 75
Which should refresh their soules, they could not get.

20 Because I am in streights, Iehova see

 My foes have heard my griefe, and glad they be,
 That thou hast done it; But thy promis'd day
 Will come, when, as I suffer, so shall they.

 Doe unto them, as thou hast done to mee,
 For all my sinnes: The sighs which I have had
 Are very many, and my heart is sad.

 His wraths thicke cloud! and from heaven hath

 Forgot his foot-stoole in the day of wrath!
- 2 The Lord unsparingly hath swallowed
 All Jacobs dwellings, and demolished
 To ground the strengths of Iuda, and prophan'd 95
 The Princes of the Kingdome, and the land.
- 3 In heat of wrath, the horne of Israel hee
 Hath cleane cut off, and left the enemy
 Be hindred, his right hand he doth retire,
 But is towards Iacob, All-devouring fire. 100
- 4 Like to an enemy he bent his bow,
 His right hand was in posture of a foe,
 To kill what Sions daughter did desire,
 'Gainst whom his wrath, he poured forth, like fire.

13 Hee made the children of his quiver passe
 Into my reines, 14 I with my people was
 All the day long, a song and mockery. 195

15 Hee hath fill'd mee with bitterneffe, and he
 Hath made me drunke with wormewood. 16 He hath burst
 My teeth with stones, and covered mee with dust;
 17 And thus my Soule farre off from peace was set,
 And my prosperity I did forget. 200

18 My strength, my hope (unto my selfe I said)
 Which from the Lord should come, is perished.

19 But when my mournings I do thinke upon,
 My wormwood, hemlocke, and affliction,

20 My Soule is humbled in remembring this;

21 My heart considers, therefore, hope there is.

22 'Tis Gods great mercy we are not utterly
 Consum'd, for his compassions do not die;

23 For every morning they renewed bee,
 For great, O Lord, is thy fidelity. 210

24 The Lord is, faith my Soule, my portion,
 And therefore in him will I hope alone.

25 The Lord is good to them, who on him relie,
 And to the Soule that seeks him earnestly.

26 It is both good to trust, and to attend 215
 (The Lords saluation) unto the end:

27 'Tis good for one his yoake in youth to beare;

28 He sits alone, and doth all speech forbear,
 Because he hath borne it. 29 And his mouth he layes
 Deepe in the dust, yet then in hope he staves. 220

30 He gives his cheekes to whosoever will Strike him, and so he is reproched still.

31 For, not for ever doth the Lord forsake,

32 But when he hath stricke with fadnes, hee doth take

Compassion, as his mercy's infinite; 215
 33 Nor is it with his heart, that he doth smite;
 34 That underfoot the prisoners stamped bee,
 35 That a mans right the Judge himselfe doth see
 To be wrung from him, 36 That he subverted is
 In his just cause; the Lord allowes not this. 230
 37 Who then will say, that ought doth come to passe,
 But that which by the Lord commanded was?
 38 Both good and evill from his mouth proceeds;
 39 Why then grieves any man for his misdeeds?
 40 Turne wee to God, by trying out our wayes; 235
 41 To him in heaven, our hands with hearts upraise,
 42 Wee have rebell'd, and falne away from thee,
 Thou pardon'ft not; 43 Ufeste no clemencie;
 Pursuest us, kill'ft us, coverest us with wrath,
 44 Cover'ft thy selfe with clouds, that our prayer hath
 No power to passe. 45 And thou hast made us fall 241
 As refuse, and off-scouring to them all.
 46 All our foes gape at us. 47 Feare and a snare
 With ruine, and with waste, upon us are.

- 58 Thou Lord my Soules cause handled hast, and thou
 Rescud'st my life. 59 O Lord do thou judge now, 260
 Thou heard'st my wrong. 60 Their vengeance all they have wrought;
- 61 How they reproach'd, thou hast heard, and what they thought,
- 62 What their lips uttered, which against me rose,
 And what was ever whisper'd by my foes.
- 63 I am their song, whether they rise or sit, 265
 64 Give them rewards Lord, for their working fit,
 65 Sorrow of heart, thy curse. 66 And with thy might Follow, and from under heaven destroy them quite.

ELEGIES UPON THE AUTHOR

TO THE MEMORIE OF MY EVER DESIRED FRIEND

D^r. DONNE.

TO have liv'd eminent, in a degree
 Beyond our lofty'ft flights, that is, like Thee,
 Or t'have had too much merit, is not safe ;
 For, such excesses finde no Epitaph.
 At common graves we have Poetique eyes 5
 Can melt themselves in easie Elegies,
 Each quill can drop his tributary verse,
 And pin it, like the Hatchments, to the Hearse :
 But at Thine, Poeme, or Inscription
 (Rich soule of wit, and language) we have none. 10
 Indeed a silence does that tombe besit,
 Where is no Herald left to blazon it.
 Widow'd invention justly doth forbear
 To come abroad, knowing Thou art not here,
 Late her great Patron ; Whose Prerogative 15
 Maintain'd, and cloth'd her so, as none alive
 Must now presume, to keepe her at thy rate,
 Though he the Indies for her dowre estate.
 Or else that awfull fire, which once did burne
 In thy cleare Braine, now false into thy Urne 20
 Lives there, to fright rude Empiricks from thence,
 Which might prophane thee by their Ignorance.
 Who ever writes of Thee, and in a stile
 Unworthy such a Theme, does but revile
 Thy precious Dust, and wake a learned Spirit 25
 Which may revenge his Rapes upon thy Merit.
 For, all a low pitch't phansie can devise,
 Will prove, at best, but Hallow'd Injuries.
 Thou, like the dying Swanne, didst lately sing
 Thy Mournfull Dirge, in audience of the King ; 30
 When pale lookes, and faint accents of thy breath,
 Presented so, to life, that peece of death,
 That it was fear'd, and prophes'd by all,
 Thou thither cam'st to preach thy Funerall.

O ! had'it

O! had'st Thou in an Elegiacke Knell
 Rung out unto the world thine owne farewell,
 And in thy High Victorious Numbers beate
 The solemne meafure of thy griev'd Retreat ;
 Thou might'st the Poets service now have mist
 As well, as then thou did'st prevent the Priest ;
 And never to the world beholding bee
 So much, as for an Epitaph for thee.

I doe not like the office. Nor is 't fit
 Thou, who did'st lend our Age such summes of wit,
 Should'st now re-borrow from her bankrupt Mine,
 That Ore to Bury Thee, which once was Thine,
 Rather still leave us in thy debt ; And know
 (Exalted Soule) more glory 't is to owe
 Unto thy Hearse, what we can never pay,
 Then, with embased Coine those Rites defray.

Commit we then Thee to Thy selfe : Nor blame
 Our drooping loves, which thus to thy owne Fame
 Leave Thee Executour. Since, but thine owne,
 No pen could doe Thee Justice, nor Bayes Crowne
 Thy vast desert ; Save that, wee nothing can
 Depute, to be thy Ashes Guardian.

So Jewellers no Art, or Metall trust
 To forme the Diamond, but the Diamonds dust.

 Will not admire 10
 At this Strange Fire,
 That here is mingled with thy Sacrifice:
 But dare reade even thy Wanton Story,
 As thy Confession, not thy Glory.
 And will so envie Both to future times, 15
 That they would buy thy Goodnesse, with thy Crimes.
 Tho: Browne.

On the death of D^r DONNE.

I Cannot blame those men, that knew thee well,
 Yet dare not helpe the world, to ring thy knell
 In tunefull Elegies; there's not language knowne
 Fit for thy mention, but 'twas first thy owne;
 The Epitaphs thou writst, have so bereft 5
 Our tongue of wit, there is not phansie left
 Enough to weepe thee; what henceforth we see
 Of Art or Nature, must result from thee.
 There may perchance some busie gathering friend
 Steale from thy owne workes, and that, varied, lend, 10
 Which thou bestow'st on others, to thy Hearse,
 And so thou shalt live still in thine owne verse;
 Hee that shall venture farther, may commit
 A pitied error, shew his zeale, not wit.
 Fate hath done mankinde wrong; vertue may aime 15
 Reward of conscience, never can, of fame,
 Since her great trumpet's broke, could onely give
 Faith to the world, command it to beleewe;
 Hee then must write, that would define thy parts:
 Here lyes the best Divinitie, All the Arts. 20

Edw. Hyde.

On Doctor Donne,By D^r C. B. of O.

HEe that would write an Epitaph for thee,
 And do it well, must first beginne to be
 Such as thou wert; for, none can truly know
 Thy worth, thy life, but he that hath liv'd so;
 He must have wit to spare and to hurle downe: 5
 Enough, to keepe the gallants of the towne.
 He must have learning plenty; both the Lawes,
 Civill, and Common, to judge any cause;
 Divinity great store, above the rest;
 Not of the last Edition, but the best. 10
 Hee must have language, travaile, all the Arts;
 Judgement to use; or else he wants thy parts.
 He must have friends the highest, able to do;
 Such as Mecenas, and Augustus too.
 He must have such a sicknesse, such a death; 15
 Or else his vaine descriptions come beneath;
 Who then shall write an Epitaph for thee,
 He must be dead first, let it alone for mee.

*An Elegie upon the incomparable*D^r DONNE.

ALl is not well when such a one as I
 Dare peepe abroad, and write an Elegie;
 When smaller Starres appeare, and give their light,
Phœbus is gone to bed: Were it not night,
 And the world witleffe now that DONNE is dead, 5
 You sooner should have broke, then seene my head.
 Dead did I say? Forgive this Injury
 I doe him, and his worthes Infinity,
 To say he is but dead; I dare averre
 It better may be term'd a Massacre, 10
 Then Sleepe or Death; See how the Muses mourne
 Upon their oaten Reeds, and from his Vrue
 Threaten the World with this Calamity,
 They shall have Ballads, but no Poetry.

Language

Language lyes speechlesse; and Divinity, 15
 Loft such a Trump as even to Extasie
 Could charme the Soule, and had an Influence
 To teach best judgements, and please dullest Sense.
 The Court, the Church, the Vniversitie,
 Loft Chaplain, Deane, and Doctor, All these, Three. 20
 It was his Merit, that his Funerall
 Could cause a losse so great and generall.

If there be any Spirit can answer give
 Of such as hence depart, to such as live:
 Speake, Doth his body there vermiculate, 25
 Crumble to dust, and feele the lawes of Fate?
 Me thinkes, Corruption, Wormes, what else is foule
 Should spare the Temple of so faire a Soule.
 I could beleeve they doe; but that I know
 What inconvenience might hereafter grow: 30
 Succeeding ages would Idolatrize,
 And as his Numbers, so his Reliques prize.

If that Philosopher, which did avow
 The world to be but Motes, was living now:
 He would affirme that th'Atomes of his mould 35
 Were they in severall bodies blended, would Produce new worlds of Travellers, Divines,
 Of Linguists, Poets: fith these severall lines
 In him concentred were, and flowing thence
 Might fill againe the worlds Circumference. 40
 I could beleeve this too; and yet my faith
 Not want a President: The Phoenix hath
 (And such was He) a power to animate
 Her ashes, and herselfe perpetuate.
 But, busie Soule, thou dost not well to pry 45
 Into these Secrets; Griefe, and Iealousie,
 The more they know, the further still advance,
 And finde no way so safe as Ignorance.
 Let this suffice thee, that his Soule which flew
 A pitch of all admir'd, known but of few, 50
 (Save those of purer mould) is now translated
 From Earth to Heav'n, and there Constellated.
 For, if each Priest of God shine as a Starre,
 His Glory is as his Gifts, 'bove others farre.

HEN, VALENTINE.

An Elegie upon Dr Donne.

IS Donne, great Donne deceas'd? then England say
 Thou' hast lost a man where language chose to stay
 And shew it's gracefull power. I would not praise
 That and his vast wit (which in these vaine dayes
 Make many proud) but as they serv'd to unlock 5
 That Cabinet, his minde: where such a stock
 Of knowledge was repos'd, as all lament
 (Or should) this generall cause of discontent.

And I rejoyce I am not so severe,
 But (as I write a line) to weepe a teare 10
 For his decease; Such sad extremities
 May make such men as I write Elegies.

And wonder not; for, when a generall losse
 Falls on a nation, and they flight the crosse,
 God hath rais'd Prophets to awaken them 15
 From stupifaction; witnesse my milde pen,
 Not us'd to upbraid the world, though now it must Freely and boldly, for, the cause is just.

Dull age, Oh I would spare thee, but th'art worse,
 Thou art not onely dull, but hast a curse 20
 Of black ingratitude; if not, couldst thou
 Part with miraculous Donne, and make no vow
 For thee and thine, successively to pay
 A sad remembrance to his dying day?

Did his youth scatter Poetrie, wherein 25
 Was all Philosophie? Was every sinne,
 Character'd in his Satyres? made so foule
 That some have fear'd their shapcs, and kept their soule
 Freer by reading verse? Did he give dayes
 Past marble monuments, to those, whose praise 30
 He would perpetuate? Did hee (I feare
 The dull will doubt :) these at his twentieth yeare?

But, more matur'd: Did his full soule conceive,
 And in harmonious-holy-numbers weave
 A Crowne of sacred sonets, fit to adorne La Corona. 35
 A dying Martyrs brow: or, to be worne
 On that blest head of Mary Magdalen:
 After she wip'd Christs feet, but not till then?

An Elegie &c. See note

1-3 Our Donne is dead; England should mourne, may say
 We had a man where language chose to stay
 And shew her gracefull power 1635-69

35 Crowne] Crowme 1633

Did hee (fit for such penitents as hee
 And hee to use) leave us a Litany? 40
 Which all devout men love, and sure, it shall,
 As times grow better, grow more classically.
 Did he write Hymnes, for piety and wit
 Equall to those great grave Prudentius writ?
 Spake he all Languages? knew he all Larves? 45
 The grounds and use of Physicke; but because
 'Twas mercenary way'd it? Went to see
 That blessed place of Christs nativity?
 Did he returne and preach him? preach him so
 As none but hee did, or could do? They know 50
 (Such as were blest to heare him know) 'tis truth.
 Did he confirme thy age? convert thy youth?
 Did he these wonders? And is this deare losse
 Mourn'd by so few? (few for so great a crosse.)
 But sure the silent are ambitious all 55
 To be Cloſe Mourners at his Funerall;
 If not; In common pittie they forbare
 By repetitions to renew our care;
 Or, knowing, griefe conceiv'd, conceal'd, consumes
 Man irreparably, (as poyson'd fumes 60
 Do waste the braine) make silence a safe way
 To enlarge the Soule from these walls, mud and clay,
 (Materialls of this body) to remaine
 With Donne in heaven, where no promiscuous paine
 Lessens the joy wee have, for, with him, all 65
 Are satisfied with joyes essentiall.
 My thoughts, Dwell on this Ioy, and do not call
 Griefe backe, by thinking of his Funerall;
 Forget he lov'd mee; Waste not my sad yeares;
 (Which haste to Davids seventy, fill'd with feares 70
 And sorrow for his death;) Forget his parts,
 Which finde a living grave in good mens hearts;
 And, (for, my first is daily paid for sinne)
 Forget to pay my second sigh for him:
 Forget his powerfull preaching; and forget 75
 I am his Convert. Oh my frailtie! let
 My flesh be no more heard, it will obtrude
 This lethargie: so should my gratitude,
 My vowes of gratitude should so be broke;
 Which can no more be, then Donnes vertues spoke 80
 By any but himsele; for which cause, I
 Write no Encomium, but an Elegie.

An Elegie upon the death of the
Deane of Pauls, D^r. Iohn Donne :

By M^r. Tho: Carie.

CAN we not force from widdowed Poetry,
 Now thou art dead (Great DONNE) one Elegie
 To crowne thy Hearse? Why yet dare we not trust
 Though with unkneaded dowe-bak't prose thy dust,
 Such as the uncifor'd Churchman from the flower 5
 Of fading Rhetorique, short liv'd as his houre,
 Dry as the sand that meafures it, should lay
 Upon thy Ashes, on the funerall day?
 Have we no voice, no tune? Did'st thou dispenfe
 Through all our language, both the words and sense? 10
 'Tis a sad truth; The Pulpit may her plaine,
 And sober Christian precepts still retaine,
 Doctrines it may, and wholefome Ufes frame,
 Grave Homilies, and Lectures, But the flame
 Of thy brave Soule, that shot fuch heat and light, 15
 As burnt our earth, and made our darkneffe bright,
 Committed holy Rapes upon our Will,
 Did through the eye the melting heart diftill;
 And the deepe knowledge of darke truths fo teach,
 As sense might judge, what phanfie could not reach; 20
 Muft be defir'd for ever. So the fire,
 That fills with fpirit and heat the Delphique quire,
 Which kindled firft by thy Promethean breath,
 Glow'd here a while, lies quench't now in thy death;
 The Mufes garden with Pedantique weedes 25
 O'rspred, was purg'd by thee; The lazie feeds
 Of fervile imitation throwne away;
 And fresh invention planted, Thou didst pay
 The debts of our penurious bankrupt age;
 Licentious thefts, that make poëtique rage 30
 A Mimique fury, when our foules muft bee
 Poffest, or with Anacreons Extasie,
 Or Pindars, not their owne; The fubtle cheat
 Of flie Exchanges, and the jugling feat
 Of two-edg'd words, or whatsoever wrong 35
 By ours was done the Greeke, or Latine tongue,
 Thou haft redeem'd, and open'd Us a Mine
 Of rich and pregnant phanfie, drawne a line

An Elegie &c. Also in Carew's Poems 1640. See note

Of

Of masculine expression, which had good
Old Orpheus seene, Or all the ancient Brood 40
Our superstitious fooles admire, and hold
Their lead more precious, then thy burnish't Gold,
Thou hadst beene their Exchequer, and no more
They each in others dust, had rak'd for Ore.
Thou shalt yield no precedence, but of time, 45
And the blinde fate of language, whose tun'd chime
More charmes the outward sence; Yet thou maist claime
From so great disadvantage greater fame,
Since to the awe of thy imperious wit
Our stubborne language bends, made only fit 50
With her tough-thick-rib'd hoopes to gird about
Thy Giant phansie, which had prov'd too stout
For their soft melting Phrases. As in time
They had the start, so did they cull the prime
Buds of invention many a hundred yeare, 55
And left the rifled fields, besides the feare
To touch their Haruest, yet from those bare lands
Of what is purely thine, thy only hands
(And that thy smallest worke) have gleaned more
Then all those times, and tongues could reape before; 60
But thou art gone, and thy strict lawes will be Too hard for Libertines in Poetrie.
They will repeale the goodly exil'd traine
Of gods and goddeses, which in thy just raigne
Were banish'd nobler Poems, now, with these 65
The silenc'd tales o'th' Metamorphoses
Shall stuffe their lines, and swell the windy Page,
Till Verse refin'd by thee, in this last Age,
Turne ballad rime, Or those old Idolls bee
Ador'd againe, with new apostasie; 70
Oh, pardon mee, that breake with untun'd verse
The reverend silence that attends thy herse,
Whose awfull solemne murmures were to thee
More then these faint lines, A loud Elegie,
That did proclaime in a dumbe eloquence 75
The death of all the Arts, whose influence
Growne feeble, in these panting numbers lies
Gasping short winded Accents, and so lies:
So doth the swiftly turning wheele not stand
In th' instant we withdraw the moving hand, 80
But some small time maintaine a faint weake course
By vertue of the first impulsive force:

And

And so whil't I cast on thy funerall pile
 Thy crowne of Bayes, Oh, let it crack a while,
 And spit disdain, till the devouring flames
 Suck all the moysture up, then turne to ashes. 85
 I will not draw the envy to engrosse
 All thy perfections, or weepe all our losse;
 Those are too numerous for an Elegie,
 And this too great, to be exprest by mee. 90
 Though every pen should share a distinct part,
 Yet art thou Theme enough to tyre all Art;
 Let others carve the rest, it shall suffice
 I on thy Tombe this Epitaph incise.

*Here lies a King, that rul'd as hee thought fit
 The universall Monarchy of wit;
 Here lie two Flamens, and both those, the best,
 Apollo's first, at last, the true Gods Priest.* 95

An Elegie on Dr. DONNE: By Sir Lucius Carie.

Poets attend, the Elegie I sing
 Both of a doubly-named Priest, and King:
 In stead of Coates, and Pennons, bring your Verse,
 For you must bee chiefe mourners at his Hearse,
 A Tombe your Muse must to his Fame supply, 5
 No other Monuments can never die;
 And as he was a two-fold Priest; in youth,
 Apollo's; afterwards, the voice of Truth,
 Gods Conduit-pipe for grace, who chose him for
 His extraordinary Embassador, 10
 So let his Liegiers with the Poets joyne,
 Both having shares, both must in griefe combine:
 Whil't Johnson forceth with his Elegie
 Teares from a griefe-unknowing Scythians eye,
 (Like Moses at whose stroke the waters gusht 15
 From forth the Rock, and like a Torrent rusht.)
 Let Lawd his funerall Sermon preach, and shew
 Those vertues, dull eyes were not apt to know,
 Nor leave that Piercing Theme, till it appears
 To be goodfriday, by the Churches Teares; 20
 Yet

Yet make not griefe too long oppresse our Powers,
Least that his funerall Sermon should prove ours.
Nor yet forget that heavenly Eloquence,
With which he did the bread of life dispenſe,
Preacher and Orator discharg'd both parts 25
With pleasure for our sense, health for our hearts,
And the first such (Though a long studied Art
Tell us our soule is all in every part,)
None was so marble, but whilst him he heares,
His Soule so long dwelt only in his eares. 30
And from thence (with the fiercenesse of a flood Bearing downe vice) victual'd with that blest food
Their hearts; His seed in none could faile to grow,
Fertile he found them all, or made them so:
No Druggist of the Soule bestow'd on all 35
So Catholiquely a curing Cordiall.
Nor only in the Pulpit dwelt his store,
His words work'd much, but his example more,
That preach't on worky dayes, His Poetrie
It selfe was oftentimes divinity, 40
Those Anthemes (almost second Psalmes) he writ
To make us know the Crosse, and value it,
(Although we owe that reverence to that name
Wee should not need warmth from an under flame.)
Creates a fire in us, so neare extreme 45
That we would die, for, and upon this theme.
Next, his so pious Litany, which none can
But count Divine, except a Puritan,
And that but for the name, nor this, nor those
Want any thing of Sermons, but the prose. 50
Experience makes us see, that many a one
Owes to his Countrey his Religion;
And in another, would as strongly grow,
Had but his Nurse and Mother taught him so,
Not hee the ballast on his Judgement hung; 55
Nor did his preconceit doe either wrong;
He labour'd to exclude what ever sinne
By time or carelesnesse had entred in;
Winnow'd the chaffe from wheat, but yet was loath
A too hot zeale should force him, burne them both; 60
Nor would allow of that so ignorant gall,
Which to save blotting often would blot all;
Nor did those barbarous opinions owne,
To thinke the Organs sinne; and faction, none;

Nor

Nor was there expectation to gaine grace 65
 From forth his Sermons only, but his face;
 So Primitive a looke, such gravitie
 With humbleness, and both with Pietie;
 So milde was Moses countenance, when he prai'd
 For them whose Satanisme his power gainfaid; 70
 And such his gravitie, when all Gods band
 Receiv'd his word (through him) at second hand,
 Which joyn'd, did flames of more devotion move
 Then ever Argive Hellens could of love.
 Now to conclude, I must my reason bring, 75
 Wherefore I call'd him in his title King,
 That Kingdome the Philosophers beleev'd
 To excell Alexanders, nor were griev'd
 By feare of losse (that being such a Prey
 No stronger then ones selfe can force away) 80
 The Kingdome of ones selfe, this he enjoy'd,
 And his authoritie so well employ'd,
 That never any could before become
 So Great a Monarch, in so small a roome;
 He conquer'd rebell passions, rul'd them so, 85
 As under-spheares by the first Mover goe,
 Banish't so farre their working, that we can
 But know he had some, for we knew him man.
 Then let his last excuse his first extremes,
 His age saw visions, though his youth dream'd dreams. 90

On D. D O N N E S death:

By M^r. Mayne of Christ-Church in Oxford.

WHo shall presume to mourn thee, Donne, unlesse
 He could his teares in thy expressions dresse,
 And teach his griefe that reverence of thy Hearse,
 To weepe lines, learned, as thy Anniverse,
 A Poëme of that worth, whose every teare 5
 Deserves the title of a severall yeare.
 Indeed so farre above its Reader, good,
 That wee are thought wits, when 'tis understood,
 There that blest maid to die, who now should grieve?
 After thy sorrow, 'twere her losse to live; 10

And her faire vertues in anothers line,
 Would faintly dawn, which are made Saints in thine.
 Hadst thou beene shallower, and not writ so high,
 Or left some new way for our pennes, or eye,
 To shed a funerall teare, perchance thy Tombe 15
 Had not beene speechlesse, or our Muses dumbe;
 But now wee dare not write, but must conceale
 Thy Epitaph, lest we be thought to steale,
 For, who hath read thee, and discernes thy worth,
 That will not say, thy carelesse houres brought forth 20
 Fancies beyond our studies, and thy play
 Was happier, then our serious time of day?
 So learned was thy chance; thy haste had wit,
 And matter from thy pen flow'd rashly fit,
 What was thy recreation turnes our braine, 25
 Our rack and palenesse, is thy weakest straine.
 And when we most come neere thee, 'tis our blisse
 To imitate thee, where thou dost amisse.
 Here light your muse, you that do onely thinke,
 And write, and are just Poëts, as you drinke, 30
 In whose weake fancies wit doth ebbe and flow,
 Just as your recknings rise, that wee may know
 In your whole carriage of your worke, that here
 This flash you wrote in Wine, and this in Beere,
 This is to tap your Muse, which running long 35
 Writes flat, and takes our eare not halfe so strong;
 Poore Suburbe wits, who, if you want your cup,
 Or if a Lord recover, are blowne up.
 Could you but reach this height, you should not need
 To make, each meale, a project ere you feed, 40
 Nor walke in reliques, clothes so old and bare,
 As if left off to you from Ennius were,
 Nor should your love, in verse, call Mistresse, those,
 Who are mine hostesse, or your whores in prose;
 From this Muse learne to Court, whose power could move 45
 A Cloystred coldnesse, or a Vestall love,
 And would convey such errands to their eare,
 That Ladies knew no oddes to grant and heare;
 But I do wrong thee, Donne, and this low praise
 Is written onely for thy yonger dayes. 50
 I am not growne up, for thy riper parts,
 Then should I praise thee, through the Tongues, and Arts,
 And have that deepe Divinity, to know,
 What mysteries did from thy preaching flow,

Who

Who with thy words could charme thy audience, 55
 That at thy sermons, eare was all our sense ;
 Yet have I seene thee in the pulpit stand,
 Where wee might take notes, from thy looke, and hand ;
 And from thy speaking action beare away
 More Sermon, then some teachers use to say. 60
 Such was thy carriage, and thy gesture such,
 As could divide the heart, and conscience touch.
 Thy motion did confute, and wee might see
 An errour vanquish'd by delivery.
 Not like our Sonnes of Zeale, who to reforme
 Their hearers, fiercely at the Pulpit storme,
 And beate the cushion into worse estate,
 Then if they did conclude it reprobate,
 Who can out pray the glasse, then lay about
 Till all Predestination be runne out. 70
 And from the point such tedious uses draw,
 Their repetitions would make Gospell, Law.
 No, In such temper would thy Sermons flow,
 So well did Doctrine, and thy language show,
 And had that holy feare, as, hearing thee,
 The Court would mend, and a good Christian bee.
 And Ladies though unhandsome, out of grace,
 Would heare thee, in their unbought lookes, and face.
 More I could write, but let this crowne thine Urne,
 Wee cannot hope the like, till thou returne. 80

Upon Mr J. Donne, and his Poems.

WHo dares say thou art dead, when he doth see
 (Unburied yet) this living part of thee?
 This part that to thy beeing gives fresh flame,
 And though th'art Donne, yet will preserve thy name. 5
 Thy flesh (whose channels left their crimson hew,
 And whey-like ranne at last in a pale blew)
 May shew thee mortall, a dead pallie may
 Seife on't, and quickly turne it into clay ;
 Which like the Indian earth, shall rise refin'd :
 But this great Spirit thou hast left behinde, 10
 This Soule of Verse (in it's first pure estate)
 Shall live, for all the World to imitate,

But

But not come neer, for in thy Fancies flight
 Thou dost not stoope unto the vulgar sight,
 But, hovering highly in the aire of Wit, 15
 Hold'st such a pitch, that few can follow it ;
 Admire they may. Each object that the Spring
 (Or a more piercing influence) doth bring
 T'adorne Earths face, thou sweetly did'st contrive
 To beauties elements, and thence derive 20
 Unspotted Lillies white ; which thou did'st set
 Hand in hand, with the veine-like Violet,
 Making them soft, and warme, and by thy power,
 Could'st give both life, and sense, unto a flower.
 The Cheries thou hast made to speake, will bee 25
 Sweeter unto the taste, then from the tree.
 And (spight of winter stormes) amidst the snow
 Thou oft hast made the blushing Rose to grow.
 The Sea-nymphs, that the watry cavernes keepe,
 Have sent their Pearles and Rubies from the deepe 30
 To deck thy love, and plac'd by thee, they drew
 More lustre to them, then where first they grew.
 All minerals (that Earths full wombe doth hold Promiscuoufly) thou couldst convert to gold,
 And with thy flaming raptures so refine, 35
 That it was much more pure then in the Mine.
 The lights that guild the night, if thou did'st say,
 They looke like eyes, those did out-shine the day ;
 For there would be more vertue in such spells,
 Then in Meridians, or crosse Parallels : 40
 What ever was of worth in this great Frame,
 That Art could comprehend, or Wit could name,
 It was thy theme for Beauty ; thou didst see,
 Woman, was this faire Worlds Epitomie.
 Thy nimble Satyres too, and every straine 45
 (With nervy strength) that issued from thy brain,
 Will lose the glory of their owne cleare bayes,
 If they admit of any others praise.
 But thy diviner Poëms (whose cleare fire
 Purges all drosse away) shall by a Quire 50
 Of Cherubims, with heavenly Notes be set
 (Where flesh and blood could ne'r attaine to yet)
 There purest Spirits sing such sacred Layes,
 In Panegyrique Alleluiaes.

In memory of Doctor Donne:By Mr R. B.

Donne dead? 'Tis here reported true, though I
 Ne'r yet so much desir'd to heare a lye,
 'Tis too too true, for so wee finde it still,
 Good newes are often false, but seldome, ill :
 But must poore fame tell us his fatall day, 5
 And shall we know his death, the common way,
 Mee thinkes some Comet bright should have foretold
 The death of such a man, for though of old
 'Tis held, that Comets Princes death foretell,
 Why should not his, have needed one as well? 10
 Who was the Prince of wits, 'mongst whom he reign'd,
 High as a Prince, and as great State maintain'd?
 Yet wants he not his signe, for wee have seene
 A dearth, the like to which hath never beene,
 Treading on harvests heeles, which doth presage 15
 The death of wit and learning, which this age
 Shall finde, now he is gone; for though there bee
 Much graine in shew, none brought it forth as he,
 Or men are misers; or if true want raises
 The dearth, then more that dearth Donnes plenty praises. 20
 Of learning, languages, of eloquence,
 And Poësie, (past rauishing of sense,)
 He had a magazine, wherein such store
 Was laid up, as might hundreds serue of poore.
 But he is gone, O how will his desire 25
 Torture all those that warm'd them by his fire?
 Mee thinkes I see him in the pulpit standing,
 Not eares, or eyes, but all mens hearts commanding,
 Where wee that heard him, to our selues did faine
 Golden Chrysofome was alive againe; 30
 And never were we wearid, till we saw
 His houre (and but an houre) to end did draw.
 How did he shame the doctrine-men, and use,
 With helps to boot, for men to beare th'abuse
 Of their tir'd patience, and endure th'expence 35
 Of time, O spent in hearkning to non-sense,
 With markes also, enough whereby to know,
 The speaker is a zealous dunce, or so.
 'Tis true, they quitted him, to their poore power,
 They humm'd against him; And with face most sowe 40
 Call'd

Call'd him a strong lin'd man, a Macaroon,
 And no way fit to speake to clouted shoone,
 As fine words [truly] as you would desire,
 But [verily,] but a bad edifier.
 Thus did these beetles flight in him that good, 45
 They could not see, and much lesse understood.
 But we may say, when we compare the stuffe
 Both brought; He was a candle, they the snuffe.
 Well, Wifedome's of her children justifi'd,
 Let therefore these poore fellowes stand aside; 50
 Nor, though of learning he deserv'd so highly,
 Would I his booke should save him; Rather filly
 I should advise his Clergie not to pray,
 Though of the learn'dst sort; Me thinkes that they
 Of the same trade, are Judges not so fit, 55
 There's no such emulation as of wit.
 Of such, the Envy might as much perchance
 Wrong him, and more, then th'others ignorance.
 It was his Fate (I know't) to be envy'd
 As much by Clerkes, as lay men magnifi'd; 60
 And why? but 'cause he came late in the day,
 And yet his Penny earn'd, and had as they.
 No more of this, least some should say, that I
 Am strai'd to Satyre, meaning Elegie.
 No, no, had DONNE need to be judg'd or try'd, 65
 A Jury I would summon on his side,
 That had no sides, nor factions, past the touch
 Of all exceptions, freed from Passion, such
 As nor to feare nor flatter, e'r were bred,
 These would I bring, though called from the dead: 70
 Southampton, Hambleton, Pembroke, Dorsets Earles,
 Huntingdon, Bedfords Countesses (the Pearles
 Once of each sexe.) If these suffice not, I
 Ten decem tales have of Standers by:
 All which, for DONNE, would such a verdict give, 75
 As can belong to none, that now doth live.
 But what doe I? A diminution 'tis
 To speake of him in verse, so short of his,
 Whereof he was the master; All indeed
 Compar'd with him, pip'd on an Oaten reed. 80
 O that you had but one 'mongst all your brothers
 Could write for him, as he hath done for others:
 (Poets I speake to) When I see't, I'll say,
 My eye-sight betters, as my yeares decay,

Meane time a quarrell I shall ever have 85
 Against these doughty keepers from the grave,
 Who use, it seemes their old Authoritie,
 When (Verses men immortall make) they cry:
 Which had it been a Recipe true tri'd,
Probatum esset, DONNE had never dy'd. 90
 For mee, if e'r I had least sparke at all
 Of that which they Poetique fire doe call,
 Here I confesse it fetched from his hearth,
 Which is gone out, now he is gone to earth.
 This only a poore flash, a lightning is 95
 Before my Muses death, as after his.
 Farewell (faire soule) and deigne receive from mee
 This Type of that devotion I owe thee,
 From whom (while living) as by voice and penne
 I learned more, then from a thousand men: 100
 So by thy death, am of one doubt releas'd,
 And now beleeeve that miracles are ceas'd.

Epitaph.

H*ere lies Deane Donne*; Enough; Those words alone
 Shew him as fully, as if all the stone
 His Church of Pauls contains, were through inscrib'd
 Or all the walkers there, to speake him, brib'd.
 None can mistake him, for one such as Hee 5
 DONNE, Deane, or Man, more none shall ever see.
 Not man? No, though unto a Sunne each eye
 Were turn'd, the whole earth so to overspie.
 A bold brave word; Yet such brave Spirits as knew
 His Spirit, will say, it is lesse bold then true. 10

Epitaph upon Dr. DONNE,

By Endy: Porter.

THis decent Urne a sad inscription weares,
 Of Donnes departure from us, to the spheares ;
 And the dumbe stone with silence seemes to tell
 The changes of this life, wherein is well
 Exprest, A cause to make all joy to cease, 5
 And never let our sorrowes more take ease ;
 For now it is impossible to finde
 One fraught with vertues, to inrich a minde ;
 But why should death, with a promiscuous hand
 At one rude stroke impoverish a land ? 10
 Thou strict Attorney, unto stricter Fate,
 Didst thou confiscate his life out of hate
 To his rare Parts ? Or didst thou throw thy dart,
 With envious hand, at some Plebeyan heart ;
 And he with pious vertue stept betweene 15
 To save that stroke, and so was kill'd unseene
 By thee ? O 'twas his goodnesse so to doe,
 Which humane kindnesse never reacht unto.
 Thus the hard lawes of death were satisf'd,
 And he left us like Orphan friends, and di'de. 20
 Now from the Pulpit to the peoples eares,
 Whose speech shall send repentant sighes, and teares ?
 Or tell mee, if a purer Virgin die,
 Who shall hereafter write her Elegie ?
 Poets be silent, let your numbers sleepe, 25
 For he is gone that did all phansie keepe ;
 Time hath no Soule, but his exalted verse ;
 Which with amazements, we may now reherse.

Elegie on D. D.

NOW, by one yeare, time and our frailtie have
 Lessened our first confusion, since the Grave
 Clos'd thy deare Athes, and the teares which flow
 In these, have no springs, but of solid woe:
 Or they are drops, which cold amazement froze
 At thy decease, and will not thaw in Prose: 5
 All streames of Verse which shall lament that day,
 Doe truly to the Ocean tribute pay;
 But they have lost their saltneffe, which the eye
 In recompence of wit, strives to supply: 10

Passions

Passions exceſſe for thee wee need not feare,
Since firſt by thee our paſſions hallowed were ;
Thou mad'ſt our ſorrowes, which before had bin
Onely for the Succeſſe, ſorrowes for ſinne,
We owe thee all thoſe teares, now thou art dead, 15
Which we ſhed not, which for our ſelves we ſhed.
Nor didſt thou onely conſecrate our teares,
Give a religious tincture to our feares ;
But even our joyes had learn'd an innocence,
Thou didſt from gladneſſe ſeparate offence : 20
All mindes at once ſuckt grace from thee, as where
(The curſe revok'd) the Nations had one eare.
Pious diſſector : thy one houre did treat
The thouſand mazes of the hearts deceit ;
Thou didſt purſue our lov'd and ſubtill ſinne, 25
Through all the foldings wee had wrapt it in,
And in thine owne large minde finding the way
By which our ſelves we from our ſelves convey,
Didſt in us, narrow models, know the ſame
Angles, though darker, in our meaner frame. 30
How ſhort of praiſe is this? My Muſe, alas,
Climbes weakly to that truth which none can paſſe,
Hee that writes beſt, may onely hope to leave
A Character of all he could conceive
But none of thee, and with mee muſt confeſſe, 35
That fanſie findes ſome checke, from an exceſſe
Of merit moſt, of nothing, it hath ſpun,
And truth, as reaſons task and theame, doth ſhunne.
She makes a fairer flight in emptineſſe,
Than when a bodied truth doth her oppreſſe. 40
Reaſon againe denies her ſcales, becauſe
Hers are but ſcales, ſhee judges by the lawes
Of weake compariſon, thy vertue ſleights
Her feeble Beame, and her unequall Weights.
What prodigie of wit and pietie 45
Hath ſhe elſe knowne, by which to meaſure thee?
Great ſoule : we can no more the worthineſſe
Of what you were, then what you are, expreſſe.

Sidney Godolphin.

Penſion'd our vanitie, and man grew well
Through the ſame frailtie by which he fell. 40
O the ſick ſtate of man, health does not pleaſe
Our taſts, but in the ſhape of the diſeaſe.
Thriftleſſe is charitie, coward patience,
Juſtice is cruell, mercy want of ſenſe.
What meanes our Nature to barre vertue place, 45
If ſhee doe come in her owne cloathes and face?
Is good a pill, we dare not chaw to know?
Senſe the foules ſervant, doth it keep us fo
As we might ſtarve for good, unleſſe it firſt
Doe leave a pawne of reliſh in the guſt? 50
Or have we to ſalvation no tie
At all, but that of our infirmitie?
Who treats with us muſt our affections move
To th' good we flie by thoſe ſweets which we love,
Muſt ſeeke our palats, and with their delight 55
To gaine our deeds, muſt bribe our appetite.
Theſe traines he knew, and laying nets to ſave,
Temptingly fugred all the health hee gave.
But, where is now that chime? that harmony
Hath left the world, now the loud organ may 60
Appeare, the better voyce is ſied to have
A thouſand times the ſweetneſſe which it gave.
I cannot ſay how many thouſand ſpirits
The ſingle happineſſe this foule inherits,
Damnes in the other world, foules whom no croſſe 65
O'th ſenſe afflicts, but onely of the loſſe,
Whom ignorance would halfe ſave, all whoſe paine
Is not in what they feele, but others gaine,
Selfe executing wretched ſpirits, who
Carrying their guilt, transport their envy too : 70
But thoſe high joyes which his wits youngſt flame
Would hurt to chuſe, ſhall not we hurt to name?
Verſe ſtatues are all robbers, all we make
Of monument, thus doth not give but take
As Sailes which Seamen to a forewinde fit, 75
By a reſiſtance, goe along with it,
So pens grow while they leſſen fame ſo left ;
A weake aſſiſtance is a kinde of theft.
Who hath not love to ground his teares upon,
Muſt weep here if he have ambition.

In a cradle free from dreams or thoughts, there 5
Where poor men ly, for Kings asleep do fear.
Here sleeps Housfe by famous Ariosto,
By silver-tongu'd Ovid, and many moe,
Perhaps by golden-mouth'd Spencer too pardie,

As sleep awak'd by Ratts from thence was gotten :

 Those wits that say nothing, best describe it.
 Without it there is no Sense, only in this
 Sleep is unlike a long Parenthesis.
 Not to save charges, but would I had slept
 The time I spent in London, when I kept 20

 In which Natta, the new Knight, seized on me,
 And offered me the experience he had bought
 With great Expence. I found him thoroughly taught
 In curing Burnes. His thing hath had more scars 25
 Then Things himselfe; like Epps it often wars,
 And still is hurt. For his Body and State
 The Physick and Counsel which came too late,

 What

What made his Valour, undubb'd, Windmill go,
 Within a Pint at most: yet for all this
 (Which is most strange) Natta thinks no man is
 More honest than himself. Thus men may want 45
 Conscience, whilst being brought up ignorant,
 They use themselves to vice. And besides those Illiberal Arts forenam'd, no Vicar knows,
 Nor other Captain less than he; His Schools
 Are Ordinaries, where civil men seem fools, 50
 Or are for being there; His best bookes, Plaies,
 Where, meeting godly Scenes, perhaps he praies.
 His first set prayer was for his father, ill
 And sick, that he might dye: That had, until
 The Lands were gone, he troubled God no more: 55
 And then ask'd him but his Right, That the whore
 Whom he had kept, might now keep him: She spent,
 They left each other on even terms; she went
 To Bridewel, he unto the Wars, where want
 Hath made him valiant, and a Lieutenant 60

 He steps aside, and for his Captains place
 He praies again: Tells God, he will confess
 His sins, swear, drink, dice and whore thenceforth lets,
 On this Condition, that his Captain dye 65
 And he succeed; But his Prayer did not; They Both cashier'd came home, and he is braver now
 Than his captain: all men wonder, few know how.
 Can he rob? No. Cheat? No. Or doth he spend
 His own? No. Fidus, he is thy dear friend, 70
 That keeps him up. I would thou wert thine own,

 Subject to good Kings, I found even so,
 Wer't thou well rid of him, thou't have no more. 80
 Could'st thou but chuse as well as love, to none

 And by their Place more noted, if they erre;
 How they and their Lords unworthy men prefer; 110
 And, as unthrifts had rather give away
 Great Summs to flatterers, than fmall debts pay,
 So they their weaknefs hide, and greatnefs show,
 By giving them that which to worth they owe:

MEN write that love and reason disagree,
 But I ne'r saw't exprest as 'tis in thee.
 Well, I may lead thee, God must make thee see,
 But, thine eyes blinde too, there's no hope for thee.
 Thou say'st shee's wife and witty, faire and free, 5
 All these are reasons why she should scorne thee.
 Thou dost protest thy love, and wouldst it shew
 By matching her as she would match her foe:
 And wouldst perswade her to a worse offence,
 Then that whereof thou didst accuse her wench. 10
 Reason there's none for thee, but thou may'st vex
 Her with example. Say, for feare her sexe
 Shunne her, she needs must change; I doe not see
 How reason e'r can bring that must to thee.
 Thou art a match a Iustice to rejoyce, 15
 Fit to be his, and not his daughters choyce.
 Urg'd with his threats shee'd scarcely stay with thee,
 And wouldst th'have this to chuse thee, being free?
 Goe then and punish some soone-gotten stuffe,
 For her dead husband this hath mourn'd enough, 20
 In hating thee. Thou maist one like this meet;
 For spight take her, prove kinde, make thy breath sweet,
 Let her see she hath cause, and to bring to thee
 Honest children, let her dishonest bee.
 If shee be a widow, I'll warrant her 25
 Shee'll thee before her first husband preferre,
 And will wish thou hadst had her maidenhead;
 Shee'll love thee so, for then thou hadst bin dead.

But thou such strong love, and weake reasons hast,
 Thou must thrive there, or ever live disgrac'd. 30
 Yet pause a while; and thou maist live to see
 A time to come, wherein she may beg thee;
 If thou'lt not pause nor change, she'll beg thee now.
 Doe what she can, love for nothing shee'll allow.
 Besides, her(s) were too much gaine and merchandise, 35
 And when thou art rewarded, desert dies.
 Now thou hast odds of him she loves, he may doubt
 Her constancy, but none can put thee out.
 Againe, be thy love true, shee'll prove divine,
 And in the end the good on't will be thine: 40
 For thou must never think on other love,
 And so wilt advance her as high above

 'Tis vertue to be chaste, which shee'll make thee.

 Thus, till dry teares foulder mine eyes, I weepe;
 And then, I dreame, how you securely sleepe,
 And in your dreames doe laugh at me. I hate, 35
 And pray Love, All may: He pitties my state,
 But fayes, I therein no revenge should finde;
 The Sunne would shine, though all the world were blind.
 Yet, to trie my hate, Love shew'd me your teare;
 And I had dy'd, had not your smile beene there. 40
 Your frowne undoes me; your smile is my wealth;
 And as you please to looke, I have my health.
 Me thought, Love pitying me, when he saw this,
 Gave me your hands, the backs and palmes to kisse.
 That cur'd me not, but to beare paine gave strength, 45
 And what it lost in force, it tooke in length.
 I call'd on Love againe, who fear'd you so,

It returnes, who would have a losse for ever? 10
 Nor can so short a love, if true, but bring
 A halfe howres feare, with the thought of losing:
 Before it, all howres were hope; and all are
 (That shall come after it,) yeares of dispaire.
 This joye brings this doubt, whether it were more 15
 To have enjoy'd it, or have died before?
 T'is a lost paradise, a fall from grace,
 Which I thinke, Adam felt more then his race.
 Nor need those angells any other Hell;
 It is enough for them, from Heaven they fell. 20
 Besides, Conquest in love is all in all;
 That when I liste, shee under me may fall:
 And for this turne, both for delight and view,
 I'll have a Succuba, as good as you.
 But when these toyes are past, and hott blood ends, 25
 The best enjoying is, we still are frends.
 Love can but be friendshipps outside; their two
 Beauties differ, as myndes and bodies do.
 Thus, I this great Good still would be to take,
 Unless one houre, another happy make: 30
 Or, that I might forgett it instantlie;
 Or in that blest estate, that I might die.
 But why doe I thus travaile in the skill
 Of despis'd poetrie, and perchance spill
 My fortune? or undoe myself in sport 35
 By having but that dangerous name in Court?
 I'll leave, and since I doe your poet prove,

An Elegie.

TRue Love findes witt, but he whose witt doth move
 Him to love, confesses he doth not love:
 And from his witt, passions and true desire
 Are forc'd as hard, as from the flint is fire.
 My love's all fire whose flames my soule do nurse, 5
 Whose smokes are fighes; whose every sparke's a verse.
 Doth measure women win? Then I know why
 Most of our Ladies with the Scotts doe lie.
 A Scott is measur'd in each syllable, terse
 And smooth as a verse: and like that smooth verse 10
 Is shallow, and wants matter, but in his handes,
 And they are rugged; Her state better standes
 Whom dauncing measures tempted, not the Scott:
 In brief she's out of measure, lost, foe gott.
 Greene-sicknes wenchs, (not needes must but) may 15
 Looke pale, breathe short; at Court none so long stay.
 Good witt ne're despair'd there, or Ay me said:
 For never Wench at Court was ravished.
 And shee but cheates on Heaven, whom you so winne
 Thinking to share the sport, but not the sinne. 20

All paine and joy is in their way; 5
The things we feare bring lesse annoy
Then feare; and hope brings greater joy;
But in themselves they cannot stay.

Small favours will my prayers increase;
Granting my suit you give me all, 10
And then my prayers must needs surcease,
For, I have made your Godhead fall.

Beasts cannot witt nor beauty see,
They mans affections onely move;
Beasts other sports of love doe prove, 15
With better feeling farre than we.

Then Love prolong my suite, for thus
By losing sport, I sport doe win;
And that may vertue prove in us,
Which ever yet hath beene a sinne. 20

My comming neare may spee some ill,
And now the world is given to scoffe;
To keepe my Love, (then) keepe me off,
And so I shall admire thee still.

Say I have made a perfect choyce, 25
Satiety our Love may kill;
Then give me but thy face and voyce,
Mine eye and eare thou canst not fill.

To make me rich (oh) be not poore,
Give me not all, yet something lend, 30

And you at will doe lesse or more.

To Ben. Iohnson, 9. Novembris, 1603.

IF great men wrong me, I will spare my selfe;
 If meane, I will spare them. I know that pelf
 Which is ill got the Owner doth upbraid.
 It may corrupt a Iudge, make me afraid
 And a Iury; But 'twill revenge in this, 5
 That, though himselfe be judge, hee guilty is.
 What care I though of weaknesse men taxe me,
 I had rather sufferer than doer be.
 That I did trust, it was my Natures praise,
 For breach of word I knew but as a phraze. 10
 That judgement is, that surely can comprise
 The world in precepts, most happy and most wise.
 What though? Though lesse, yet some of both have we,
 Who have learn'd it by use and misery.
 Poore I, whom every pety crosse doth trouble, 15
 Who apprehend each hurt thats done me, double,
 Am of this (though it should sinke me) carelesse,
 It would but force me to a stricter goodnesse.
 They have great odds of me, who gaine doe winne,
 (If such gaine be not losse) from every sinne. 20

A pretty

A pretty summe, if God would sell his Word.
 He cannot; they can theirs, and breake them too.
 How unlike they are that they are likened to?
 Yet I conclude, they are amidst my evils,
 If good, like Gods, the naught are so like devils. 25

To S^r Tho. Roe 1603.

Deare Thom :

TELL her if she to hired servants shew
 Dislike, before they take their leave they goe;
 When nobler spirits start at no disgrace,
 For who hath but one minde, hath but one face:
 If then why I tooke not my leave she aske, 5
 Aske her againe why she did not unmaske?
 Was she or proud or cruell, or knew shee
 'Twould make my losse more felt, and pittied me?
 Or did she feare one kisse might stay for mee?
 Or else was she unwilling I should goe? 10
 I thinke the best, and love so faithfully
 I cannot chuse but thinke that she loves mee.
 If this prove not my faith, then let her trie
 How in her service I would fructifie.
 Ladies have boldly lov'd; bid her renew 15
 That decay'd worth, and prove the times past true.
 Then he whose wit and verse goes now so lame,
 With songs to her will the wild Irish tame.
 Howe'r, I'll weare the black and white ribband,
 White for her fortunes, blacke for mine shall stand. 20

I doe esteeme her favours, not their stufte;
 If what I have was given, I have enough:

 All my friends hate; for now, departing sad

But, as from extreme hights who downward looks,
 Sees men at childrens shapcs, Rivers at brookes,
 And loseth younger formes; so, to your eye,
 These (Madame) that without your distance lie,
 Must either mist, or nothing seeme to be, 15
 Who are at home but wits mere Atomi.
 But, I who can behold them move, and stay,
 Have found my selfe to you, just their midway;
 And now must pittie them; for, as they doe
 Seeme sick to me, just so must I to you. 20
 Yet neither will I vexe your eyes to see
 A sighing Ode, nor crosse-arm'd Elegie.
 I come not to call pittie from your heart,
 Like some white-liver'd dotard that would part
 Else from his slipperie soule with a faint groane, 25
 And faithfully, (without you smil'd) were gone.
 I cannot feele the tempest of a frowne,
 I may be rais'd by love, but not throwne down.
 Though I can pittie those sigh twice a day,
 I hate that thing whispers it selfe away. 30
 Yet since all love is fever, who to trees
 Doth talke, doth yet in loves cold ague freeze.
 'Tis love, but, with such fatall weaknesse made,
 That it destroyes it selfe with its owne shade.
 Who first look'd sad, griev'd, pin'd, and shew'd his paine, 35
 Was he that first taught women, to disdain.

As all things were one nothing, dull and weake,
 Vntill this raw disordered heape did breake,
 And severall desires led parts away,
 Water declin'd with earth, the ayre did stay, 40
 Fire rose, and each from other but unty'd,
 Themselves unprison'd were and purify'd:

So was love, first in vast confusion hid,
 An unripe willingnesse which nothing did,
 A thirst, an Appetite which had no ease, 45
 That found a want, but knew not what would please.
 What pretty innocence in those dayes mov'd?
 Man ignorantly walk'd by her he lov'd;
 Both sigh'd and enterchang'd a speaking eye,
 Both trembled and were sick, both knew not why. 50
 That naturall fearefulnesse that struck man dumbe,
 Might well (those times consider'd) man become.
 As all discoverers whose first assay
 Findes but the place, after, the nearest way:
 So passion is to womans love, about, 55
 Nay, farther off, than when we first set out.
 It is not love that sueth, or doth contend;
 Love either conquers, or but meets a friend.
 Man's better part consists of purer fire,
 And findes it selfe allow'd, ere it desire. 60
 Love is wise here, keepes home, gives reason fway,
 And journeys not till it finde summer-way.
 A weather-beaten Lover but once knowne,
 Is sport for every girle to practise on.
 Who strives through womans scornes, women to know, 65
 Is lost, and seekes his shadow to outgoe;
 It must bee sicknesse, after one disdaine,
 Though he be call'd aloud, to looke againe.
 Let others sigh, and grieve; one cunning sleight
 Shall freeze my Love to Christall in a night. 70
 I can love first, and (if I winne) love still;
 And cannot be remov'd, unlesse she will.
 It is her fault if I unsure remaine,
 Shee onely can untie, and binde againe.

But (madame) I now thinke on you ; and here
Where we are at our hights, you but appeare,
We are but clouds you rise from, our noone-ray
But a foule shadow, not your breake of day. 80

You are at first hand all that's faire and right,
And others good reflects but backe your light.
You are a perfectnesse, so curious hit,
That youngest flatteries doe scandall it.

For, what is more doth what you are restraine,
And though beyond, is downe the hill againe. 85

We have no next way to you, we crosse to it:
You are the straight line, thing prais'd, attribute;
Each good in you's a light; so many a shade
You make, and in them are your motions made. 90

These are your pictures to the life. From farre
We see you move, and here your Zani's are:
So that no fountaine good there is, doth grow
In you, but our dimme actions faintly shew.

Then finde I, if mans noblest part be love, 95
Your purest luster must that shadow move.

Elegie.

DEath be not proud, thy hand gave not this blow,
 Sinne was her captive, whence thy power doth flow;
 The executioner of wrath thou art,
 But to destroy the just is not thy part.
 Thy comming, terrour, anguish, grieve denounce; 5
 Her happy state, courage, ease, joy pronounce.
 From out the Christall palace of her breast,
 The clearer soule was call'd to endlesse rest,
 (Not by the thundering voyce, wherewith God threats,
 But, as with crowned Saints in heaven he treats,) 10
 And, waited on by Angels, home was brought,
 To joy that it through many dangers fought;
 The key of mercy gently did unlocke
 The doores 'twixt heaven and it, when life did knock.
 Nor boast, the fairest frame was made thy prey, 15
 Because to mortall eyes it did decay;
 A better witnesse than thou art, assures,
 That though dissolv'd, it yet a space endures;
 No dramme thereof shall want or losse sustaine,
 When her best soule inhabits it again. 20
 Goe then to people curst before they were,
 Their spoyles in Triumph of thy conquest weare.
 Glory not thou thy selfe in these hot teares
 Which our face, not for hers, but our harme weares,

IN that, ô Queene of Queenes, thy birth was free
From that which others doth of grace bereave,
When in their mothers wombe they life receive,

Probably by John Hoskins.

Absence heare my protestation
Against thy strengthe
Distance and lengthe,
Doe what thou canst for alteration:
For harts of truest metall
Absence doth joyne, and time doth fettle. 5

Who loves a Mistris of right quality,
His mind hath founde
Affections grounde
Beyond time, place, and all mortality: 10
To harts that cannot vary
Absence is present, time doth tary:

My Sences want their outward motion
Which now within
Reason doth win, 15
Redoubled by her secret notion:
Like rich men that take pleasure
In hidinge more then handling treasure.

Break of Daye.

Stanza prefixed to Donne's Poem (p. 23) in Stowe MS. 961 and in Edition of 1669.

Probably by John Dowlands.

Stay, O sweet, and do not rise,
 The light that shines comes from thine eyes;
 The day breaks not, it is my heart,
 Because that you and I must part.
 Stay, or else my joys will die, 5

SInce ev'ry Tree begins to blossome now
SPerfuminge and enameling each bow,
Hartes should as well as they, some fruits allow.
For since one old poore sunn serves all the rest,
You sev'rall sunns that warme, and light each brest
Doe by that influence all your thoughts digest.
And that you two may foe your vertues move,
On better matter then beames from above,
Thus our twin'd souls send forth these buds of love.
As in devotions men Joyne both there hands, 10
Wee make ours doe one A&t to seale the bands,
By which we enthrall ourselves to your commands,
And each for others faith and zeale stand bound:
As safe as spirits are from any wound,
Soe free from impure thoughts they shal be found. 15

Admit

Admit our magique then by which wee doe
 Make you appeere to us, and us to you,
 Supplying all the Muses in you twoe.

Wee doe confider noe flower that is sweet,
 But wee your breath in that exhaling meet, 20
 And as true types of you, them humbly greet.

Heere in our Nightingales we heere you finge
 Who foe doe make the whole yeare through a springe,
 And save us from the feare of Autumns stinge.

In Anchors calme face wee your smoothnes see, 25
 Your mindes unmingled, and as cleare as shee
 That keepes untoucht her first virginities.

Did all St. Edith nunns descend againe
 To honor Polefworth with their cloyfired traine,
 Compar'd with you each would confesse some stayne. 30

Or should wee more bleed out our thoughts in inke,
 Noe paper (though it woulde be glad to drinke
 Those drops) could comprehend what wee doe thinke.

For t'were in us ambition to write
 Soe, that because wee two, you two unite, 35
 Our letter should as you, bee infinite.

O Frutefull Garden.

O Frutefull garden, and yet never tilde,
 Box full of Treasure yet by noe man filde.
 O thou which haste, made him that first made thee;
 O neare of kinne to all the Trinitie;
 O Pallace where the kinge of all, and more;

 Reache him our Prayers, and reach us down his merrit;
 O bread of lyfe which sweld'ste up without Leaven;
 O bridge which joynst togethether earth and heaven; 10

 And through this flesh as thorough Cipres passe.
 Behould a little harte made greater by thee
 Swelling, yet shrinking at thy majestie.
 O dwell in it, for where foe ere thou go'st 15
 There is the Temple of the Holy Ghoste.

To my Lord of Pembroke.

FYE, Fye you sonnes of Pallas what madd rage
 Makes you contend that Love's, or God, or page?
 Hee that admires, his weaknes doth confesse;
 For as Love greater growes; foe hee growes lesse.
 Hee that disdaines, what honor wynds thereby, 5
 That he feels not, or triumphes on a fly?
 If love with queasie paine thy stomack move,
 Soe will a flutt whome none dare touch; or love.
 If it with sacred straines doe thee inspire
 Of Poetrie; foe wee maye want admire. 10
 If it thee valiant make, his ryvall hate
 Can out doe that and make men desperate.
 Yealdinge to us, all woemen conquer us,
 By gentlenes we are betrayed thus.
 We will not strive with Love that's a shee beaste; 15
 But playinge wee are bounde, and yeald in Jest;
 As in a Cobwebb toyle, a flye hath beene
 Undone; so have I some faine lover seene.
 Love cannot take away our strength, but tame,
 And wee lesse fee the thinge then feare the name; 20

Love is a temperate bath; hee that feeles more
 Heate or could there, was hott, or could before.
 But as Suñ beames which would but norishe, burne,
 Drawne into hollow Chrifall, foe we turne
 To fire her bewties Lustre willingly, 25
 By gatheringe it in our false treacherous eye.
 Love is nor you, nor you; but I a balme,
 Sword to the stiff, unto the wounded balme.
 Prayes noe thinge adds, if it be infinite,
 If it be nothing, who can lessen it? 30

Of a Lady in the Black Masque.

WHY chose shee black; was it that in whitenes
 Shee did Leda equal? whose brightnes
 Must suffer los to put a bewtie on
 Which hath no grace but from proportion.
 It is but Coullor, which to loose is gayne, 5
 For shee in black doth th'Æthiopian staine,
 Beinge the forme that beautifies the creature
 Her rareness not in Coullor is; but feature.
 Black on her receaves soe strong a grace
 It seemes the fittest beautie for the face. 10
 Coullor is not, but in æstimation,
 Faire, or foule, as it is stild by fashion.
 Kinges wearinge sackcloath it doth royall make;
 Soe black(ne)s from her face doth beautie take.
 It not in Coullor but in her, inheres, 15
 For what she is, is faire, not what she weares;
 The Moore shalle envye her, as much, or more,
 As did the Ladies of our Court before.
 The Sunn shall mourne that hee had westwarde beene,
 To seeke his Love; whilst shee i'th North was seene. 20

POEMS FROM THE BURLEY MS.

⟨Life.⟩

THIS lyfe it is not life, it is a fight
 That wee haue of y^e earth, y^e earth of vs;
 It is a feild, where fence & reason fight,
 The foules & bodies quarrells to discus;
 It is a iorney where wee do not goe, 5
 but fly wth speedy wings t'our blisse or woe.
 It is a chaine y^t hath but two fmale links
 Where⟨with⟩ o^r graue is to o^r bodie ioyned;
 It is a poyfned feast wherein who thinks
 To tast ioyes cup, y^e cup of death doth find. 10
 It is a play, presented in heauens eye,
 Wherein o^r parts are to do naught but dye.

⟨My Love.⟩

MY love doth fly wth wings of feare
 And doth a flame of fire resemble,

 yet ever more doth wane & tremble.

My loue doth see & still admire, 5
 Admiring breedeth humblenes;
 blind loue is bold, but my desire
 the more it loues p^{re}fumes y^e lesse.
 My loue seekes no reward or glory
 but wth it self it self contenteth, 10
 is never fullaine, never fory,
 never repyneth or repenteth.
 O'who the funne beames can behold
 but hath some passion, feeles some heat, for though the sunn himself be cold 15
 his beames reflecting fire begett.
 O y^e myne eyes, ô that myne hart
 Were both enlarged to contayne
 the beames & ioyes shee doth impart,
 whilst shee this bowre doth not disdayne; 20
 this bowre vnfit for such a guesste,
 but since she makes it now her Inn,
 Would god twere like her sacred breast

Twas lesse from nothing the world's all to growe 5
 Then all-Creato^{rs} height to stoope so lowe.
 A virgin mother to a child bredd wonder,
 T'was more a child should bee the God of thunder.
 Th'omnipotent was strangely potent heere
 To make the powerfull God pearelesse appeare. 10
 Hee in our body cladd, for our soules love
 Came downe to us, yet stay'd vnchanged above.
 Yet God through man shind still in this cleere brooke,
 Through meane shewes into maiesty wee looke.
 Sinnes price seemd payd with brasse, fewe sawe the gold,
 Yet true stones set in lead they lustre hold. 16
 His birth though poore, Prophets foretold his story,
 Hee breathd with beasts, but Angels sung his glory.
 Hee, so farr of, so weake, yet Herod quakes,
 The citty dreads, babes, murderd, feare mistakes. 20
 His Circumcision bore sinne, payne, and shame,
 Young bloud new budd, hence bloomd a sauiours name.
 His paynes and passion bredd compassion, wonder;
 Earth trembling, heavens darke, rocks rent asunder.
 His birth, life, death, his words, his workes, his face 25
 Shewd a rich Jewell shining through the case,
 Cast thus, since man at gods high presence trembles.
 Heere man mans troth loves whome his sheepe resembles.
 The bright Sunne beame a sickly eye may diſme,
 A little babe in shallow heart may swim. 30

 Rich harvest reaped in bloud and sowne in teares. 40

〈Absence.〉

WONder of Beautie, Goddesse of my sence,
You that have taught my soule to love aright,
You in whose limbes are natures chief expence
Fitt instrument to serve your matchlesse spright,
If ever you have felt the miserie 5
Of being banish'd from your best desier,
By Absence, Time, or Fortunes tyranny,
Sterving for cold, and yet denied for fier:
Deare mistresse pittie then the like effects
The which in mee your absence makes to flowe, 10
And haste their ebb by your divine aspect
In which the pleasure of my life doth growe:
Stay not so long for though it seem a wonder
You keepe my bodie and my soule asunder.

FINIS.

〈Tongue-tied Love.〉

FAire eies do not think scorne to read of Love
That to your eies durst never it presume,
Since absence those sweet wonders do(th) remove
That nourish thoughts, yet fence and wordes consume;
This makes my pen more hardy then my tongue,
Free from my feare yet feeling my desire,
To utter that I have conceal'd so long
By doing what you did yourself require.
Believe not him whom Love hath left so wise
As to have power his owne tale for to tell, 10
For childrens greefes do yield the loudest cries,
And cold desires may be exprest well:
In well told Love most often falsehood lies,
But pittie him that only fighes and dies.

 When shee that by thy powre sets not a fly
 Laughs thee to scorne and lives at liberty? 10
 Then if a God thou woulds accounted bee,
 Heale mee like her, or else wound her like mee.

〈Great Lord of Love.〉

GReate Lord of love, how busy still thou art
 To give new wounds and fetters to my hart!
 Is't not enough that thou didst twice before
 It so mangle
 And intangle 5
 By fly arts
 of false harts.
 Forbeare mee, Ile make love no more.
 Fy busy Lord, will it not thee suffice
 To use the Rhetorique of her tongue and eyes 10
 When I am waking, but that absent so
 They invade mee
 To perswade mee,
 When that sleepe
 Oft should keepe 15
 And lock out every fence of woe.

Doe I not know these Balls of blushing Red 5
 That on thy Cheekes thus amorously are spread?
 Thy snowy necke, those veynes upon thy Browe
 Which with their azure crincklinge sweetly bowe
 Are artificiall? Borrowed? and no more thine owne
 Then Chaines which on St. George's Day are showne, 10
 Are proper to the wearers? Yet for this
 I idole thee, and beg a luscious kisse.
 The fucus, and Ceruse, which on thy face
 Thy Cunnings hand layes on to add new Grace,
 Detaine me with such pleasing fraude, that I 15
 Finde in thy art, what can in nature Lie.
 Much like a painter that upon some Wall
 On which the radiant Sun-beames use to fall
 Paints with such art a Gilded butterflye
 That silly maides with slowe-moved fingers trye 20
 To Catch it, and then blush at their mistake,
 Yet of this painted flye most reckonyng make:
 Such is our state; since what we looke upon
 Is nought but Coullor and Proportion.
 Take me a face, as full of fraud and Lies 25
 As Gypsies in your cunning Lotteries,
 That is more false, and more Sophisticate
 Than are Saints reliques, or a man of state.
 Yet such being Glazed by the sleight of arte,
 Gains admiration, winning many a Harte. 30

Fragment of an Elegy.

And though thy glasse a burning one become
 And turne us both to ashes on her urne,
 Yet to our glory till the later day
 Our dust shall daunce like attomes in her ray.
 And when the world shall in confusion burne, 5
 And Kinges and peafantes scramble at an urne,
 Like tapers new blowne out wee happy then
 Will at her beames catch fire and live againe.
 But this is fence, and some one may-be glad
 That I so good a cause of sorrow had, 10
 Will wish all those whome I affect may dye
 So I might please him with an elegie.
 O let there never line of witt be read
 To please the living that doth speake thee dead;
 Some tender-harted mother good and mild, 15
 Who on the deare grave of her tender child
 So many sad teares hath beene knowne to rayne
 As out of dust would mould him up againe,
 And with hir plaintes enforce the wormes to place
 Themselves like veynes so neatly on his face, 20
 And every lymne, as if that they wer striving
 To flatter hir with hope of his reviving:
 Shee should read this, and hir true teares alone
 Should copy forth these sad lines on the stone
 Which hides thee dead, and every gentle hart 25
 That passeth by should of his teares impart
 So great a portion, that if after times
 Ruine more churches for the Clergyes crimes,
 When any shall remove thy marble hence,
 Which is lesse stone then hee that takes it thence, 30
 Thou shalt appeare within thy tearefull cell
 Much like a faire nymph bathing in a well.

Fragment of an Elegy. From P, where it appears as portion of an 'heroical epistle' from Lady Penelope Rich to Sir Philip Sidney: punctuation Ed.

But

But when they find thee dead so lovely fair,
Pitty and sorrow then shall straight repaire
And weepe beside thy grave with cipresse croud, 35
To see the second world of beauty dround,
And add sufficient teares as they condole
'Twould make thy body swimme up to thy soule.
Such eyes should read the lines are writ of thee;
But such a losse should have no elegie 40
To palliate the wound wee tooke in hir,
Who rightly grieves admittes no comforter.
He that had tane to heart thy parting hence
Should have beene chain'd to Bedlam two houres thence,
And not a friend of his ere shed a teare 45
To see him for thy sake distracted there,
But hugge himselfe for loving such as hee
That could runne mad with greefe for loosing thee.
I, haplesse soule, that never knew a friend
But to bewaile his too untimely end, 50
Whose hopes (cropt in the bud) have never come
But to sitt weeping on a fencelesse tombe,
That hides not dust enough to count the teares
Which I have fruitlesse spent in so few yeares,
I that have trusted those that would have given 55
For our deare Saviour and the Sonne of heaven
Ten times the vauw Judas had of yore,
Onely to sell him for three peeces more;
I that have lov'd and trusted thus in vaine
Yet weepe for thee, and till the clowdes shall daigne 60
To throw on Egypt more then Nile ere sweld,
These teares of mine shalbee unparellell'd.
He that hath lov'd, enjoy'd, and then beene croft,
Hath teares at will to mourne for what he lost;
He that hath trusted and his hope appeares 65
Wrong'd but by death may soone dissolve in teares;
But hee unhappy man whose love and trust
Nere met fruition nor a promise just,
For him (unlesse like thee hee deadly slepe)
'Tis easier to runn mad then 'tis to weepe; 70
And

And yet I can. Fall then yee mournefull showers,
 And as old time leades on the winged howers,
 Bee you their minutes, and let men forgett
 To count their ages from the plague of sweate,
 From eighty eight, the Poulder-plot, or when 75
 Men were affrayd to talke of it againe;
 And in their numerations be it sayd
 Thus old was I when such a teare was shed,
 And when that other fell a comett rose
 And all the world tooke notice of my woes. 80
 Yet finding them past cure, as doctores fly
 Their patientes past all hope of remedy,
 No charitable soule will once impart
 One word of comfort to so sicke a heart;
 But as a hurt deare beaten from the heard, 85
 Men of my shadow almost now affeard
 Fly from my woes, that whilome wont to greet mee,
 And well nigh thinke it ominous to meete mee.
 Sad lines go yee abroad; go saddest muse,
 And as some nations formerly did use 90
 To lay their sicke men in the street, that those,
 Who of the same disease had scapt the throwes,
 Might minister releefe as they went by
 To such as felt the selfsame malady,
 So haplesse lynes fly through the fairest land, 95
 And if ye light into some blessed hand,
 That hath a heart as merry as the shine
 Of golden dayes, yet wrong'd as much as mine,
 Pitty may lead that happy man to mee,
 And his experience worke a remedy 100
 To those sad fittes which (spight of nature's lawes)
 Torture a poore hart that out-lives the cause.
 But this must never bee, nor is it fitt
 An ague or some sickenes lesse then itt
 Should glory in the death of such as hee, 105
 That had a heart of flesh and valued thee.
 Brave Roman, I admire thee that would'st dy
 At no lesse rate then for an empery.

Some maffy diamond from the center drawne,
For which all Europ wer an equall pawne, 110
Should (beaten into duft) bee drunke by him
That wanted courage good enough to swimme
Through feas of woes for thee, and much defpife
To meet with death at any lower prize,
Whilst greefe alone workes that effect in mee, 115
And yet no greefe but for the loffe of the .
Fortune now doe thy worft, for I have gott
By this her death fo ftrong an antidote,
That all thy future croffes fhall not have
More then an angry fmile, nor fhall the grave
Glory in my laft day: thefe lines fhall give
To us a fecond life, and we will live
To pull the diftaffe from the hand of fate;
And fynn our own thrides for fo long a date,
That death fhall never feize upon our fame 125
Till this fhall perifh in the whole world's frame.

<Farewel, ye gilded follies.>

Farewel ye gilded follies, pleafing troubles,
Farewel ye honour'd rags, ye glorious bubbles;
Fame's but a hollow echo, gold pure clay,
Honour the darling but of one fhort day.
Beauty (th'eyes idol) but a damasked fkin, 5
State but a golden prifon, to keepe in
And torture free-born minds; imbroidered trains
Meerly but Pageants, proudly fwelling vains,

And blood ally'd to greatness, is a loane
 Inherited, not purchas'd, not our own. 10
 Fame, honor, beauty, state, train, blood and birth,
 Are but the fading blossomes of the earth.

I would be great, but that the Sun doth still
 Level his rayes against the rising hill :
 I would be high, but see the proudest Oak 15
 Most subject to the rending Thunder-stroke ;
 I would be rich, but see men too unkind
 Dig in the bowels of the richest mine ;
 I would be wise, but that I often see
 The Fox suspected whilst the As goes free ; 20
 I would be fair, but see the fair and proud
 Like the bright sun, oft setting in a cloud ;
 I would be poor, but know the humble grafs
 Still trampled on by each unworthy Affe :
 Rich, hated ; wise, suspected ; scorn'd, if poor ; 25
 Great, fear'd ; fair, tempted ; high, still envied more :
 I have wish'd all, but now I wish for neither,
 Great, high, rich, wise, nor fair, poor I'll be rather. "

Would the world now adopt me for her heir, "
 Would beauties Queen entitle me the Fair, 30

Command

Command bare heads, bow'd knees, strike Justice dumb
 As wel as blind and lame, or give a tongue
 To stones, by Epitaphs, be called great Master 35
 In the loose rhimes of every Poetaster;
 Could I be more then any man that lives,
 Great, fair, rich, wise in all Superlatives;
 Yet I more freely would these gifts resign
 Then ever fortune would have made them mine, 40
 And hold one minute of this holy leaseure,
 Beyond the riches of this empty pleasure.

Welcom pure thoughts, welcom ye silent groves,
 These guests, these Courts, my soul most dearly loves,
 Now the wing'd people of the Skie shall sing 45
 My cheerful Anthems to the gladsome Spring;
 A Pray'r book now shall be my looking-glasse,
 Wherein I will adore sweet vertues face.
 Here dwell no hateful looks, no Pallace cares,
 No broken vows dwell here, nor pale-faced fears, 50
 Then here I'll sit and sigh my hot loves folly,
 And learn t'affect an holy melancholy.
 And if contentment be a stranger, then
 I'll nere look for it, but in heaven again.
